Eli

Maureen will amend the form- I will be speaking next week at ALEC in New Orleans re: reorg.

I have a 12 minute time slot do you want to see my draft comments?

President Trump and Secretary Zinke want to modernize and transform the federal government

Their plans are both ambitious and much needed. We all need to do a much better job of providing great service to the American public – and that is our goal across all departments and all fronts

I'm honored to be the lead on a team to make that happen at the Department of the Interior- let me give you a bit of perspective

Our PRESENT STATE:

We are a land-based department with approx 480 M surface acres – and these are primarily in the Bureau of Land Mgmt, Fish & Wildlife Refuge systems and the National Park Systems.

As you contemplate how best to manage these vital natural resources- you have to be acutely aware of watersheds and ecosystems in order to provide the best management of these vast landscapes.

8 bureaus with 49 different regional boundaries- which are essentially NOT based on these two criteria- the bureaus were created over a 100 year period and there is a bewildering quilt with spaghetti like lines.

It makes inter bureau coordin and collab difficult – leading to sometimes years long delays in reaching decisions relating to land management. Building a power line, getting a decision on a permit...the array of folks that have to be consulted is complex.

Secretary decided it made good sense to reorganize all the regions into unified regions so the staffs of various bureaus would have same landscape – same regional boundaries to improve collaboration and be sure they were all using the same facts and the same geographic understanding.

Listened to stake holders from within and without the Department- over 300 + meetings- met with Congress – met with numerous governors and staffs – and received verbal and written feedback on HOW BEST TO DO THIS

These comments ultimately produced the map, after going through a science based iterative process in the map we are working from today- 12 regions for 8 bureaus.

What are the primary areas we are going to focus on starting from these newly unified regions:

EXTERNAL facing – Recreation, Collaborative conservation and permitting

---describe

INTERNAL- IT , HR and procurement—RFPs and data gathering

--Describe

FIRST PILOT IS ALASKA-small stats

SECOND – NEW REGION 7- Utah, Wyoming, Colo and NMexico

Starting small so we learn as we go – working with folks from these states who want to help design the road map

And we have to measure as we go – so we can course correct

Key is to be thoughtful, measured, and assess all options.

We are asking staff in the four states to be the drivers of change – they all have the expertise and knowledge base for this work- and their enthusiasm is high/.

We've made a commitment that the end result will be improved service for everyone who accesses the Department- whether you are already a valued employee in Interior, or someone who needs to find out how to access a national park, obtain a permit for grazing or camping, or build a power line across both federal and private or state land.

WE ARE GOING TO DRIVE DECISION MAKING OUT INTO THE FIELD—MAKING IT LESS DC CENTRIC- the folks on the ground are very well versed in the facts on the ground- and it is those facts which ultimately drive decision making across the varied missions of Interior.

ALEC EXISTS PRECISELY TO IMPROVE GOVERNANCE AT THE STATE LEVEL- AS A STATE LEGISLATOR IN TEXAS WE VALUED AND USED MANY ALEC MODELS

WE HOPE THE WORK WE DO HERE AT INTERIOR WILL IN ITS OWN TURN BE A MODEL FOR OTHER FEDERAL AGENCIES.

PLEASE DO STAY IN TOUCH WITH US – WE ALL WELCOME YOUR FEEDBACK – AND HOPE IN PARTICULAR TO ENGAGE WITH LEFGISLATORS I THE FOUR STATES I MENTIONED – WE WANT AND NEED YOUR INPUT.

THANKS FOR GIVING ME OPPTY TO SPEAK

Good morning Susan,

Wanted to provide this information in advance of Monday's meeting with the DOD. Attached provides the status and next steps of this Initiative; since funding will be addressed in the next phase of the process, e.g. when DOD and DOI start developing the implementation plans which involve more insight from the relevant regions and species experts, you'll just find in the attached that funding is part of next steps. The FWS is off to a good start.

Let us know if you more detail. Thank you.

Summary Overview

TOPIC: DOI/FWS and DOD Recovery and Sustainment Partnership Initiative

BACKGROUND: The Recovery and Sustainment Partnership Initiative (Initiative) Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the United States Department of Defense (DoD) and the United States Department of the Interior (DOI) was signed on June 22, 2018, by the Senior Advisor to the Secretary Exercising the Authority of the Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife and Parks and on June 25, 2018, by the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Energy, Installations, and Environment. The MOU establishes a mutually beneficial partnership to develop and promote effective ecosystem and species conservation and recovery initiatives that will reduce or eliminate the need for federal protection and regulation under the ESA and provide for increased flexibility for military mission activities.

The Initiative seeks to facilitate decision making for species review and down/de-listing where warranted through existing regulatory processes; identify and establish collaborative conservation initiatives to move species towards recovery and/or preclude the need to list additional species; and develop innovative regulatory approaches and tools for achieving ESA objectives in a manner consistent with military mission needs and objectives.

Good afternoon,

The Congressional Affairs Update for this week is attached.

This week, bipartisan legislation was introduced by House Natural Resources Chairman Bishop and Ranking Member Grijalva that would fund the Department of the Interior's deferred maintenance backlog, including projects of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

In addition, the House passed the FY 19 NDAA conference report, which did not include a number of provisions of interest to the Service that had been in the House-passed bill. The Senate is expected to vote on the conference report next week.

Today, the Service is testifying at a field hearing in Kentucky to discuss efforts to control Asian carp.

The House adjourned for a five-week recess; the Senate is expected to be in session most of August.

Have a good weekend,

Angela

UPDATES ON LEGISLATION OF INTEREST

Bipartisan House Legislation Introduced to Fund Service Deferred Maintenance Backlog

On Wednesday, July 25, House Natural Resources Committee Chairman Rob Bishop (R-UT-1) and Ranking Member Raul Grijalva (D-AZ-3) introduced H.R. 6510 to fund the Department of Interior's deferred maintenance backlog. The Restore Our Parks and Public Lands Act would dedicate a portion of revenue collected from energy development on federal public lands to fund deferred maintenance projects of the National Park Service, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Bureau of Land Management, and the Bureau of Indian Education..

House Passes FY 2019 NDAA Conference Report

On Thursday, July 26, the House voted 359-54 to adopt the fiscal year 2019 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) conference report, which is the result of House and Senate conferees reconciling differences between the NDAA bills passed by each chamber. The conference report does not include provisions of interest to the Service from the House-passed NDAA, including sections to prohibit listing of the greater sage grouse and lesser prairie chicken for ten years; delist the American burying beetle; make permanent certain land withdrawals including for Desert NWR; allow the administrative transfer of up to 5,000 acres of land between the Departments of the Interior and Defense; and move the implementation of the Sikes Act from the Service to the Department of the Interior. The conference report does include a provision amending the Marine Mammal Protection Act to extend the period of incidental take authorization requests from five to seven years; this was negotiated down from the 10 year authorization in the House-passed bill. The Senate is expected to vote on the report next week.

See here to view the conference report.

House Passes Legislation Addressing Marine Debris

On Wednesday, July 25, the House of Representatives approved by voice vote S. 756, the Save Our Seas Act, as amended. The bill, which passed the Senate in August 2017, would reauthorize the Marine Debris Act through 2022 at $12 million per year. The bill also amends the Marine Debris Act to include the Departments of the Interior and State as members of the Interagency Marine Debris Coordinating Committee.

House Adjourns for Recess

On Friday, July 27, the House of Representatives adjourned for a five-week recess, expected to return on Tuesday, September 4. The Senate is expected to take only a single week of recess from August 6-10.

HEARINGS AND MARKUPS OF INTEREST

House Subcommittee Discusses Grazing on Federal Land

On Tuesday, July 24, the House Oversight and Government Reform Subcommittee on Interior, Energy, and Environment held an oversight hearing entitled “Preserving Opportunities for Grazing on Federal Land.” Chairman Greg Gianforte (R-MT-AL) discussed how grazing on federal lands complements other uses, including recreation. He also discussed the challenges that ranchers with federal grazing permits face, highlighting litigation related to environmental laws such as the National Environmental Policy Act and Endangered Species Act. Ranking Member Stacey Plaskett (D-USVI-AL) stressed the value of environmental statues in grazing management, discussing the impacts of grazing on recovery of endangered bighorn sheep and the cultural importance of bighorn sheep to tribes. See here for more information.

FWS Testifies at Field Hearing on Asian Carp

On the afternoon of Friday, July 27, the House Oversight and Government Reform Subcommittee on Interior, Energy, and Environment will hold a field hearing in Kentucky to discuss federal efforts to control invasive Asian carp in Kentucky. Allan Brown, Assistant Regional Director for Fish and Aquatic Conservation, Southeast Region, will testify on behalf of the Service. See here for more information.

Will you go back over the bureau priority goals with your contacts and have to me by Friday noon the status of all of the items for your respective areas? These are the areas that we have gone over before, such as active forest management, increased recreation etc.

Also, let's set up a time next week for the respective bureaus to go over the metrics we established a while back (can't remember when!) and see how we are doing with those too.

Thanks.

Susan

USFWS Accomplishments – CY 2018 (4/11/2018)

Create a conservation stewardship legacy second only to Teddy Roosevelt.

- FWS is implementing the several Secretarial Orders designed to expand access and information for hunting, angling and outdoor recreation, including Secretarial Order 3356 on hunting, fishing, and recreational shooting. Accomplishments include:
 - Reassigning 12 FWS employees across the country to work full time on hunting and fishing access issues and regulatory assessments with the goal of better aligning with state regulations and opening another 186,500 acres by this fall, and identifying more than 250,000 total new acres by the end of the calendar year.
 - Focusing on making information on hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation on public lands more accessible to the public, while supporting state's recruiting, retention, and reactivation efforts.
 - Planning to propose elimination of over 1,400 lines of unnecessary and overly restrictive hunting and fishing regulations, and simplify another 700 in the next 60 days.
 - Working with state and federal partners to help implement the recent (February) Secretarial Order 3362 – emphasizes identifying key migration habitat for big-game species; and facilitating migration across federal, state and private lands.
- Endangered Species Act
 - Final delisting: Eureka Valley evening-primrose <https://www.doi.gov/blog/eureka-rare-wildflower-pulled-brink-extinction>
 - Final downlisting: Eureka dune grass
 - Proposed delisting:
 - Monito gecko
 - Kirtland's Warbler <https://www.doi.gov/blog/michigans-bird-fire-rises-ashes>
 - Black-Capped Vireo
 - Foscett Speckled Dace
 - Proposed downlisting:
 - Humpback chub
 - Nene (Hawaiian Goose) <http://usfwspacific.tumblr.com/post/172417973280/hawaiiis-state-bird-is-on-the-road-to-recovery>
- Final Rule revision to the Federal Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp Regulations to more prominently feature the contribution of hunters to conservation https://www.fws.gov/news/ShowNews.cfm?ref=federal-duck-stamp-theme-will-celebrate-the-conservation-achievement-of--&_ID=36234
- Announced more than $1.1 billion in grants to state wildlife agencies from revenues generated by the Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Restoration and Dingell-Johnson Sport Fish Restoration (PRDJ) acts. <https://www.doi.gov/pressreleases/secretary-zinke-announces-more-than-11-billion-sportsmen-conservation>

- Hosted the first meeting of the Secretary's International Wildlife Conservation Commission (IWCC) on March 16, 2018.
- Hosted the meeting of the Sport Fishing and Boating Partnership Council Meeting with new guidance under the priorities of Secretary Zinke.

Restore trust and be a good neighbor.

- Under a new and far-reaching state-federal partnership, the health and well-being of the endangered red-cockaded woodpecker is tied to the U.S. Marine Corps mission at Camp Lejeune. An agreement between FWS, the military, the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation and the state of North Carolina allows Lejeune to expand training through prime woodpecker territory. In return, the so-called Recovery and Sustainment Program, or RASP, should boost the woodpecker population across eastern North Carolina.
<https://www.fws.gov/southeast/articles/marines-and-woodpeckers-share-the-high-ground/>
- While proposing to list the Louisiana pine snake as a threatened species under the ESA, FWS also proposed a special rule under section 4(d) of the law that will allow protections to be tailored to those that provide the greatest benefit to the snake and limits the regulatory burden on the forestry community, allowing most traditional management practices to remain in place.
- Announced a $60 million cooperative agreement with the Recreational Boating and Fishing Foundation (RBFF) to help retain and recruit recreational anglers and boaters.
<https://www.doi.gov/pressreleases/secretary-zinke-announces-more-than-11-billion-sportsmen-conservation>
- Announced $14 million in Boating Infrastructure Grants (BIG) which support water-related outdoor recreation and tourism by improving facilities for large transient recreational boats across the country. <https://www.doi.gov/pressreleases/secretary-zinke-announces-more-than-11-billion-sportsmen-conservation>
- Launched the Nature's Good Neighbors campaign, a series of stories showcasing public partners who are acting as conservationists across the country. www.fws.gov/natures-good-neighbors/

Strike a regulatory balance.

- Submitted to OMB proposed revisions to Sections 4 and 7 regulations of the ESA. These changes are part of the FWS' ongoing efforts to improve implementation of the ESA so that it is clear, consistent and flexible to the greatest extent possible, and encourages collaborative conservation from a broad range of partners.
- Reversed the previous administration's M-Opinion on the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and modified policies to ensure consistency with the new Opinion. The M-Opinion concludes that the take of birds resulting from an activity is not prohibited by the MBTA when the underlying purpose of that activity is not to take birds.

- Secretarial Order 3355 on streamlining National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) reviews and implementation of EO 13807 was signed August 31, 2017. FWS issued a memo in December recommending actions to streamline the NEPA process in accordance with SO 3355, including development of additional guidance and training, as well as streamlining internal review processes. FWS has stood up a team to implement the EO.

Modernize our infrastructure.

- The FY19 budget included a legislative proposal to establish a new Public Lands Infrastructure Fund to help pay for repairs and improvements in national parks, national wildlife refuges and BIE schools. FWS maintenance backlogs exceeding $1.4 billion will now be addressed by this administration after lacking appropriate consideration under the prior administration.
- Congress passed hurricane supplemental included $210 million for FWS to repair and restore hurricane damaged infrastructure following Hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria

Reorganize DOI for the next 100 years.

- FWS is realigning our Budget and Administration (BA) operations nationwide under a single chain of command, known as Joint Administrative Operations (JAO). This realignment will improve customer service and save American taxpayers $8 million annually beginning in FY 2018.

Achieve our goals and lead our team forward.

- FWS presented last year's Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey (FEVS) results to employees and developed internal strategy to increase response rate and highlight actions we are taking to increase scores. FWS was among the highest scoring in DOI and in upper tiers of US government.
- The FWS Anti-Harassment Action Plan was approved by the Department and in April we will begin present the plan to employees in mid-April with the launch of a new hotline and other tools to combat unacceptable harassment in the workplace.

2018 Policy goals

- 1002 exploration and issue permits

- Status update for completion of the Environmental Assessment of Seismic Activities on the Coastal Plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge
 - June 25 – Arctic Refuge forwarded draft “Affected Environment” Chapter to BLM
 - July 10-17 – BLM forwarded the proposed action to the seismic applicant for review
 - July 20 – FWS forwarded “Issue Statements” to BLM for consideration and analysis
 - Ongoing - BLM and interdisciplinary team drafting best management practices, alternatives, and environmental impacts analysis
- Next planned milestones:
 - Mid-August – Post draft EA for 30-day comment period (internal review period for BLM and FWS)
 - Late-September – Interdisciplinary team completes Response to Comments
- Status update for completion of the Environmental Impact Statement to implement an oil and gas leasing program within the Coastal Plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge
 - June 9-12 – BLM and Cooperating Agencies (including FWS) participated in Alternatives Development Workshop in Anchorage
 - July 24 – Scoping phase completed with BLM’s release of the Final Scoping Report

 - October/November – Public Review/Comment Period

- MBTA changes

- Received a RIN for preparation of a regulation that defines the scope of the MBTA as it applies to conduct resulting in take of protected migratory birds.
- We are awaiting a decision from the Solicitor's office on (b) (5)

- ESA Sections 4, 7 & reforms

- ESA section 4 and 7 regulations published in FR 7/25/18
 - Revisions of the Regulations for Listing Species and Designating Critical Habitat (Section 4).
 - Revision of the Regulations for Prohibitions to Threatened Wildlife and Plants (Section 4(d)).
 - Revision of Regulations for Interagency Cooperation (Section 7).
- (b) (5)

- Mitigation Policy reforms

In late 2017, FWS released two mitigation policies for public comment: 1) Agency-Wide Mitigation Policy and 2) Endangered Species Act Compensatory Mitigation Policy. FWS received 217 and 191 public comment, respectively.

- Notices withdrawing 2016 Service-wide mitigation and compensatory mitigation policies delivered to the FR 7/24/18

- Hunting & Fishing Chiefs to open 250,000 acres

The FWS continues to support S.O. 3347 and S.O. 3356 by finding opportunities to increase access on FWS managed lands for hunting and fishing by opening or expanding opportunities on NWR lands. The Refuge-Specific Hunting and Sport Fishing Rule is proposed on an annual basis and published in the Federal Register for comment and final publication. The 2018-2019 Refuge Specific Hunting and Sport Fishing Rule proposes to open three National Wildlife Refuges (NWRs) to hunting, opening one NWR to sport fishing, increasing hunting activities available at 26 NWRs, and increasing sport fishing activities at four NWRs. With this rule, FWS is proposing to open or expand an additional 248,000 acres to hunting and sport fishing on 30 NWRs in the 2018-2019 season.

The 2018-2019 Refuge-Specific Hunting and Sport Fishing Proposed Rule was published on May 29, 2018; the 30-day comment period closed on June 28, 2018. Over five hundred comments were received, with most in support of hunting and fishing. These comments are being reviewed, responded to and/or changes may be made in the final regulation. The 2018-2019 hunting and fishing rule will be prepared for final publication in the Federal Register by August 30, 2018.

In addition to 248,000 acres of new or expanded regulatory hunting and fishing opportunities, the Refuge System is increasing access administratively on an additional 14,337 acres. The chiefs of hunting and fishing completed a preliminary desk audit review of all existing Service hunting and sport fishing regulations for alignment to state regulations on NWRs and National Fish Hatcheries (NFH). Field visits are now underway. By August 1st, 2018, 153 assessments will be complete; additional assessments will be completed weekly. These assessments are identifying opportunities for new and expanding existing hunting and fishing opportunities.

- Refuge Maintenance Backlog

To date, approximately $3.9 million of the FY2018 Deferred Maintenance (DM) and construction allocation has been obligated.

The enacted FY 2018 FWS line-item construction budget of $9.1 million is supporting large projects and ongoing national dam, seismic, and radio site safety inspections. Projects include $5.1 million for dam safety repairs, $2.2 million for the first phase to rehabilitate the Tiglax research ship, $1 million for repairs to mission critical fish production facilities, a $0.8 million contaminant cleanup, and $0.2 million for demolitions that will reduce the building footprint by more than 8,800 square feet.

Within the FY 2018 FWS construction budget, the Service was appropriated $50 million in additional funds for deferred maintenance and construction projects which funded 86 projects. $26.2 million was allocated to support outdoor recreation or access on refuges, $13.4 million to repair mission critical fish hatchery and endangered species restoration facilities, $6.4 million for habitat restoration and flood protection, and $4 million for facilities to support energy dominance through oil exploration.

The FWS DM backlog was $1.4 billion at the end of FY 2017. The FWS goal is to reduce the total backlog to $1.35 billion by the end of FY18.

Refuge System deferred maintenance backlog was $1.21 billion at the beginning of FY 2018. Progress is being made in addressing the DM backlog through proactive preventative maintenance, which is the most cost effective and efficient way of addressing maintenance, and through efficient use of the DM, storm supplemental and the additional construction funding for DM provided in FY18. The FWS goal is to reduce the Refuge System backlog to $1.16 billion by the end of FY18.

- King Cove land exchange
 - Beginning in May 2018, FWS R7 has had regularly scheduled meetings with the King Cove Corporation to exchange information regarding the land exchange process and facilitate the exchange. The teleconferences occur approximately every two weeks.

- FWS R7 Realty Officer is in frequent communication with the Appraisal and Valuation Services Office (AVSO) to ensure the appraisal process is completed correctly, timely, and in full cooperation with both the AVSO and BLM. Many of the steps related to the land exchange fall within the scope and authorities of both the AVSO and BLM.
 - FWS R7 facilitated the recent BLM survey of the proposed road corridor in order to move the preliminary steps forward in the appraisal process.
 - FWS R7 is communicating regularly with the State of Alaska DOT regarding permitting and timing of actions related to geotechnical work and environmental surveys.
 - FWS R7 is coordinating with the Solicitor's office and DOJ to ensure ongoing litigation is taken into account during all our processes.
- Bison Range
 - CCP/EIS process is streamlined to comply with SO 3355; anticipated delivery date for ROD is April 26, 2019. In September 2018, Service leadership will be meeting with members of CSKT Council, Grand Portage Band of Chippewas, and the National Park Service to hold discussions about successful self-governance agreements and other partnership opportunities in September.
- State FWS Commissioner Summit:
 - Canceled. Although on FWS's to do list, FWS had not consulted with the state Directors. The idea for Summit with State Directors (of Fish and Game or Wildlife) and State Commissioners was proposed by a State Commissioner while in a meeting with the Secretary, who thought it was a good idea. There are about 400 Commissioners, who are state employees. As FWS reached out to the states and Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies (AFWA), they were not generally supportive unless FWS could better articulate expected outcomes. Also, FWS determined that having a summit would be huge and very expensive.
 - There are two major conferences each year where these state commissioners generally attend. For that reason, this Summit was canceled.

July 27, 2018

Deferred maintenance legislative fix

- Compromise/bipartisan deferred maintenance bill, S.3172 - Restore Our Parks Act, introduced by Senator Portman (16 co-sponsors).
- On July 11, a hearing on S.3172 was held in the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, Subcommittee on Parks.
- On July 25, a House version was introduced by Congressmen Bishop and Grijalva. H.R. 6510 (55 co-sponsors) differs from the Senate version as it expands beyond NPS maintenance backlog to include FW, BLM, and BIA.

Use NEPA Catexs

- The NPS is creating two new bureau specific categorical exclusions to streamline environmental compliance for non-federal oil and gas rights, and one new categorical exclusion for access, maintenance, and vegetation management by the NPS within existing rights-of-way. The new categorical exclusions will be submitted to OEPC by late July 2018.
- The NPS has expanded its use of categorical exclusions service wide. The NPS NEPA Handbook was revised to remove guidance that barred the use of categorical exclusions if effects were greater than “minor” and replaced with guidance stating that categorical exclusions should be used as long as the action fits and no extraordinary circumstances apply.
- On July 2, 2018, the NPS briefed OEPC and the Office of the Deputy Secretary on revisions to the NPS NEPA Handbook to incorporate guidance from SO 3355 and the subsequent April 27, 2018, memos issued by the Deputy Secretary. The proposed revisions were accepted and the NPS is currently making changes. A revised Handbook will be available after the new EA guidance is issued by the Department to allow the NPS to incorporate that information as well.

- In the fall, a revised Handbook will be available after the new EA guidance is issued by the Department to allow the NPS to incorporate that information as well.

Finalize anti-harassment plan to add greater accountability

- The NPS Anti-harassment action plan was submitted in January 2018, approved by DOI in March 2018, and released in April 2018.
- The NPS submitted its required quarterly report to DOI on June 29, 2018.
- The NPS will continue to track its progress and will report quarterly as required.

National Mall time, place, and use regulations

- A working group comprised of staff from the Office of the Secretary, Office of the Solicitor, Nation Capital Region, National Mall and Memorial Parks, President's Park, and NPS Division of Regulations prepared a 78-page draft proposed rule.
- The proposed rule has been reviewed and surnamed by SOL, NPS, and the Senior Advisor to the Secretary. The rule is now with the Office of the Secretary for review and signature by the Deputy Secretary.
- In addition to the proposed rule, the group prepared an economic analysis, a visual impact study, and a cultural resources evaluation supporting the proposed changes.

Superintendent rotation plan

- On July 6, Dan Smith and Susan Combs signed the decision memo on the NPS Superintendent Development Plan.
- The Plan was forwarded to the Deputy Secretary's office.
- On July 24, the Deputy Secretary requested a budget and timeline. The NPS is working on this and will submit as soon as possible.

Culture shift

- The new Deputy Ethics Counselor, Caitlin Rogalski, began work on June 25, 2018.
- The NPS posted a job announcement for the three of the ten GS-14 Associate Ethics Counselor positions on July 16, 2018. The job announcement closes on July 27, 2018.
- The NPS anticipates posting the remaining seven GS-14 Associate Ethics Counselor positions by August 1, 2018.

Increase recreation access

- Alaska Hunting Rule:
 - The public comment period, originally scheduled to close on July 23, has been extended to September 6.
 - The final rule is anticipated to be published in the Federal Register late November.
 - As of July 27, almost 100,000 comments have been received.
- Transporting Bows and Crossbows Across NPS System Units Rule:
 - The final rule was signed by the Senior Advisor to the Secretary and is with the Office of the Secretary for development of a communications plan and approval to print in the Federal Register. The rule should published by early August; 40 comments were received during the public comment period.
- Secretarial Order 3366
 - On July 17, NPS finalized and submitted its response to S.O. 3366.
 - By August 1, NPS will complete its plan to conduct a comprehensive assessment of opportunities to enhance or expand outdoor recreation in these parks. This builds on the initial list of recreational opportunities in 170 parks that NPS submitted on June 15.
 - The Regional Directors have identified a recreation lead for each region to work with the park and Washington Office to conduct the assessments
- Made in America Advisory Committee

- On July 17, the Made in America Advisory Committee held their first meeting. The Committee selected a chair and identified subcommittees. NPS will be assisting the Chair and the subcommittees with their start-up work in advance of an expected next meeting in November 2018.
- The Regulatory Agenda for the NPS contains 12 rulemakings which will increase recreation access:
 - Hot Springs National Park: Bicycle Use
 - Buffalo National River: Bicycle Use
 - Whiskeytown National Recreation Area: Bicycle Use
 - Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore: Snowmobiles
 - Big Cypress National Preserve: Off-Road Motor Vehicles
 - Gulf Islands National Seashore: Personal Watercraft
 - Death Valley National Park; Designation of Airstrip
 - Colonial National Historical Park; Non-Motorized Vessels
 - Fire Island National Seashore; Off-Road Motor Vehicles
 - Cape Lookout National Seashore; Off-Road Motor Vehicles
 - Glen Canyon National Recreation Area; Off-Road Motor Vehicles
 - Pea Ridge National Military Park; Bicycle Use

Achieve tangible public private partnership projects

- The complete review of authorities and practices currently available for the NPS will be completed by fall, pending Solicitor review, which will be utilized in the development and execution of P3 infrastructure efforts and provide preliminary thoughts on potential enhancements to these authorities and practices.
- The NPS is completing necessary background work to host an “Industry Day” in Bar Harbor, Maine, in the fall for the potential construction of employee housing at Acadia National Park. This would be done through the utilization of an existing authority to enlist private sector funding and potential operations.

Active forest management policies

- In FY 2018, the NPS has treated over 187,000 acres using the following methods: broadcast burns, chemical treatment, chipping, hand piles, hand pile burns, jackpot burns, lop and scatter, mastication, mowing, and thinning.
- The following metrics are in place to track progress: invasive plant management acreage, restoration-based fuel treatment, number of acres treated by prescribed fire, percentage of DOI acres that have achieved desired conditions where condition is known, percentage of baseline areas infected with target invasive species that are under control, and percentage of invasive animal species populations that are under control.
- NPS Branch of Wildland Fire developed a geospatial structural assessment tool that can overlay fuels treatments and NPS values at risk. This enables us to determine the location and distance between structures and fuels treatments that fall inside NPS boundaries.
- FY 2018 Year-to-date information:
 - Prescribed Fire acres - 179,234
 - Mechanical Fuel acres - 6,864
 - Structures with reduced risk - 1,403 (structures within ½ mile of fuels treatment)
 - As of July 24, the NPS reported 17 “Type 14” fires in the Wildland Management Information System for a total of 11,813 acres in FY18. Type 14 fires are those that start on NPS land and the management goal is other than full suppression, or when the conditions dictate a limited suppression response. Most of those occurred in the SER and we added one fire in Zion since last report.

THE DEPUTY SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR
WASHINGTON

JUL 23 2018

Memorandum

To: Assistant Secretaries
Heads of Bureaus and Offices
NEPA Practitioners

From: Deputy Secretary

Subject: Reporting Costs Associated with Developing Environmental Impact Statements

Purpose

This memorandum provides guidance to yield greater transparency by capturing the estimated costs to develop and produce EIS documents prepared by the Department's Bureaus and Offices when serving as the lead Agency.¹ A standard description of cost estimates will assist Bureaus in determining how to appropriately focus resources, diagnose problems, find opportunities to improve project planning, and be used to meet the Agency Performance Accountability System requirements established under Executive Order 13807.

Scope

This memorandum applies to all proposed actions for which the Department, including any of its Bureaus or Offices, is the lead Agency and has published a Notice of Intent (NOI) to prepare an EIS. For purposes of this memorandum, "environmental review costs" include the lead Agency's personnel, contractors, or other direct costs associated with project authorization and NEPA compliance, but do not include the estimated costs incurred by cooperating Agencies.² "Environmental review costs" also include the lead Agency's costs associated with complying with laws other than NEPA, such as the Endangered Species Act or the National Historic Preservation Act, that are necessary for the lead Agency to authorize the proposed action evaluated by the EIS.

Directive

Upon the effective date of this memorandum, all Bureau or Office-led Draft, Supplemental, and Final EISs shall display the estimated environmental review costs associated with developing and producing the EIS, to that point in the NEPA process, on the EIS cover page according to the following guidance:

I. Cost Tracking and Reporting Guidance

1. For ongoing proposed actions, lead Bureaus or Offices shall make a good faith estimate of past incurred environmental review costs;
2. To facilitate an estimate, each lead Bureau or Office shall begin tracking environmental review costs once it has determined that it will prepare an EIS to evaluate a proposed action;³ and
3. Each lead Bureau or Office shall continue to track environmental review costs until it issues a final decision on the proposed action evaluated by the EIS.

II. Developing a Cost Estimate

1. Lead Bureaus and Offices shall track the costs of their full-time equivalent (FTE) personnel hours, contractor costs, and other direct costs related to the proposed action and associated environmental review.
2. Lead Bureau and Office FTE hours should include an estimate of the cost of time spent by:
 - a. the project management team responsible for the proposed action;
 - b. subject matter experts who participate in a portion of the review;
 - c. managers or supervisors who have delegated responsibility over or direct oversight of the proposed action and EIS; and
 - d. attorneys who review documents pertaining to the proposed action.
3. Contractor costs should include:
 - a. the direct costs associated with a lead Bureau or Office employing a contractor to develop an EIS or other environmental reviews;
 - b. any additional contractor costs; and
 - c. any additional third-party costs that were necessary to complete the EIS or other environmental reviews that were not directly billed to the contractor.

III. Calculating Time and Costs

1. Lead Bureaus or Offices shall calculate a proposed action's environmental review costs by totaling the lead Agency's direct and contractor costs and rounding that number to the nearest thousand-dollar figure.⁴ Department financial and administrative systems

may be used to track such costs.⁵

2. Lead Bureaus and Offices may calculate FTE costs by estimating, or by reporting tracking system data, the amount of applicable staff time spent on an environmental review and multiply those hours by the Bureau or Office's average hourly rate.

$$\text{FTE Costs} = \text{Total estimated FTE hours} \times \text{Average FTE Hourly Rate}$$

3. Lead Bureau, Office, and applicant-funded contractor costs of producing or reviewing an EIS and other environmental reviews should be totaled and added to Bureau or Office FTE costs as described above.

$$\text{Contractor Costs} = \text{Bureau/Office contractor expenses} + \text{applicant contractor expenses} + \text{FTE costs devoted to applicant document review} + \text{additional third-party costs}$$

4. Lead Bureaus and Offices shall total FTE and contractor costs, and any other direct costs associated with preparing an EIS and other environmental reviews, rounded to the nearest thousand-dollar figure, and prominently display the total costs on the EIS cover page at the Draft, Supplemental, and Final EIS stage.

$$\text{Total Costs} = \text{FTE Costs} + \text{Contractor Costs}$$

IV. Cost Reporting

1. The Lead Bureau or Office shall enter environmental review costs into the NEPA and Permit Tracking Database (Database) at the Draft EIS, Supplemental EIS, and Final EIS stages and include the total estimated costs on the covers of the Draft EIS, Supplemental EIS, and Final EIS. Please see Attachment 1 for the template language and placement of total estimated costs on EIS cover pages.
2. No later than 30 days after the publication or issuance of the final Agency decision or action on the project, the Lead Bureau or Office shall total its estimated environmental review costs and upload them into the Database.

Judicial Review

This guidance establishes internal Department guidelines only. It does not create any rights, substantive or procedural, legally enforceable by any party.

⁵ Work Breakdown Structure (WBS) coding may be used for applicable proposed actions, even if costs accrue across budget cycles. These codes can be used in the Department's time and attendance tracking system, QuickTime; travel approval and voucher system, Concur; and financial systems, including Federal Business Management Systems (FBMS) to assist with the calculation of authorization and environmental review costs associated with each project.

Summary of Contents

1. Filer's Positions Held Outside United States Government

Part 1 discloses positions that the filer held at any time during the reporting period (excluding positions with the United States Government). Positions are reportable even if the filer did not receive compensation.

This section does not include the following: (1) positions with religious, social, fraternal, or political organizations; (2) positions solely of an honorary nature; (3) positions held as part of the filer's official duties with the United States Government; (4) mere membership in an organization; and (5) passive investment interests as a limited partner or non-managing member of a limited liability company.

2. Filer's Employment Assets & Income and Retirement Accounts

Part 2 discloses the following:

- Sources of earned and other non-investment income of the filer totaling more than $200 during the reporting period (e.g., salary, fees, partnership share, honoraria, scholarships, and prizes)
- Assets related to the filer's business, employment, or other income-generating activities that (1) ended the reporting period with a value greater than $1,000 or (2) produced more than $200 in income during the reporting period (e.g., equity in business or partnership, stock options, retirement plans/accounts and their underlying holdings as appropriate, deferred compensation, and intellectual property, such as book deals and patents)

This section does not include assets or income from United States Government employment or assets that were acquired separately from the filer's business, employment, or other income-generating activities (e.g., assets purchased through a brokerage account). Note: The type of income is not required if the amount of income is $0 - $200 or if the asset qualifies as an excepted investment fund (EIF).

3. Filer's Employment Agreements and Arrangements

Part 3 discloses agreements or arrangements that the filer had during the reporting period with an employer or former employer (except the United States Government), such as the following:

- Future employment
- Leave of absence
- Continuing payments from an employer, including severance and payments not yet received for previous work (excluding ordinary salary from a current employer)
- Continuing participation in an employee welfare, retirement, or other benefit plan, such as pensions or a deferred compensation plan
- Retention or disposition of employer-awarded equity, sharing in profits or carried interests (e.g., vested and unvested stock options, restricted stock, future share of a company's profits, etc.)

4. Filer's Sources of Compensation Exceeding $5,000 in a Year

Part 4 discloses sources (except the United States Government) that paid more than $5,000 in a calendar year for the filer's services during any year of the reporting period.

The filer discloses payments both from employers and from any clients to whom the filer personally provided services. The filer discloses a source even if the source made its payment to the filer's employer and not to the filer. The filer does not disclose a client's payment to the filer's employer if the filer did not provide the services for which the client is paying.

5. Spouse's Employment Assets & Income and Retirement Accounts

Part 5 discloses the following:

- Sources of earned income (excluding honoraria) for the filer's spouse totaling more than $1,000 during the reporting period (e.g., salary, consulting fees, and partnership share)
- Sources of honoraria for the filer's spouse greater than $200 during the reporting period
- Assets related to the filer's spouse's employment, business activities, other income-generating activities that (1) ended the reporting period with a value greater than $1,000 or (2) produced more than $200 in income during the reporting period (e.g., equity in business or partnership, stock options, retirement plans/accounts and their underlying holdings as appropriate, deferred compensation, and intellectual property, such as book deals and patents)

This section does not include assets or income from United States Government employment or assets that were acquired separately from the filer's spouse's business, employment, or other income-generating activities (e.g., assets purchased through a brokerage account). Note: The type of income is not required if the amount of income is $0 - $200 or if the asset qualifies as an excepted investment fund (EIF). Amounts of income are not required for a spouse's earned income (excluding honoraria).

6. Other Assets and Income

Part 6 discloses each asset, not already reported, that (1) ended the reporting period with a value greater than $1,000 or (2) produced more than $200 in investment income during the reporting period. For purposes of the value and income thresholds, the filer aggregates the filer's interests with those of the filer's spouse and dependent children.

This section does not include the following types of assets: (1) a personal residence (unless it was rented out during the reporting period); (2) income or retirement benefits associated with United States Government employment (e.g., Thrift Savings Plan); and (3) cash accounts (e.g., checking, savings, money market accounts) at a single financial institution with a value of $5,000 or less (unless more than $200 of income was produced). Additional exceptions apply. Note: The type of income is not required if the amount of income is $0 - $200 or if the asset qualifies as an excepted investment fund (EIF).

7. Transactions

Part 7 discloses purchases, sales, or exchanges of real property or securities in excess of $1,000 made on behalf of the filer, the filer's spouse or dependent child during reporting period.

This section does not include transactions that concern the following: (1) a personal residence, unless rented out; (2) cash accounts (e.g., checking, savings, CDs, money market accounts) and money market mutual funds; (3) Treasury bills, bonds, and notes; and (4) holdings within a federal Thrift Savings Plan account. Additional exceptions apply.

8. Liabilities

Part 8 discloses liabilities over $10,000 that the filer, the filer's spouse or dependent child owed at any time during the reporting period.

This section does not include the following types of liabilities: (1) mortgages on a personal residence, unless rented out (limitations apply for PAS filers); (2) loans secured by a personal motor vehicle, household furniture, or appliances, unless the loan exceeds the item's purchase price; and (3) revolving charge accounts, such as credit card balances, if the outstanding liability did not exceed $10,000 at the end of the reporting period. Additional exceptions apply.

9. Gifts and Travel Reimbursements

This section discloses:

- Gifts totaling more than $390 that the filer, the filer's spouse, and dependent children received from any one source during the reporting period.
- Travel reimbursements totaling more than $390 that the filer, the filer's spouse, and dependent children received from any one source during the reporting period.

For purposes of this section, the filer need not aggregate any gift or travel reimbursement with a value of $156 or less. Regardless of the value, this section does not include the following items: (1) anything received from relatives; (2) anything received from the United States Government or from the District of Columbia, state, or local governments; (3) bequests and other forms of inheritance; (4) gifts and travel reimbursements given to the filer's agency in connection with the filer's official travel; (5) gifts of hospitality (food, lodging, entertainment) at the donor's residence or personal premises; and (6) anything received by the filer's spouse or dependent children totally independent of their relationship to the filer. Additional exceptions apply.

Privacy Act Statement

Title I of the Ethics in Government Act of 1978, as amended (the Act), 5 U.S.C. app. § 101 et seq., as amended by the Stop Trading on Congressional Knowledge Act of 2012 (Pub. L. 112-105) (STOCK Act), and 5 C.F.R. Part 2634 of the U. S. Office of Government Ethics regulations require the reporting of this information. The primary use of the information on this report is for review by Government officials to determine compliance with applicable Federal laws and regulations. This report may also be disclosed upon request to any requesting person in accordance with sections 105 and 402(b)(1) of the Act or as otherwise authorized by law. You may inspect applications for public access of your own form upon request. Additional disclosures of the information on this report may be made: (1) to any requesting person, subject to the limitation contained in section 208(d)(1) of title 18, any determination granting an exemption pursuant to sections 208(b)(1) and 208(b)(3) of title 18; (2) to a Federal, State, or local law enforcement agency if the disclosing agency becomes aware of violations or potential violations of law or regulation; (3) to another Federal agency, court or party in a court or Federal administrative proceeding when the Government is a party or in order to comply with a judge-issued subpoena; (4) to a source when necessary to obtain information relevant to a conflict of interest investigation or determination; (5) to the National Archives and Records Administration or the General Services Administration in records management inspections; (6) to the Office of Management and Budget during legislative coordination on private relief legislation; (7) to the Department of Justice or in certain legal proceedings when the disclosing agency, an employee of the disclosing agency, or the United States is a party to litigation or has an interest in the litigation and the use of such records is deemed relevant and necessary to the litigation; (8) to reviewing officials in a new office, department or agency when an employee transfers or is detailed from one covered position to another; (9) to a Member of Congress or a congressional office in response to an inquiry made on behalf of an individual who is the subject of the record; (10) to contractors and other non-Government employees working on a contract, service or assignment for the Federal Government when necessary to accomplish a function related to an OGE Government-wide system of records; and (11) on the OGE Website and to any person, department or agency, any written ethics agreement filed with OGE by an individual nominated by the President to a position requiring Senate confirmation. See also the OGE/GOVT-1 executive branch-wide Privacy Act system of records.

Public Burden Information

This collection of information is estimated to take an average of three hours per response, including time for reviewing the instructions, gathering the data needed, and completing the form. Send comments regarding the burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to the Program Counsel, U.S. Office of Government Ethics (OGE), Suite 500, 1201 New York Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20005-3917.

Pursuant to the Paperwork Reduction Act, as amended, an agency may not conduct or sponsor, and no person is required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number (that number, 3209-0001, is displayed here and at the top of the first page of this OGE Form 278e).

Hi Susan,

Hope your doing well!!

I realized your out of the office but wanted to give you advanced notice regarding tomorrow's Public Policy Executive Roundtable meeting with the Secretary. It would be wonderful if you could attend, but understand if you're unable to.

Attached below is the list of attendees that will be there. Also attached the FAQ's that were previously listed on the website, yet modified to state 12 common regional boundaries where it said 13 before. The other attachment is a 1 pager on reorganization.

I understand we are updating the website and FAQ's, however I would want to provide the attached info with 12 Common Regional boundary map at the meeting. Would that be okay?

I appreciate your feedback!

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

Regions & Reorganization Rationale

Why do you want to reorganize Interior?

We need to:

- Plan for the next 100 years of land and water management.
- Shift resources to the field; less emphasis on Washington, D.C.
- Improve coordination across our bureaus, and other agencies.
- Empower the field to make it easier to resolve conflicts and be more responsive to the public on regional resource issues.

What's included in Interior's reorganization?

- Establish unified regional boundaries for Interior's bureaus.
- Designate Interior Regional Directors to coordinate our bureaus in unified regions.
- Begin planning for shared services.
- Start shifting some of BOR, BLM and FWS headquarters staff west.

Why is Interior changing long-standing regional boundaries?

- We want to provide better management on an ecosystem basis to include critical components such as wildlife corridors, watersheds, and trail systems. The USGS has provided draft regional boundaries based on watersheds as a template. By having common regional boundaries based on natural features like ecosystems and watersheds we can improve interagency coordination and citizen service, since all of our executives within a given region will be in the same time zone have a shared geographic understanding.
- Our objectives are to:
 - Reduce administrative redundancy and jurisdictional and organizational barriers to citizen service
 - Share resources more effectively
 - Devote a greater percentage of our budget to the field and to our core missions
 - Improve coordination among federal, state and local agencies
 - Facilitate joint problem-solving and effective decision-making
 - Make more decisions at the region, fewer in DC
 - Increase responsibility, resources, personnel and authority in the field

How did you choose the initial proposed unified boundaries?

- Took a science-based approach looking at watersheds and ecosystems.
- Proposed boundaries generally following county lines in these areas.
- Have asked for employee, State, and Congressional input.
- Informal discussions held with Tribes. Formal consultations are occurring this summer.
 - Tribal consultation dates and locations.
- Plan for a final decision on common boundaries following input and Tribal consultation.

Will there be a centralized place within each region at which the bureaus will co-locate?

- We are looking to identify potential regional hub cities to facilitate coordination and co-location of the bureaus.

Will there be a pilot of the new common region concept? If so, where, when, and what will be its scope?

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

- The current idea is to launch the concept in Alaska first, since it is a single time zone and state, most bureaus are active there, all existing regional offices are already in the same city, and there is only one state government with which to interact.
- Another region in the Southwest U.S may be identified as a pilot.

When would the new boundaries take effect?

- If Congress approves the necessary reprogramming request, we will then need to take some internal administrative actions, but we expect the boundaries for the twelve new common regions will take effect in FY 2019.

When will the common regions be fully implemented?

- It will take several years, because there are lots of details that will need to be worked out over time.

Will all bureaus be affected by the new boundaries?

- Generally yes, but since BOEM and BSEE are focused on activity in the marine environment, they will be the least affected. BLM will keep their State Directors in place.
- Formal tribal consultation is being held to determine the appropriate level of BIA and BIE involvement.

How can I get involved?

- Provide comments/feedback to reorg@doi.gov.

Job Security and Relocations

Will people lose their jobs due to the reorganization?

- Our desire is for no one to lose their job as a result of the reorganization. Some fraction of the small number of people who are given new assignments in a different geographic area may choose to voluntarily leave Interior instead.

Will DOI run a Reduction in Force (RIF) to accomplish the reorganization?

- We have absolutely no plans to run a RIF.

Will there be early outs and buyouts to facilitate the reorganization?

- To the extent OMB and OPM authorize us to use early outs and buyouts we may consider doing so.

Is the only reason we're doing a reorg to downsize the Department?

- No. While the increased efficiencies realized from the reorg will eventually reduce the number of staff positions required to run the Department and fulfill our mission, that is not the goal.
- The goal of the reorg is to take a big-picture look at our spending and find opportunities to make the Department more efficient through shared services and streamlined processes while providing better service to our customers and fulfilling the mission. We want to make the most of every dollar we get from Congress, ensuring program money goes to program activities, rather than the back office.
- We anticipate staffing levels to go down primarily through attrition. We are not planning a RIF.

When will the new regional hub cities be identified?

- Nothing has been finalized yet, we're looking at lot of options. Nothing can happen until Congress approves the new, unified boundaries, but we're working to be able to hit the ground running as soon as that happens.

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

Does this initiative require the reassignment of any personnel (e.g., will the current Regional Director positions be changed)?

- Generally no. We will want to make sure that there is eventually one regional leader in place in each region, and more broadly, that there is at least one senior executive in each region. In one or two instances, that may involve the near-term change in duty station of someone now in the SES.

Will employees be forced to relocate?

- Our goal is to make this process as painless as possible. Our preference is to gradually phase in any necessary geographic reassignment of personnel to minimize disruption to the current workforce. People most likely to be affected will be those in agency headquarters offices in the Washington DC metropolitan area. People working in field offices are the least likely to be affected.

Will bureau headquarters functions be moved as a result of the reorganization?

- The FY19 President's budget proposes to move a small number of headquarters positions in BLM and FWS west to an as yet unidentified location in order to gradually establish western headquarters for those agencies. In addition, a few more headquarters positions in the Bureau of Reclamation, whose headquarters is largely already in the Denver metropolitan area, may be moved to that city.

Will everyone in the FWS or BLM headquarters be required to move out West?

- No, although over a period of years we expect to move the majority of FWS/BLM headquarters functions out West.

How will the reorg (moving open positions to new regional hubs, co-location, etc.) and the introduction of Interior Regional Directors impact career advancement opportunities? To get a promotion (e.g., by taking a new job with a higher career ladder) will I have to move?

- Co-locating offices in regional hubs will provide greater opportunities for advancement and lateral development at all levels. The transitions to regional hubs will take time. At this time, the Department anticipates a gradual shift to regional hubs as vacancies occur and are opened in the regional hub cities.

Interior Regional Directors (IRDs)

Who will serve as Interior Regional Directors for these new regions? Will this affect their position description? If there are multiple bureau RDs within a new Region, to whom will existing staff report?

- Interior Regional Directors will be career members of the SES, and this may vary from common region to common region. They will have position descriptions created that describe their responsibilities within the new region.
- Their particular responsibilities and therefore their position description may vary a bit from region to region as a function of the DOI work that is taking place within each region.
- Bureaus will continue to have bureau Regional Directors and their bureau field level chains of command will continue to report to them.
- Supervisors in individual bureaus will continue to report to a Regional Director for certain specified programmatic and administrative activity, and to their bureau director in headquarters on those matters not within the scope of responsibilities of the regional leader.

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

Interior Regional Directors will be put in place to address inter-bureau conflict. What kinds of conflicts are sparking this change?

- Overlapping responsibilities and geographic frames of reference often create unnecessary confusion for citizens, businesses, and government. Let's say you have a trout and a salmon in the same stream. It happens all the time. Upstream you have a dam, downstream you use it for irrigation, and that stream passes by a Forest Service holding. The salmon are actually managed by the Department of Commerce through the National Marine Fisheries Service. The trout are managed by the Fish and Wildlife Service. Upstream, water temperature and flows are generally managed by the Army Corps of Engineers, unless it's a hydropower plant and then it's Bureau of Reclamation. Navigating this complex environment can be unduly difficult and time-consuming for all stakeholders. One goal of the reorganization is to create mechanisms within the Department to streamline communications and decision making.

Are IRDs going to be rotated? How frequently?

- The IRD is not intended to be a long-term appointment for an individual. Whether that means someone becomes an IRD and serves in that position in many regions or if the position rotates among existing Regional Bureau Directors is still being discussed.

What will be the scope of responsibilities for each Interior Regional Director?

- The responsibilities will be to coordinate a specified set of mission and administrative functions that are common to more than one bureau within the region. The particular responsibilities will likely vary from region to region, as a function of the work of the bureaus within a given region.
- The IRD will not have line authority or budget authority. They are there to convene, mediate, and help prod things along within the region, as needed.
- IRDs will also be responsible for the supervision and administration of shared services within the region.

What authority will the new common regions have versus the existing structure? Will the new Interior Regional Director be the responsible office for construction projects, records, procurement, and other activities conducted by staff currently located in another regional office? How will this work? For example, if a current project or program is in the NPS Midwest Region, managed out of Omaha, and the project now is in the DOI Great Lakes-Ohio region, where would the management happen?

- In general, activities or functions common to more than one bureau will be under the direction of the Interior Regional Director in that region. For major projects that are already underway it may be prudent to make exceptions on a case-by-case basis. As existing office space leases expire, staff associated with a regional office function will gradually migrate to the identified regional hub city in each newly designated region. That process may take years to play out, as some leases will not expire for another decade.

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

What will be the role of bureau directors and assistant secretaries after the reorganization?

- Bureau directors and assistant secretaries will continue to have authority over national policy, budget, personnel, training, uniforms, workforce planning and related functions, as well as line authority over mission areas that are unique to particular bureaus.
- IRDs will exist in a parallel structure, but they do not change the existing authorities or chains of command within bureaus.

Who will be in charge of each common region?

- The IRDs will be in charge of the shared resources and responsible for ensuring projects involving multiple bureaus proceed appropriately, intervening only when necessary to resolve conflict or drive forward stalled projects.

If the Interior Regional Director is not from my bureau, how can he or she make responsible decisions affecting my program?

- The Interior Regional Director will be able to consider the advice of each bureau's chain of command within the common region.

Will the Interior Regional Director control all decisions of all bureaus in the common region?

- No. The IRD will not be responsible for programmatic decisions or policy. That stays with the bureaus. The IRD comes in when bureaus need to work together and the process is getting bogged down. They are there to facilitate joint problem-solving and effective decision making on the part of the bureaus.

Will front line supervisors in bureau field offices report to a different boss as a result of the new regional boundaries?

- No, existing chains of command should stay the same.

What happens when an issue arises impacting multiple regions? Will it be up to the IRD to resolve the issue? Will the Secretary get involved?

- The goal of the unified regions proposal and the IRDs is to resolve the issue at the lowest possible level. IRDs and regional bureau directors will be able to work together across regions, as appropriate.

Who will the IRD report to? What if the Bureau Director disagrees with the IRD's decision? What are the appeal/elevation processes?

- The IRDs will report directly to the Deputy Secretary. Existing chains of command within bureaus will not be impacted
- If a bureau director doesn't agree with the IRD or has concerns, they can still raise the issue with their assistant secretary who can decide on next steps.

Bureaus often produce conflicting decisions or recommendations because they serve different missions. How will IRDs resolve this as ultimately, bureau staff are still accountable to their specific mission?

- Conflicts will be resolved on a case-by-case basis. The role of the IRD is not to disavow or ignore the mission of any bureaus, rather IRDs are there to facilitate a problem-solving environment among regional bureau directors to discover the best way to move forward. IRDs can help facilitate regular and frequent communication and coordination among bureaus.

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

With the introduction of the Interior Regional Director role, it feels like bureaus and field staff are losing their seat at the table in Washington. Will bureau regional directors still have influence in Washington with decision makers?

- There will be no change to the chain of command. Bureau regional directors will continue to be able to raise issues with their chain of command to bureau directors and assistant secretaries.

How Will Unified Regions Work?

Has the Department established standard operating procedures, MOAs, chains of command or organization charts on how the current structure will work within the new regional map?

- Not yet, but we're working on developing the standard operating procedures and org charts. We'll have more information for you as these plans are finalized.

How will the bureau Regional Directors coordinate with counterparts in other bureaus in the same region?

- Bureau Regional Directors will have their traditional authorities and upward reporting relationships for programs and functions not specified as being within the purview of the Interior Regional Director. For those program and functions that they share with other bureaus within that region, they can and should coordinate with each other, but they will be ultimately responsible to the regional leader within that region.

Considering most DOI bureaus have fewer than 12 regions, this would increase the number of managers. Would this require hiring more managers?

- Not all bureaus may have leadership in each new region. If a regional director's current jurisdiction is split across multiple new regions, they may virtually "cover" all those regions.
- During the first year or so of the transition period, it is more likely that a single executive might have responsibilities in more than one region. Over time, it is likely that the total number of bureau regional directors will increase so that all regions where a bureau has a significant presence have a senior manager located in that region. However, some of the new regional directors might be GS-15s or GS-14s, as opposed to SESers, if their bureau's presence in the new region is relatively minor.

What if the project, agreement, or plan was previously within one region, but is now split between two or more regions?

- In these situations, the region that is designated the lead region will be the one whose staff and expertise is best positioned to bring the project, agreement, or plan to a successful completion.

How will a bureau deal with stakeholders (including state and tribal governments) that were previously within one region, but are now split between two or more virtual regions?

- Tribal governments will have one BIA Regional Director and one Interior Regional Director with whom they might interact, depending on the issue. In some cases a state may find itself in more than one of the new regions. While at first blush that might seem problematic, decades of experience in the Bureau of Reclamation and Army Corps of Engineers indicates that the arrangement works.

How will the new regional boundaries affect how employees do their jobs every day in the field?

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

- The new boundaries should have very little impact on field operations, except that field level employees can expect more leadership support for taking steps to coordinate more closely with employees in their sister bureaus or other federal agencies that affect our mission in the field.

Changing regions will change the expertise we have at our disposal. My field office currently reports to a regional office in another state. After the reorg it looks like we would report somewhere else that doesn't know our issues. How will the Department ensure institutional knowledge is preserved and applied appropriately?

- This transition take place over time. The people your office currently works with will still be available for consultation throughout the transition period.

Does the Department expect each bureau to be represented in each region? How will this work for bureaus that have limited or no responsibilities in a region (e.g., OSM in the insular region)?

- We do not expect that every bureau will have a regional director in each new region; we will let existing programmatic responsibilities be the determining factor in that regard.

Will the common regions lead to closing of any national parks, wildlife refuges, national fish hatcheries, or BIA agency offices?

- No. There are absolutely no plans to close any parks, refuges, hatcheries or BIA agencies. The reorg is about streamlining administrative processes so we can maximize service delivery to our customers and service to the mission.

How will the new DOI common regional boundaries affect other agencies like USFS, NMFS, EPA, and the Army Corps of Engineers?

- We will invite other agencies to co-locate with us or designate liaison officers to each of our common regions.

How will the bureau Regional Directors coordinate with other bureau Regional Directors within their same bureau?

- Bureaus will continue to have routine meeting of headquarters and regional leadership, and coordinate with each other routinely in order to accomplish their missions.

Different regions have different priorities (e.g., invasive species vs. wildland fire prevention, etc.). Will priorities be the same for all regions, or will there be flexibility?

- While the President and the Secretary will set national goals for the Department, bureau directors will continue to have the ability to apply and interpret policies and priorities, as appropriate, within their regions.

Shared Services

What services will be shared?

- We are looking at sharing HR, IT, procurement, realty and valuation services, aviation, and cultural resources services across bureaus within each region. We are also considering the value of joint permitting, law enforcement, recreation, personnel administration, and environmental compliance activities.

How will this impact bureau and office budgets?

- We expect that shared services will reduce administrative redundancies by sharing core back-office services across bureaus, maximizing the use of program dollars for program activities.

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

- Every dollar saved on back-office costs is another dollar programs can use to support their missions.

How will this impact employee access to core services (HR, IT, etc.)

- Our goal is to improve efficiency while maintaining or improving customer services. Employees should not experience a decrease in service accessibility or quality.

There will still be issues that go to DC (via direct appeal to Congressmen, politics, etc. or other reasons), so is the IRD really a necessary position? Isn't this just adding an extra layer of unnecessary managers?

- Our goal is not to stop issues from being elevated to DC. Our goal is to empower regional and field offices with the resources and authority to address local issues at the local level.

My bureau/office reorganized recently and it didn't go well. How is this a better solution?

- Hopefully we've learned from that experience and this will go better. Our team is actively researching best practices from both private industry and government for evidence-based solutions.

How will the reorganization affect fire organizations?

- Wildland fire management is an excellent example of shared services at the Department. They will likely serve as a model as the Department looks to create more shared services opportunities.

Tribal Issues

Will there be tribal consultations before the new boundaries are finalized?

- Yes. BIA is currently planning tribal consultation activities to take place as soon as possible. John Tahsuda, Principal Deputy Acting Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs is leading the consultation process.
- Consultation dates and locations.

As these regions were designed to address ecosystem-based management, how would this reorganization address tribal needs and help DOI fulfill trust responsibilities?

- Indian reservations exist in unique geographic areas, and while the topography within large reservations may span more than one ecosystem, a management perspective that is based on natural features and regional control rather than administrative boundaries with primary reporting relationships to Washington DC should result in better decisions for everyone, Indian and non-Indian, living in a geographic area.

What about Navajo? The new draft regional boundaries split Navajo between two regions.

How will this impact service delivery to the Navajo Nation?

- The Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, John Tahsuda, will be holding tribal consultations the coming months to discuss this issue directly with the Navajo Nation and other tribes.
 - Tribal consultation details.

Frequently Asked Questions about the DOI Reorganization

- Regardless of whether or not BIA participates in the unified regions, the reorganization will reduce the number of distinct regions the Navajo Nation would interact with for other bureaus. Currently, the Navajo Reservation is serviced by three different BLM state directors, two Bureau of Reclamation regions and two Fish & Wildlife Service regions--all using different boundaries. Moving to a unified region model will simplify tribal interactions with the rest of the Department and provide a mechanism for conflicting bureau decisions to be resolved more quickly by local staff rather than elevating the issue to Washington.

Gulf Of Mexico Oil Lease Sale August.

The AP (7/13) reports that "the federal government's Aug. 15 oil and gas lease sale in the Gulf of Mexico will offer slightly more acreage than officials originally announced." A news release Thursday stated "the government's final notice of sale is offering 78 million acres (31.6 million hectares)," which is "about 700,000 acres (280,000 hectares) more than described in March."

Reuters (7/12, Gardner) reports that "i is the third sale in the agency's 2017-2022 program, which aims to hold 10 sales in all." Vincent DeVito, an adviser to Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke, said the sale "is just one piece of the administration's comprehensive effort to secure our nation's energy future."

Also reporting is the New Orleans Advocate (7/12).

Nascent American Industry Could Fully Arrive Under Trump.

Saying that "offshore wind is on the brink of arrival," E&E Publishing (7/12, Rahim) reports that "a year and a half into the Trump administration, with upheaval all around the U.S. energy world, offshore wind is benefiting from an oddly cooperative dynamic between states and the federal government." As some observers in the offshore wind industry note, "it would have been easy for the Trump administration to barricade the regulatory process, whether by denying permits or just stalling." However, the article says, "it appears the Trump administration has been attracted to offshore wind not for the reason states like it — climate — but because it fits their brand of 'energy dominance.'"

House Democrats Want To Keep Interior Official From Working With Former Clients.

CNN International (7/12, Wallace, Ganim) reports that "House Democrats are raising concerns that expanding the Interior Department's ability to transfer water infrastructure would create new conflicts of interest.” Rep. Jared Huffman “proposed an amendment on Thursday to the Reclamation Title Transfer Act that would bar the government from transferring dams, canals and other water management infrastructure to Deputy Secretary David Bernhardt’s former clients.” Bernhardt said in a statement “that he has committed to avoiding conflicts of interest with his former clients.” He said, “I take my ethics agreement seriously and Mr. Huffman is fully aware that I am currently recused from participating personally and substantially in any particular matter involving specific parties where a former client is a party or my former law firm represents a party in a particular matter involving a specific party.”

How A Tycoon And Pence Friend Helped 2 Ranchers Get Pardons.

In continuing coverage, the New York Times (7/12, Turkewitz) reports on the story of Oregon ranchers Dwight and Steven Hammond, who were serving five-year sentences for arson before President Trump pardoned them on Tuesday – pardons, the Times says, that Vice President Pence helped secure. Forrest Lucas, an Indiana oil products tycoon and “friend of Vice President Mike Pence,” recent met with the vice president “in a lavish suite at the home the Indianapolis Colts football team: Lucas Oil Stadium.” There, the two “discussed a range of issues over the years, so when Mr. Lucas mentioned the Hammonds, Mr. Pence listened.” David Duquette, a close aide to Lucas, said, “We’re very lucky that my boss has been friends with the vice president. ... That makes it easier for us to get our issues looked at.” According to the Times, Pence’s staff “examined the case, Mr. Duquette said, and then it moved to the president’s office.” A Pence aide, however, “gave a slightly different version of events, explaining that the vice president learned the details of the Hammond case from Representative Walden, ‘agreed it deserved consideration,’ and suggested the congressman take it to the president.” The aide, “who declined to be identified, would not comment on whether Mr. Lucas influenced that decision.”

Additional coverage is provided by The Hill (7/12, Wise) and BuzzFeed (7/12, Petersen, Bensinger, Hernandez).

Enviros Look To Halt Road In Alaska Land Swap Suit.

Law360 (7/12, Guarnaccia) reports that a coalition of environmental groups on Wednesday asked U.S. District Judge Timothy M. Burgess to award summary judgment in their lawsuit challenging the Interior Department’s “approval of a land swap deal that would facilitate the construction of a road across a national wildlife refuge, arguing the agency failed to follow proper review procedures and adhere to environmental impact requirements.”

Explainer: Drought Creates A Perfect Storm For Wildfires In U.S. West.

Reuters (7/12, Hay) reports that “bigger and more ‘explosive’ wildfires are raging across the U.S. West,” with 3.3 million acres burned so far in U.S. forests, “just below the figure for this time in 2017.” According to the article, “what’s driving the wildfires is exceptional drought conditions in large areas of Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado.” In addition, “rising average temperatures in the West are also stoking fires.”

4 Rangers From Van Buren Receive Valor Award For Saving Lives In 2017 Flood.

KFVS-TV Cape Girardeau, MO (7/12, Long) reports that “four National Park Service Rangers from Van Buren, Missouri were awarded the Valor Award for their heroic actions saving 30 lives during the historic floods of 2017.” Joshua Gibbs, Patrick Johnson, Lindel Gregory, and Daniel Newberry received the awards. Rep. Jason Smith said, “When historic flooding hit southern Missouri last year, these four brave Rangers risked their lives to navigate treacherous waters and rescue civilians from oncoming destruction. Their heroic actions saved the lives of 30 stranded men, women, and children as entire houses were swept away. The tremendous life-saving efforts by Joshua Gibbs, Patrick Johnson, Lindel Gregory, and Daniel Newberry have made the entire state of Missouri proud, and I am glad to see these brave men from Van Buren receive the recognition

Bureau Of Indian Affairs

Tribe Can't Revisit DOI Casino Land Ruling In 9th Circ.

Law360 (7/12, Lidgett) reports that "a Ninth Circuit panel on Thursday denied a request by the Cachil DeHe Band of Wintun Indians of the Colusa Indian Community that it rethink its ruling backing the U.S. Department of the Interior's decision to acquire land for another California tribe's casino project." Without explanation, the court "unanimously denied the petition for rehearing from the Cachil DeHe Band."

Tribe, Township Butt Heads Over Taxes For 130 Acres Of Farm Land.

MLive \(MI\) (7/12, Kransz) reports that Gun Lake Tribe and Hopkins Township leaders are clashing "over the tribe's desire to place 130 acres off the tax rolls for future development and governance." Hopkins Township recently petitioned the Bureau of Indian Affairs "to strike down the Gun Lake Tribe proposal to place 130 acres in the township into trust for non-gaming purposes." Hopkins Township Supervisor Mark Evans "claims the tribe already has enough trusted land in Allegan County and that the township would lose tax dollars and local planning control."

Bureau Of Land Management

Oops! Federal Officials Divulge Secret Info About Native American Artifacts.

Reveal (7/12, Oldham) reports that "federal officials mistakenly published confidential information on locations and descriptions of about 900 ancient cliff dwellings, spiritual structures, rock art panels and other Native American antiquities in Utah." The Bureau of Land Management "posted a 77-page report online that included unique identifiers for priceless artifacts as it prepared to auction the most archaeologically rich lands ever offered for industrial use." According to the article, "the report exposed ruins spanning 13,000 years of Native American history to vandalism and looting, and experts say the BLM violated federal regulations that prohibit publicly sharing information about antiquities."

BLM A No-show In Fish Springs.

The Gardnerville \(NV\) Record Courier (7/12, Hildebrand) reports that "there were around 200 people who gathered Thursday to let the Bureau of Land Management know what they thought about the proposed roundup of the Fish Springs herd." However, Acting Carson District Manager Colleen Dulin "informed members of the Pine Nuts Wild Horse Advocates late Thursday morning that no one from the agency would be attending." Dulin said, "We had hoped to provide the community information on our plan prior to your meeting, however at this time, the BLM does not have any additional information or comment regarding this gather. As such, we will not have staff attending tonight's meeting."

$2,000 Reward In Probe Of Huge Nevada Wildfire.

The AP (7/12) reports that "federal land managers are offering a $2,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for starting a huge wildfire burning in northern Nevada." According to fire officials, "humans caused the fire that has charred nearly 700 square miles (1,813 square kilometers) of remote rangeland." Bureau of Land Management District Manager Ester McCulloch "says investigators have determined it started at about 11:30 p.m. on July 4 about 7 miles (15 kilometers) north of Paradise Valley."

BLM Citizen Council Dwindles With Nominations Delay.

The Taos \(NM\) News (7/12, Hooks) reports that "the citizens advisory group for the Bureau of Land Management's district office in Farmington met in Taos Tuesday (July 10)." However, "the Farmington RAC met without two of its members while another four positions are vacant." The article says that "for the second time this year, the RAC met without a quorum, meaning they took no official votes but still listened to people's issues and updates on the office's major undertakings."

Offshore Drilling Cuts Across Party Line In North Carolina Coastal Campaigns.

WUNC-FM Chapel Hill, NC (7/12, Morrison) reports that Republicans in North Carolina are rejecting the Trump Administration's plan to open Atlantic coastal waters to oil and gas exploration. Dare County Board of Commissioners Chair Bob Woodard, a Republican, said that over 90 percent of the population living on North Carolina's coast are in "total opposition" to offshore drilling, and that there is bipartisan opposition from Maryland to Florida. A couple of Republican drilling opponents in the Outer Banks won recent primaries against supporters of offshore exploration. Still, WUNC says, "while coastal Republicans may be on the same side as environmentalists when it comes to coastal drilling, they quickly split paths," as Republicans running for office along North Carolina's coast "support President Trump's push to cut environmental regulations on existing oil refineries." Additionally, the two Republican Senators representing the state support offshore drilling, so GOP candidates find themselves "in a tight spot this election cycle."

Bureau Of Reclamation

Bureau of Reclamation Official To Address San Bernardino County Water Conference.

InlandEmpire \(CA\) (7/12) reports that Jack Simes, Acting Area Manager for the Bureau of Reclamation's Southern California Area Office, is "this year's special guest speaker at the 12th annual San Bernardino County Water Conference." The conference will be held Friday, August 10 in Ontario, CA. Simes said, "Continued planning for the future water supply for the Southwest is critical to the economic welfare of the region. I am pleased to speak at such a prestigious event and engage with the top leaders on a constructive solutions-oriented dialogue."

Superior Files Lawsuit To Block Opening Of Rocky Flats National Wildlife Refuge.

The Boulder \(CO\) Daily Camera (7/12, Hahn) reports that "the town of Superior has filed a lawsuit of its own to block the Rocky Flats National Wildlife Refuge from opening to the public this fall, the latest in a spate of injunction attempts aimed at the 'plutonium laden' site." The article notes that "Superior is the first municipal body to offer such a legal dissention, though its suit essentially complements similar complaints from environmental groups, who sued to file an injunction earlier this year on the basis that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service had not adequately proven the safety of the site, a claim the service disputes."

Feds Ask Judge To Muzzle Scientific Testimony At Rocky Flats Hearing. The Boulder \(CO\) Weekly (7/12, Schlossberg) reports that the U.S. Department of Justice wants to stop the director of Jefferson County Public Health "from testifying at a July 17 hearing in the U.S. District Court in Denver over the future of Rocky Flats National Wildlife Refuge." According to the article, "at Tuesday's hearing, a federal judge will decide whether or not to grant a preliminary injunction to a coalition of local environmental groups — Rocky Mountain Peace & Justice Center, Candelas Glows/Rocky Flats Glows, Rocky Flats Right to Know, Rocky Flats Neighborhood Association, and Environmental Information Network — seeking to block construction of 20 miles of recreation trails and a multi-million dollar visitor center inside the Refuge, due to concerns with plutonium contamination." Federal attorneys representing the defendants claim "that the testimony of the plaintiffs' scientists goes beyond the scope of this particular hearing and are 'improper' expert witnesses."

Wyoming Governor To Testify On Endangered Species Act.

The AP (7/12) reports that Wyoming Gov. Matt Mead will appear next week before a U.S. Senate committee to testify about the Endangered Species Act. Mead was "invited to testify next Tuesday before the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works by Wyoming Republican U.S. Sen. John Barrasso, who is chairman of the committee." Barrasso has "drafted a proposal that makes changes to the Endangered Species Act, including elevating the role of states by enabling states to lead recovery efforts for listed species."

Efforts To Protect Pygmy Fish Delay Toyota/Mazda Plant.

The Cullman \(AL\) Times (7/12, Smith) reports that "an endangered fish measuring about 1 inch or less in length has temporarily delayed work on a $1.6-billion automotive manufacturing facility in Huntsville-annexed Limestone County." Officials with Huntsville and Toyota yesterday "confirmed construction of the joint Toyota-Mazda manufacturing plant has been temporarily halted, citing efforts to ensure there is no impact on the spring pygmy sunfish." WHNT-TV Huntsville, AL (7/12) reports that Toyota official Kim Ogle said "they have temporarily suspended construction," after the Center for Biological Diversity sued the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Lesser Prairie-chicken Population On The Rise, But Advocates Still Scoff.

The Texas Tribune (7/12, Collier) reports that "the number of lesser prairie-chickens in Texas and four neighboring states is up nearly 30 percent, according to the results of an annual aerial survey released this week by the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies, which oversees a conservation plan aimed at protecting the grouse." However, "endangered species advocates describe that as minimal progress, and even association officials acknowledge there's a long way to go in restoring the bird's population."

The Hays \(KS\) Post (7/12) reports that Roger Wolfe, the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies' Lesser Prairie Chicken Program manager, said, "This approximately 30 percent annual increase is good news, but we know that year-to-year fluctuations are the norm with upland birds like the lesser prairie chicken. The most encouraging result from the survey is the steadily increasing population trend over the last six years, which likely reflects improving habitat conditions."

Pelican Population Strong At North Dakota Wildlife Refuge.

The AP (7/12) reports that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service "says nearly 29,000 American white pelicans have returned to nest in south central North Dakota." According to biologists, "the nesting colony at Chase Lake National Wildlife Refuge is the largest in North America." Biologist Brandon Oksendahl "says the number of breeding adults at the refuge is down slightly from last year but it's still among the highest on record."

Is Warming Water Behind Mille Lacs Lake's Walleye Ills? Study Aims To Find Out.

The AP (7/12) reports that "a new study is using underwater listening devices to find out why more young walleye in Mille Lacs Lake aren't making it to adulthood." The Mille Lacs Band of Ojibwe "hopes to test a hypothesis that warming lake temperatures are contributing to the recent walleye population decline." The band "received a grant of nearly $200,000 from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for the study, which will run through the spring of 2019."

Amphibian Diseases Found In Western Wisconsin; Pathogens Linked To Mortality, Extinction Of Some Species.

The La Crosse \(WI\) Tribune (7/12, Hubbuch) reports that "federal researchers have found two diseases in the La Crosse area that have been linked to worldwide declines in amphibian populations." According to the article, ""while they did not find any signs of illness, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologists found the parasitic fungus Batrachochytrium dendrobatidis (Bd) and a member of the ranavirus family on frogs collected in La Crosse, Monroe, Trempealeau and Vernon counties, marking the first time the pathogens have been documented in western Wisconsin. The discoveries are "part of a study conducted at the Midwest Fisheries Center in Onalaska and published last month in the journal Diseases of Aquatic Organisms."

Every Kid In A Park Program Gives 4th Graders Free Entry To Any U.S. National Park.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution (7/12) reports that the Interior Department's Every Kid in a Park program allows fourth-grade students to "enter any of more than 2,000 of the nation's national parks and other federally managed lands and waters for free for one year." According to the program, the goal is to "inspire fourth graders nationwide to visit our federal lands and waters, whether it is a backyard city park or a national forest, seashore, or marine sanctuary. By targeting fourth graders year after year, the program works to ensure every child in the U.S. has the opportunity to visit and enjoy their federal lands and waters by the time he or she is 11 years old."

New Leader Named For Dayton Aviation Heritage National Park.

The Dayton \(OH\) Daily News (7/12, Filby) reports that the National Park Service named Kendel Thompson as the superintendent of Dayton Aviation Heritage National Historical Park on Wednesday. Thompson has "served as acting superintendent for the park since August 2017 and he will assume the job permanently on Aug. 5." Thompson said, "It is an honor to be selected as the superintendent of Dayton Aviation Heritage National Historical Park, a site that explores the limitless possibilities that can be accomplished by determined people."

Replacement Of Grand Canyon Village Lodging Complex Proposed.

The AP (7/13) reports that "federal officials want to demolish and rebuild an aging lodging complex at Grand Canyon Village on the South Rim of the Grand Canyon." An open house will be held Wednesday "on the proposal to replace the six-building Maswik South complex, which was built in 1971 and which the National Park Service says has exceeded its 'expected useful life of 40 years.'" The NPS "said it is seeking public comment as it prepares an environmental assessment to develop and evaluate alternatives for the project."

Appeal Challenges Davis Refinery Air Quality Permit.

The Bismarck \(ND\) Tribune (7/12, Dalrymple) reports that "the National Parks Conservation Association and two other groups filed an appeal Thursday challenging an air quality permit for an oil refinery proposed near Theodore Roosevelt National Park." The appeal filed in Southwest Judicial District Court contests "the North Dakota Department of Health's finding that the Davis Refinery would be classified as a synthetic minor source of air pollution." The complaint asserts "the refinery being developed by Meridian Energy near Belfield should be classified as a major source of air pollution, which would require a more rigorous regulatory review."

Debate Continues Over Proposed Arches Reservation System.

The Moab \(UT\) Sun News (7/12, Bunton) reports that as the National Park Service "moves forward with a plan to mitigate traffic congestion at Arches National Park, Grand County officials and stakeholders remain in disagreement over the park service's recommendation to implement an advance reservation system for entrance into the park." The NPS "expects to have a final decision made on the traffic plan this fall, and the earliest that the changes will impact visitation would be in early 2019."

C&O Canal Proposes Towpath Rehabilitation Between McMahon's Mill And Lock 42.

The Hagerstown \(MD\) Herald-Mail Media (7/12) reports that Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park "plans to rehabilitate the park's towpath from McMahon's Mill to Lock 42 in Williamsport to better protect that section of the towpath from flooding." Park officials "said in a news release that the plan is to stabilize and raise the level of the towpath and a retaining wall along the section of it to lessen the impact of flooding." Park officials will "host an open house Monday, July 23, at their headquarters at 1850 Dual Highway to gather public input on the project."

Nov. 2021 Opening Is The Goal For $20M Great Fall Visitor Center.

The North Jersey \(NJ\) Media Group (7/12, Malinconico) reports that "advocates are shooting for a November 2021 grand opening for the estimated $25 million visitors center at the Great Falls, which is a target date designed to coincide with the 10th anniversary of the creation of the national park." The goal was "announced at Thursday afternoon's meeting of the Paterson Great Falls National Historical Park's advisory commission." Leonard Zax, the president of the Hamilton Partnership, "told the commission that his group has raised more than $7.5 million for the project." Zax "said he expected the rest of the money to come from a variety of sources, including federal and state tax credits."

New Evidence Of Two Subspecies Of American Pikas In Rocky Mountain National Park.

EurekAlert (7/12) reports that Rocky Mountain National Park "provides habitat for not one, but two subspecies of the American pika, a species thought to be closely connected with climate change, according to a new study." The study, published in the journal PLOS ONE, also "concludes that the subspecies are interbreeding." The article notes that "field research was funded by the National Park Service as part of the Pikas in Peril research project, launched in 2010 to determine how vulnerable the animals are to climate change in eight national parks and monuments."

Refugee Students Backpacking Denali As Part Of Brand New Program.

The Anchorage \(AK\) Press (7/12, Bushatz) reports that "seven high school-aged refugees who currently call Anchorage home are on the adventure of a lifetime this week, backpacking through Denali National Park as part of a new partnership between two non-profits." The students "traveled July 8 to the Denali Education Center, a non-profit partner of the National Park Service which specializes in youth park adventures and outdoor learning." They were set "to start their adventure from there July 10."

The AP (7/12) reports that "flash floods in southern Utah have closed several roads and trails at Zion National Park." The National Park Service "said Thursday that the Zion-Mt. Carmel Highway from Canyon Junction to the East Entrance is closed indefinitely due to damage overnight from flooding and rock falls." No injuries have been reported.

Flash Flooding Causes Evacuations In Grand Canyon.

KTVK-TV Phoenix (7/12, Lollman) reports that "flash flooding in the Grand Canyon caused by heavy monsoon rains prompted evacuations at the Havasupai Campground and surrounding areas Wednesday night." According to the article, "all campgrounds were evacuated and nearby buildings including the Community Building and school were opened for people to sleep in and the Tribe provided food and supplies to those evacuated."

Video Shows Woman Snatching, Bagging Birds At US Park.

The AP (7/12) reports that "videos of a woman snatching birds at a U.S. park and putting them alive in plastic bags have triggered an investigation by the National Park Service." Videos shared on Instagram on Wednesday "show the woman capturing what appear to be sparrows as she and a man sit on a bench in a historic square near Philadelphia's Independence Hall." Park Service spokeswoman Gina Gilliam "says trapping and harassing wildlife in the park is against federal regulations."

Also reporting is Billy Penn \(PA\) (7/12, ZORRILLA).

Raid Nets 4,000 Pot Plants In Death Valley National Park.

The AP (7/12) reports that "federal law officers have seized more than 4,000 marijuana plants at a growing operation in Death Valley National Park thanks to a tip from hikers in the area along the California-Nevada line." Rangers for the National Park Service and Bureau of Land Management "raided the site July 3 after the hikers encountered three men installing irrigation hose near a spring in the Mojave Desert's Hanaupah Canyon." No arrests have been made.

Also reporting is the Las Vegas Review-Journal (7/11, Brean).

Ocracoke Man Charged With Growing Marijuana On Cape Hatteras National Seashore.

The Raleigh \(NC\) News & Observer (7/12, Quillin) reports that "an Ocracoke man has been arrested on federal charges for growing weed among the sea oats inside the Cape Hatteras National Seashore." The U.S. Attorney's office for North Carolina's Eastern District in Raleigh "said in a release that James Daniel Garrish III was arrested Tuesday and charged with cultivating marijuana on federal property." Garrish was also "charged with introducing plants into the park ecosystem, littering, trespassing, and defacing and damaging real property."

Fire Restrictions To Be Lifted At Grand Canyon National Park.

The AP (7/13) reports that "with monsoon storms significantly lowering the fire danger risk, fire restrictions are being lifted at the entire Grand Canyon National Park." According to park officials, "the stage 2 restrictions are scheduled to be lifted at 8 a.m. Friday."

Manitowoc Arctic Shipwreck Joins National Register Of Historic Places.

The Manitowoc \(WI\) Herald Times Reporter (7/12) reports that "the Arctic Shipwreck, in Lake Michigan in the vicinity of Manitowoc, has been listed in the National Register of Historic Places, the Wisconsin Historical Society said Thursday."

Berwick Cemetery Chapel Gets Historic Designation.

Foster's Daily Democrat \(NH\) (7/12, Doyle) reports that "the stone chapel situated at the south entrance of the Evergreen Cemetery has been added to the National Register of Historic Places by the U.S. Department of the Interior."

A Mysterious Disease Is Killing Millions Of Bats. These Scientists Are Trying To Save Them.

The Washington Post (7/12, Moyer) reports that researchers are hoping to save bats from white-nose syndrome by locating survivors of the disease "and reverse-engineering how they survived." According to the article, "the search for northern long-eared bats in the Washington area can lead to two places where some have survived: Quantico in Virginia and Rock Creek Park in the District." The article notes that the search "requires the cooperation of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Park Service, the U.S. Geological Survey, Virginia Tech, Quantico and Prince William County."

Deadly White-nose Syndrome Confirmed In South Dakota. The Watertown \(SD\) Public Opinion (7/12) reports that earlier this summer in the Black Hills National Forest,

"researchers made an unfortunate observation — a bat with suspicious wing lesions." Laboratory testing performed in early June at the U.S. Geological Survey National Wildlife Health Center "confirmed the arrival of the deadly white-nose syndrome in South Dakota for the first time and efforts are underway to verify Myotis Volans, or long-legged bat, as the newest North American bat documented with this devastating disease."

Delaware Estuary's Ospreys Recover As Fish Contaminants Decline, Report Says.

NPR (7/12, Hurdle, Jaramillo) reports that "ospreys are becoming a more familiar sight in the Delaware Estuary, thanks to a decline in the presence of polluting chemicals such as pesticides and flame retardants," according to a new report from the U.S. Geological Survey. The report said that "the recovery of the brown and white birds that hunt fish over the area's shorelines, rivers and inland bays is a good sign for the ecological health of the whole Delaware region because the fish they prey on have been found with lower levels of contaminants such as the industrial chemicals PCBs and the pesticide dieldrin." The report, based on research in 2015, said, "Findings suggest that there have been improvements in Delaware Estuary water bird habitat compared to the second half of the 20th century. This trend is associated in part with mitigation of some anthropogenic contaminant threats."

Lava From Kilauea Eruption Covers Beloved Beach Park And School.

Forbes (7/13, Mack) reports that "the relentless eruption of the Kilauea Volcano's lower East Rift Zone continues its rampage through the southeastern corner of the Big Island of Hawaii, with lava claiming a popular site for oceanside soaking and a local school." According to the USGS, "the ceaseless flow to the ocean has actually begun adding new land to the island, forming a lava delta of 655 acres."

Latest Pardon Sends A Troubling Message.

In an editorial, the Grand Junction \(CO\) Daily Sentinel (7/12) criticizes "Tuesday's presidential pardon of the father-and-son Oregon ranchers whose sentencing for federal arson convictions sparked the 2016 armed takeover of a wildlife refuge near their home." In the paper's view, "because of the Bundy connections, it's hard not to interpret President Donald's Trump's pardon of Dwight and Steven Hammond as a signal that it's OK to seize or destroy public lands and threaten federal employees when one has a beef with the federal government." The editorial also says that "the men and women who work on them managing resources for the public's benefit are our friends and neighbors, so it's disappointing that Trump's pardon in this case seems to look past their safety and welfare."

The Little Lizard Threatening To Derail The Trump Agenda.

In an op-ed for The Hill (7/12, White), Kathleen Hartnett White, the distinguished senior fellow-in-residence and director of the Armstrong Center for Energy & the Environment at the Texas Public Policy Foundation, warns that the Dunes Sagebrush Lizard, "in the Permian region of Texas and southeastern New Mexico could quash the shale revolution, and all the economic and national security benefits that come with it, if the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service decides to list the lizard under the federal Endangered Species Act." White argues that "given the importance of the Permian Basin to the president's agenda, it is essential that DOI develop consistent energy, conservation and mitigation policies for ESA jurisdiction impacting private lands and private minerals." She concludes that "to protect our future, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service should...deny efforts by radical liberal groups to attack private property rights in the Permian Basin."

All Wildfires Are Not Alike, But The US Is Fighting Them That Way.

In a piece for The Conversation \(US\) (7/12, Pyne), Stephen Pyne, Regents Professor in the School of Life Sciences, Arizona State University, argues that "it's time to rethink firefighting" in the "wildland-urban interface, or WUI – zones where human development intermingles with forests, grasslands and other feral vegetation." In an urban environment, Pyne says that "we know how to keep houses from burning – but we have had to relearn that in WUI zones, hardening houses and landscaping their communities is the best defense." According to Pyne, "this is a local task, not a federal one, though the federal agencies have a supporting role and can, and do, help build local capacity."

Trump Touts "Great Success," Claims Credit For Boost In NATO Allies' Spending.

President Trump took to Twitter yesterday to write, "Great success today at NATO! Billions of additional dollars paid by members since my election. Great spirit!" The President also praised NATO and claimed credit for its members' increased military spending in a news conference that followed a reportedly tumultuous meeting with US allies. ABC World News Tonight 📺 (7/12, story 2, 3:35, Muir) showed Trump saying, "I believe in NATO. I think NATO is very important, probably the greatest ever done." ABC's Terry Moran: "He could have fooled the allies after his rampage less than 24 hours earlier." Trump also said, "They have substantially upped their commitment. Yeah. And now, we're very happy, and we'll have a very, very powerful, very, very strong NATO. Much stronger than two days ago." To USA Today (7/12, Korte, Fritze), "with the first day of the NATO summit threatening to expose deep divisions in the alliance, Trump used the second day to send a more unifying message."

The tone of the media coverage of Trump soured as the day progressed. On CBS This Morning 📺 (7/12), Nora O'Donnell reported that NATO countries had "yielded to a barrage of demands by...Trump" and "will speed up increases in defense spending," and on ABC's Good Morning America 📺 (7/12), Terry Moran said "it's fair to say NATO has never seen anything like...Trump." However, while the Washington Times (7/12, Miller) reports "Trump's intense pressure...paid off" and Breitbart (7/12, Lane) that he "appeared to have met his key objectives," the vast majority of media reports this morning take issue with the President's statements, flatly denying their accuracy and casting his performance at the summit in a starkly unfavorable light.

Reuters (7/12, Mason), for example, refers to "a classic performance for the one-time reality television star, whose 'America first' mantra has translated into a sometimes-bullying style...with countries traditionally considered to be US friends." Politico Europe (7/12, Herzzenhorn, Bayer) said Trump "unleashed havoc at NATO" and "disoriented

NATO leaders for the entire two-day meeting, with" his "whiplash performance," and AP (7/12, Miller, Colvin, Lemire) that his "head-spinning 28 hours at the NATO summit...left a chaotic trail behind," with "self-proclaimed accomplishments" that "proved once again to be more show than substance."

NBC Nightly News 📺 (7/12, lead story, 2:35, Holt) reported, "To hear the President tell it, it was mission accomplished, that he successfully squeezed his European counterparts to spend even more on defense." However, "some of those allies are offering a much different account." ABC World News Tonight 📺 (7/12, story 2, 3:35, Muir) reported that "other leaders said their immediate spending plans had not changed at all," Bloomberg News (7/12, Champion) that Trump "does not, in the end, appear to have won any concrete commitment to increase defense budgets." The CBS Evening News 📺 (7/12, story 2, 2:20, Garrett), meanwhile, showed Trump saying, "Prior to last year where I attended my first meeting, it was going down, the amount of money being spent by countries was going down, and down very substantially." CBS added, "That is false. Allied NATO defense spending has increased on average 3.1 percent since 2014."

The AP (7/12, Lemire, Colvin) similarly reports that Trump "disparaged longtime NATO allies," and while he claimed they "had acceded to his demands to speed up increases in military spending...there was little evidence other leaders had bowed to his wishes on that front." Another AP (7/12, Flaherty) report, titled "Trump Falsely Claims Credit On NATO Spending," also says "there was no evidence" to validate Trump's claim, while Jonathan Swan of Axios (7/12) wrote, "Reality check: Trump's claim is false." The New York Times (7/12, Davis, Rogers) reports Trump's "claim was quickly dismissed by the leaders of Italy and France," Reuters (7/12, Emmott) that "other leaders...played down the extent to which they went beyond existing commitments to increase contributions to their own defense," and the Los Angeles Times (7/12, Stokols) that "other leaders...denied that NATO members had made any significantly new commitments."

The Washington Post (7/12, Birnbaum, Rucker) reports that in 2014, NATO's members "committed...to each spend 2 percent of gross domestic product on defense by 2024, though only eight countries have been on track to reach that goal this year." The AP (7/12, Cook, Keaten) says that "despite the political rhetoric, Trump – like his other 28 allies – signed a summit communique that had been agreed to by their ambassadors last weekend, five days before the summit began. Not a word was changed, officials confirmed." The AP adds "the 23-page text did contain a reference to an old spending pledge the leaders made in 2014 after Russia annexed Ukraine's Crimean Peninsula, convincing NATO of the importance of halting spending cuts."

ABC World News Tonight 📺 (7/12, story 2, 3:35, Muir) recounted that yesterday, Trump "strolled into the summit...almost an hour late and alone" and "soon blew it up," as "sources tell ABC News, Trump told the other nations that if they don't spend more on defense, the US would 'go its own way' and 'do our own thing an ominous ultimatum for the alliance.'" The Wall Street Journal (7/12, Ballhaus, Norman) also recounts the tense meeting in a story headlined "Trump Reaffirms Commitment To NATO After Strained Emergency Meeting."

NYTimes: Trump Furthered Obama Agenda At NATO Summit. Under the headline "Trump Got From NATO Everything Obama Ever Asked For," the New York Times (7/12, Board) editorializes, "Now that the smoke has cleared from the NATO summit meeting, the most tangible result is apparent: President Trump advanced President Barack Obama's initiative to keep the allies on track to shoulder a more equitable share of NATO's costs." Trump "even signed on to a tough statement directed at Russia. For once he saw eye to eye with his predecessor." Nonetheless, "it's imperative that Congress, which has abdicated to Mr. Trump on many crucial issues, pass immediately legislation prohibiting him from leaving NATO unilaterally."

Trump Calls Putin A "Competitor," Says Obama Allowed Russia To Annex Crimea. ABC World News Tonight 📺 (7/12, story 2, 3:35, Muir) reported that on Monday, Trump will meet with Russian President Vladimir Putin, whom "intelligence agencies have determined...meddled in the 2016 election." The President said he'll raise the issue in Helsinki. Trump: "We will, of course, ask your favorite question, about meddling. I will be asking that question, again. He may deny it, I mean, it's one of those things. All I can do is say, did you, and don't do it again, but he may deny it."

The CBS Evening News (7/12, story 2, 2:20, Garrett) reported that Trump was asked yesterday if NATO members voiced concern about his meeting with Putin. Trump was shown saying, "They actually thanked me for meeting with President Putin. I look forward to the meeting. They thanked me. They thought it because great thing they was doing it." CBS' Major Garrett: "And he described Putin as his 'competitor.'" Trump: "He's been very nice to me, the times I've met him. I've been nice to him. He's a competitor. Somebody was saying, is he an enemy. He's not my enemy."

CNN's Situation Room (7/12) noted, meanwhile, that on the issue of Russia's annexation of Crimea, Trump "blamed his predecessor." CNN showed Trump saying, "That was on Barack Obama's watch. I would not have allowed it to happen. He did allow it to happen so that was his determination." NBC Nightly News (7/12, lead story, 2:35, Holt), however, reported that "the President may have only added to concerns by seeming to leave the door open to recognizing Russia's 2014 annexation of Crimea, a move Western allies say violates international law." Trump was shown saying, "They just opened a big bridge that was started years ago. They built, I think, a submarine port, substantially added billions of dollars."

The Wall Street Journal (7/12, Ballhaus) also reports Trump's comments in a story headlined "Trump Says He Expects To 'Get Along' With Putin At Summit." In an editorial, the Wall Street Journal (7/12) warns Trump that Putin is likely to seek – and should not get – concessions in exchange for better relations with the US, including asking Trump to accept his annexation of Crimea and the lifting of sanctions.

National security and legal analyst Susan Hennessey said on CNN's Situation Room (7/12), "The President appears to be trying to get his base to believe that Vladimir Putin is good and NATO is bad. That is a relatively alarming precondition to have this particular engagement. One of the most notable things that the President said is, 'I will ask Putin about election meddling and I'll just have to take his word for it and I will tell him not to do it again.' No, that is not all you can do. One, he should be relying not on the word of Vladimir Putin but on the assessment of the US intelligence community. Two, if he believes as all of his administration does that this meddling actually occurred then what they should be doing is implementing sanctions and all kinds of counter measures to ensure that this kind of fundamental attack on our democracy doesn't occur again."

Conway Calls Schumer And Pelosi "Disgraceful" For Claiming Trump Is "Loyal To"

Putin. Appearing on Fox News' Fox & Friends (7/12), White House counselor Kellyanne Conway, asked about the claim from Senate Minority Leader Schumer and House Minority Leader Pelosi that Trump is "more loyal to" Russian President Vladimir Putin "than our allies," replied, "That's a disgraceful comment. ... They are always make everything so personal and political. ... Why wouldn't the Democrats, why wouldn't peace-loving people all across this country, regardless of their political affiliation, welcome an opportunity to find out if there are ways in the pursuit of that peace...that we can work together?" Conway also noted that President Obama was "caught on a hot mic saying to a Russian official, 'after the next election is over I will have a little more flexibility.'"

McCain Criticizes Trump For Failing To Call Putin His "Enemy." The Washington Post (7/12, Wagner) reports that Sen. John McCain "issued a stern warning" to the President Thursday, "saying that it would be 'a serious indictment' of Trump's leadership if he does not hold the Russian leader accountable on a range of actions." The Post says McCain released a statement "which...characterized Trump's diplomatic skills as 'disappointing, yet ultimately unsurprising.'" McCain added, "Putin is not America's friend, nor merely a competitor. Putin is America's enemy – not because we wish it so, but because he has chosen to be."

The Washington Post (7/12, Wagner) reports that Ohio Gov. John Kasich, "who's weighing a Republican primary challenge against President Trump in 2020, on Thursday criticized his 'wrecking ball' diplomacy shortly after Trump departed a tumultuous NATO summit in Brussels."

Scarborough And Brzezinski: Trump Purposely Trying To Undermine NATO To Benefit Putin. On MSNBC's Morning Joe (7/12), Joe Scarborough said Chief of Staff Kelly was "obviously distressed" by Trump's rhetoric in Brussels. Mika Brzezinski said that the President reportedly arrived 30 minutes late to a meeting with Ukraine and Georgia, and said, "how interesting that Trump would go out of his way to insult the two countries Putin invaded in the past decade." Brzezinski added, "Now the US President performs shameless acts of trolling on Russia's behalf." Scarborough said Trump showed Georgia and Ukraine "remarkable disrespect," which Scarborough asserted is "the very thing that Vladimir Putin would absolutely love him to do."

Also on MSNBC's Morning Joe (7/12), author Jon Meacham suggested that the President's behavior could be explained as "part of an unusually elaborate, potentially unprecedented, story of undo pressure being put on the President for various reasons – and one interpretation here is he's talking about Russia, and people being dependent on Russia, and in business with Russia, in order to create a dust storm, so that if it comes back he is" the beneficiary of Russian influence, he can say, "so is Germany. Everybody does it." According to Scarborough, Trump's "overall strategy seems to be doing what Vladimir Putin would want him to do."

Trump Says Johnson Would Make "Great Prime Minister," Blasts May's Brexit Strategy.

The Sun \(UK\) (7/12, Dunn) reports that in a "world-exclusive interview," President Trump said yesterday that British Prime Minister Theresa May is "wrecking Brexit – and warned she may have killed off any chance of a vital US trade deal." According to the Sun, "in an extraordinary intervention," Trump said May "had ignored his advice by opting for a soft Brexit strategy," and "warned her any attempts to maintain close ties with the EU would make a lucrative US trade deal very unlikely." Trump is quoted as saying, "If they do a deal like that, we would be dealing with the European Union instead of dealing with the UK, so it will probably kill the deal." Trump's "damaging outbursts" came as he prepared "to meet the PM for a working lunch at Chequers."

The Sun \(UK\) (7/12) reports that in the same interview, Trump said Boris Johnson, who resigned as Foreign Secretary earlier this week, is "a very talented guy," adding: "I like him a lot." Trump is quoted as saying, "I have a lot of respect for Boris. He obviously likes me, and says very good things about me. I was very saddened to see he was leaving government and I hope he goes back in at some point." Regarding May and Johnson, who many expect will challenge the prime minister at some point, Trump said, "I am not pitting one against the other. ... I am just saying I think he would be a great Prime Minister."

Reporting on the interview, the New York Times (7/12, Castle, Davis) says "Trump put his brand of confrontational and disruptive diplomacy on full display" with "a remarkable breach of protocol." The Times adds "the interview was published as Mr. Trump and Mrs. May were wrapping up what appeared to be a chummy dinner at Blenheim Palace – earlier, they had walked inside holding hands – and a day ahead of the president's scheduled meeting with Queen Elizabeth II at Windsor Castle." The AP (7/12) also notes Trump's remarks were published as he was leaving for a "black-tie gala" with May. Under the headline "Trump Blames Theresa May For Brexit Debacle In Explosive Interview," the New York Post (7/12, Perez) remarks on Trump saying "May's negotiating tactics may have wrecked any chance of striking a trade pact with the United States."

ABC World News Tonight (7/12, story 2, 3:35, Muir) cast May as "rolling out the red carpet for the President," who nonetheless "seemed to take a shot at her." ABC (Moran) said it was "a devastating shot," which "should make tomorrow pretty interesting." Reuters (7/12, Mason) reports, however, that "May made a determined pitch to...Trump for a post-Brexit trade deal with the United States on his first trip to Britain on Thursday, just hours after the American president questioned her plans for leaving the European Union." At gathering at Winston Churchill's birthplace, "May praised the friendship between the two close allies" and "had only warm words, calling Britain and the United States 'not just the closest of allies but the dearest of friends.'"

The New York Times (7/12, Rogers) reports that "for months, British officials laid plans to make sure that...Trump, a fan of ornate housing, will see a castle or two on his visit to England after the NATO gathering." The Times adds "the British also know that in addition to loving all things gilded, Mr. Trump is a longtime...Churchill fan, and that since becoming president, has tried to cast himself in the image of the World War II prime minister. So it is no accident that" he "began his visit to England...at Blenheim Palace."

Trump Says Europe Is "Losing Its Culture" Due To Immigration. The Sun \(UK\) (7/12, The Sun (UK)) also reports that Trump warned that Europe is "losing its culture" due to immigration, saying, "Allowing the immigration to take place in Europe is a shame. I think it changed the fabric of Europe and, unless you act very quickly, it's never going to be what it was and I don't mean that in a positive way. ... So I think allowing millions and millions of people to come into Europe is very, very sad."

Trump: London Mayor "Soft On Terrorism." USA Today (7/12, Korte) also reports "Trump came out swinging in a British tabloid interview Thursday, calling the mayor of London 'soft on terrorism' and saying he felt unwelcome in the English capital."

British Foreign Secretary Downplays Trump's Comments. NBC Nightly News (7/12, story 2, 1:20, Holt) interviewed Foreign Secretary Jeremy Hunt, who "replaced...Johnson" after he "resigned in protest over Brexit this week." Asked whether Trump needs "to come out and issue a more strong statement in support of...May," Hunt said, "Well, I think he's already said lots of things that are very strong and very supportive," and "has been the leader who right from the start said that Brexit presents great opportunities for this country." Asked about "the state of the special relationship," Hunt replied, "I think is a very healthy one."

Trump Met By Protesters In UK. The CBS Evening News (7/12, story 3, 2:00, Phillips) reported that "there will be no grand carriage ride to Buckingham Palace as Woodrow Wilson enjoyed almost 100 years ago, and as many other leaders have enjoyed since. No Grand State dinner, just tea with the Queen as Windsor Castle." That "despite what the President says." Trump was shown saying, "I think they like me a lot in the UK."

The AP (7/12, Lemire, Colvin) reports that Trump "traded one hot spot for another Thursday, leaving behind a contentious NATO gathering in Brussels and moving on to Britain, where he found a government in turmoil and sizable protests shadowing his every move." According to the AP, "Hundreds of demonstrators chanted outside the U.S. ambassador's residence where Trump was staying on the outskirts of London, providing a preview of the forceful protests expected during his two-day British stay."

The New York Times (7/12, Times) reports that "thousands of people came out to demonstrate against" Trump, and "British authorities had set up a metallic cage around the ambassador's residence, where President Trump is staying overnight, as part of his security." According to the Times, "Organizers hope to mount the biggest weekday demonstration in Britain since protests against the Iraq War more than a decade ago."

The Washington Post (7/12, Booth, Adam) reports that when "asked about the mass demonstrations scheduled for his first official trip to Britain, Trump said Thursday at a NATO news conference, 'I think they like me a lot in the UK I think they agree with me on immigration. I'm very strong on immigration.'" According to the Post, "Trump's aides have feared that protests could lead the president to lash out during the trip, and great care has been taken to keep him from the demonstrations."

Strzok Testifies His Opinion Of Trump Did Not Affect His Work.

FBI agent Peter Strzok's appearance before two House committees is covered heavily in print and broadcast media, and was the subject of a great deal of cable discussion Thursday evening. While much of the coverage focuses on Strzok's defense of his actions, particularly his claim that his personal opinion of President Trump did not affect his work, many reports also highlight the tone of the hearing and partisan clashes between lawmakers.

In the lead story for ABC World News Tonight 📺 (7/12, lead story, 5:00, Muir), Pierre Thomas said Strzok was "defiant" as he "accus[ed] lawmakers of playing right into Russia's hands." Politico (7/12, Cheney) says a "defiant" Strzok "slamm[ed] the hearing as a 'victory notch in Putin's belt.'" Similarly, Rep. Luis Gutierrez said on CNN's Cuomo Prime Time 📺 (7/12), "I think the Republicans acted like the defense team of Donald Trump, and I'm sure the Kremlin is very, very happy with their performance today."

While USA Today (7/12, Kelly) reports that Republicans used the hearing "to underscore their charges of bias by the FBI and Department of Justice against Trump and in favor of Clinton," Reuters (7/12, Becker) reports that Strzok told the "heated" hearing "that his personal political views had never affected his official work." The AP (7/12, Tucker, Jalonick) describes a "fiery and occasionally chaotic hearing" at which Strzok "angrily reject[ed] Republican allegations that he set out to stop Donald Trump from becoming president." Strzok told lawmakers "that texts he traded with an FBI lawyer in the run-up to the 2016 presidential election reflected personal views that he never once acted on." Paula Reid said in the lead story for the CBS Evening News 📺 (7/12, lead story, 3:20, Glor) during the hearing, "which descended into chaos after his first answer," Strzok "expressed remorse for how the thousands of text messages he exchanged with" Page "have been used to question the integrity of the FBI investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 election."

Breitbart (7/12, Kraychik) reports that the text messages "revealed hostility towards" Trump and his supporters, but Strzok "repeatedly denied that his own political and partisan biases shaped his conduct." Strzok, who "framed himself as a man of professional integrity," said that "his political and partisan opinions [were] rooted in patriotism." He said, "Those opinions were expressed out of deep patriotism and an unyielding belief in our great American democracy." The Wall Street Journal (7/12, Wilber) says Strzok pointed out that he criticized other figures besides Trump – including Clinton – in his text messages. However, the Journal adds that Strzok saved his harshest criticism for Trump, whom he called an "idiot" and a "douche." In a separate story, Breitbart (7/12, Caplan) reports that Strzok testified that "he has never acted in a biased manner or recused himself from an investigation."

The Washington Times (7/12, Mordock) reports that in response to a question from House Oversight Committee Chairman Trey Gowdy, Strzok said "he doesn't know how many witnesses, if any, he interviewed as part of special counsel Robert Mueller's Russia probe before texting his mistress that President Trump should be impeached." Strzok "sent two texts on May 17, 2017 and May 22, 2017, to his mistress, former FBI agent Lisa Page calling for Mr. Trump's impeachment," but "he said that he couldn't recall if he had interviewed any witnesses before texting Ms. Page that the president should be impeached." Strzok also "said his use of the word 'impeachment' does not mean he had already decided the outcome of the Russia investigation."

CQ Roll Call (7/12, Connolly) says Gowdy "punctuated a particularly heated exchange after Strzok said he did not appreciate Gowdy's characterization of some of his comments," saying, "I don't give a damn what you appreciate, Agent Strzok. ... I don't appreciate having an FBI agent with an unprecedented level of animus working on two major investigations in 2016." Gowdy said on Fox News' Hannity 📺 (7/12) that Strzok is "the only person in America who doesn't think he was biased. He's the only person in America that does not understand how incredibly detrimental those texts are to any kind of serious investigation. So look, I spent ten hours with him two weeks ago about an equal amount of time today. He thinks what his personal opinion is is what the rest of us call bias."

Under the headline, "Democrats Hijack Fiery Strzok Hearing As Goodlatte Threatens To Hold Strzok In Contempt," the Daily Caller (7/12, Athey) reports that House Judiciary Committee Chairman Bob Goodlatte "threatened Strzok with criminal liability" if he refused to answer a question from Gowdy. Goodlatte said, "Mr. Strzok, you are under subpoena and are required to answer the question," at which point, Rep. Gerry Nadler, the ranking Democrat on the panel interrupted "with a point of order and defended Strzok from having to answer the committee's questions, but Goodlatte shot back, 'the point of order is not well taken.” Nadler “tried to appeal” and “and eventually Democrats Sheila Jackson Lee and David Cicilline interrupted the hearing as well.” The DC says the hearing “continued in chaos as Democrats continued to ask for points of order and Goodlatte struggled to retain order.”

Similarly, the Washington Post (7/11, Barrett, Demirjian) says the hearing “frequently devolved into shouting matches about bias and testy exchanges about procedure between supporters of President Trump and defenders of the agency investigating him,” and the New York Times (7/12, Fandos) says Democrats “tried to run interference for Mr. Strzok, using parliamentary points of order and other tactics to protect him from Republican prying.”

In cable appearances Thursday evening, Republicans argued that Strzok’s testimony was not credible and that the Russia investigation is flawed. Trump’s attorney Rudy Giuliani said on Fox News’ The Ingraham Angle (7/12) that Strzok “should never been involved in the investigation. We shouldn’t have to worry whether he was biased or not. If I was running it, I would never have let a partisan like that.”

Rep. Mark Meadows said on Fox News’ Hannity (7/12), “There are a number of things that they said today that are not supported by evidence, so they could potentially be false testimony. ... I can just tell you that the American people know that there is one particular witness today that had a hard time with the facts.”

Rep. Ron DeSantis said on Fox News’ The Ingraham Angle (7/12), “Reading the texts is one thing but then to have him sit there and say, ‘I said I was going to stop Trump, I didn’t mean the FBI.’ ... It wasn’t credible, just like his explanations were not credible to the Inspector General.”

Rep. Jim Jordan said on Fox News’ Hannity (7/12) that the Russia investigation “started flawed with the dossier” and it is “flawed on the back end as well” because when Mueller removed Strzok from his team, “he didn’t even ask [him] about all these text messages that show his animus to Donald Trump. ... So this thing was flawed when it started basically on this dossier and it is flawed here at the end based on when they got rid of Strzok and didn’t even ask him important questions.”

Rep. Matt Gaetz said on Fox News’ Hannity (7/12), “We are only going to get justice when Attorney General Jeff Sessions does his job and follows the advice that dozens of us in Congress have been giving him to a point a second special counsel. We won’t get justice from the Democrats. If you watched the hearing today, you saw the Democrats give a five hour cat bath to Peter Strzok.”

Sean Hannity said on Fox News’ Hannity (7/12), “It is clear and it is obvious to every American with common sense, Peter Strzok definitely has an unfaithful relationship with the truth. Without a doubt, this is the greatest case of cognitive dissonance I’ve ever seen in my life. He’s out of touch with reality. He thinks only he knows what is right for America. It couldn’t be more obvious. The poster child of what we now know is a deep state thinking he knew better and knows better than we smelly Trump supporters.”

Democrats offered a very different assessment of the hearing. Kasie Hunt said on NBC Nightly News (7/12, story 4, 2:00, Holt) that Democrats “blast[ed] the hearing as a show trial, defending Strzok and the legitimacy of the Mueller investigation.” Rep. Gerry Connolly said on CNN’s Situation Room (7/12), “This hearing and the 11-hour closed deposition are Republican attempts to deflect attention away from the criminal investigation of Russian connections with the Trump campaign.” Connolly added that Republicans “are trying to protect this President at any cost including destruction of law enforcement, destruction of the reputation of the FBI and ultimately the destruction of the Mueller investigation itself. It’s a new low for the United States Congress.”

Rep. David Cicilline said on CNN’s Anderson Cooper 360 (7/12), “I think this was a very sad day for the committee. This is a joint hearing where our Republican colleagues really had no interest in hearing the answers to these questions. This was about promoting a narrative to continue to undermine the investigation of Robert Mueller and to really distract attention from the issues that Congress is not taking up.”

Rep. Eric Swalwell said on CNN’s Anderson Cooper 360 (7/12) that Strzok and former FBI Director James Comey have testified under oath, and "the question now moves, Mr. President, are you willing to go to Bob Mueller and raise your right hand and go under oath and answer questions as it relates to your involvement with the Russians?"

A Washington Post (7/12) editorial calls the hearing "a fitting coda to the hyperpartisan farce of an investigation that House Republicans have conducted into the FBI and Mr. Mueller's Russia probe." To the Post, the hearing "did more to harm Congress and the FBI than it did to expose wrongdoing."

Gloria Borger said on CNN's Situation Room (7/12), "The whole irony here is that the FBI is mad at Strzok because they believe that his texts were inappropriate and that he shouldn't have done it. Whether or not it reflects bias in his investigation, they are saying it was a bad thing to do. So he gave this incredible defense of the FBI and I bet there are people from the FBI...who are sitting there thinking, 'The defense was great. I wish we had a different messenger.'"

Strzok Refuses To Say How He Obtained Different Versions Of Trump Dossier. The Washington Examiner (7/12, Yilek) reports that Strzok "would not reveal...how he had access to three copies from different sources of the infamous 'Trump dossier.'" Rep. Jim Jordan "read an email sent by Strzok to other members of the FBI, that pointed out the dossier published by BuzzFeed News was identical to the documents that Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., had passed along to the FBI." In the email, Strzok "noted that the dossier 'has differences from what was given to us by Corn and Simpson.'" Strzok declined to identify Corn and Simpson, "though Jordan specifically asked whether the email referred to journalist David Corn and Fusion GPS founder Glenn Simpson. Strzok said he had not communicated with either of the men."

Gohmert Asks Strzok How Many Times He Lied To His Wife About Page. The Washington Times (7/12, Mordock) reports that Rep. Louie Gohmert "blasted" Strzok for his extra-marital affair with Page. Gohmert "accused Mr. Strzok of lying under oath and embarrassing the FBI," saying, "You've embarrassed them. ... You've embarrassed yourself. I can't help wonder when I see you looking there with a little smirk, how many times did you look so innocent into your wife's eyes and lie to her about —" Strzok interrupted Gohmert and said, "Your decision to bring up my wife, a person I have acknowledged I have hurt, says more about your character than mine, sir." Gohmert's comment drew fire from Democrats, one of whom "yell[ed] that Mr. Gohmert's question was 'intolerable harassment of a witness!'"

The Daily Caller (7/12, Rosiak) reports that Gohmert said that the Intelligence Community Inspector General "found that nearly all of former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's emails were sent to a foreign entity and that the FBI didn't follow-up on that finding." According to Gohmert, the ICIG found an "anomaly on Hillary Clinton's emails going through their private server, and when they had done the forensic analysis, they found that her emails, every single one except four, over 30,000, were going to an address that was not on the distribution list. ... It was going to an unauthorized source that was a foreign entity unrelated to Russia." Gohmert said ICIG investigator, Frank Rucker, "presented the findings to Strzok, but that the FBI official did not do anything with the information." Gohmert said on Fox News' Tucker Carlson Tonight (7/12) that his exchange with Strzok "may have clouded over" his discussion of the ICIG's finding.

The Washington Examiner (7/12, Scarry) reports that Fox News political analyst Brit Hume, "who is generally sympathetic to President Trump, hit" Gohmert over his comment. Hume tweeted, "I did not think it possible anyone could make Peter Strzok seem a sympathetic figure in this hearing, but Louie Gohmert did. His behavior toward the witness was bullying and insulting, and elicited no information."

Editorial Wrap-Up

New York Times.

"Ocasio-Cortez Isn't Spelled C-r-o-w-l-e-y." In an editorial, the New York Times (7/12) says that the "the arcane election laws that could keep [Rep. Joe] Crowley" on the Working Families Party ballot line "need to be changed. Legally, candidates' names can be removed from a party line only if they move out of New York State, die or accept that party's nomination for a different office." The Times adds that "the episode is a grating reminder of the brokenness of the state's election laws."

"Is The GOP Following Jim Jordan Over A Cliff?" A New York Times (7/12) editorial says that GOP lawmakers "are playing a dangerous game in their rush to defend" Rep. Jim Jordan amid "accusations that, as an assistant wrestling coach at Ohio State University, he ignored athletes' complaints of sexual abuse by the team doctor." The Times says that by "attacking Mr. Jordan's accusers, dismissing the accusers as politically motivated and spinning deep-state conspiracy theories," Republicans "are opting for tribal loyalty over concern for the public good." This "blind partisanship" has "real potential to come back and bite them on their backsides" and it is "morally wrong." The Times adds that "knee-jerk, belligerent, circle-the-wagons, we're-the-real-victims-here defiance has become the default attitude in Donald Trump's Republican Party," but "while it plays well with angry, resentful elements of the Republican base, it's unlikely to prove an enduringly popular message for the broader electorate."

Washington Post.

"Migrant Families' Nightmare Is Far From Over." In an editorial, the Washington Post (7/12) says "the Trump administration seems determined to double down on its cruelty," as "government lawyers would not commit to releasing the parents of older children once they are reunited," and "instead, they suggested that detained parents might be offered an unbearable choice: either to agree to be detained along with their children, thereby waiving their sons' and daughters' right to release, or to allow the children to be released to officials, who would then place them with a relative or another sponsor." The Post concludes that "the administration's manufactured nightmare of family separation is not over."

"The Strzok Hearing Damaged Our Democracy." A Washington Post (7/12) editorial calls Thursday's joint hearing of two House committees at which FBI agent Peter Strzok testified "a fitting coda to the hyperpartisan farce of an investigation that House Republicans have conducted into the FBI and Mr. Mueller's Russia probe." To the Post, the hearing "did more to harm Congress and the FBI than it did to expose wrongdoing."

"A Persecuted Woman Is Free At Last, But China's Cruelty Persists." In an editorial, the Washington Post (7/12) welcomes this week's release of Liu Xia, the widow of dissident and Nobel Peace Prize laureate Liu Xiaobo, from house arrest in China after eight years. However, the Post says "anyone hoping that her release would herald a shift in China's persecution of dissidents was soon disappointed. On the very same day, an independent think tank in Beijing that espoused free-market and pro-democracy positions was evicted from its offices." The Post argues that the "successful effort to free Ms. Liu shows that sustained, unwavering pressure on Beijing can yield results," so "democratic governments must continue pushing China on its dismal human rights record and particularly its brazen crackdown on free thinking and dissent."

Wall Street Journal.

"What Putin Wants From Trump." In an editorial, the Wall Street Journal (7/12) warns President Trump that Vladimir Putin is likely to seek – and should not get – concessions in exchange for better relations with the US, including asking Trump to accept his annexation of Crimea and the lifting of sanctions.

"The Smears Begin On Kavanaugh." In an editorial, the Wall Street Journal (7/12) criticizes efforts by the left to smear Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh. The Journal highlights a group called Ultraviolet's call for Senate Democrats to investigate whether Kavanaugh, who served as a clerk for Judge Alex Kozinski on the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, who was accused of harassment by several women – knew of Kozinski's behavior.

"Where New York Goes To Think." A Wall Street Journal (7/12) editorial credits the Manhattan Institute under the leadership of Larry Mone, who will announce his retirement today, for its role in the renaissance New York City has undergone since the Institute's founding in 1977.

Conan O'Brien: "President Trump arrived in England today, and he was greeted by hundreds of angry protesters. Of course, it didn't help that Trump arrived in England wearing a Croatian soccer jersey."

Conan O'Brien: "While in the UK, President Trump was asked if he was worried about the protests there. And he said, quote, 'I think they agree with me on immigration.' Trump has a point. Many people in England want him immediately deported."

Jimmy Kimmel: "Our President, at NATO today describing himself once again as a genius, a very stable genius. The 'genius' aside, who describes themselves as 'stable'? 'Stable' is a word the doctor uses after you have a car accident."

Jimmy Kimmel: "And then the Trumps flew off to England for talks with Theresa May. Trump has a lot of work to do in England. Number one on the list: He is demanding the English give us a better deal on their muffins."

Jimmy Kimmel: "Trump was greeted by protests in England before his dinner with the prime minister. Tomorrow, he is scheduled to have tea with Queen Elizabeth. Trump has actually been preparing for his meeting with the Queen. He has been listening to Bohemian Rhapsody for weeks now and he knows all the words."

Jimmy Kimmel: "In other White House news, the President reportedly wants to do some renovations on Air Force One, his plane, to make it, quote, 'more American.' He wants to redesign the color scheme and redo the interior of the plane. Is he the President or one of the 'Queer Eye' guys?"

Jimmy Kimmel: "Also, he wants to make the presidential bed on Air Force One larger, presumably so he can fit more buckets of fried chicken in it."

Stephen Colbert: "Anybody this afternoon watch the testimony before the House Judiciary Committee? It was a parliamentary smackdown. The Capitol dome became the Thunderdome."

Stephen Colbert: "Republicans see [FBI agent Peter Strzok's] texts as proof of a vast conspiracy within the FBI to stop Donald Trump from being elected President. And here's how devious they were: In order to keep it a secret, they let him get elected President."

Stephen Colbert: The hearing "was like 'A Few Good Men,' but with even fewer good men."

As we discussed, David Bernhardt may be recused from matters relating to the petition finding and litigation regarding American burying beetle due to his past relationship with the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA). IPAA petitioned FWS to delist the beetle, and is one of the plaintiffs in the suit alleging that FWS has missed the deadline for making a 12-month finding on the petition (American Stewards of Liberty, et al. v. DOI, et al. (E.D. Okla.)).

FWS has been informed not to raise issues relating to the beetle with David. Todd Willens asked that we inform the ASFWP office as well.

Dear Team:

Most everyone remembers where they were on 9/11. I was in Coronado, California, as a BUD/S Instructor, training future Navy SEALs. As the news showed pictures of the horror and devastation, it became clear to me that the world as we all knew it would change. I immediately knew those young men I was training would have very different careers in the SEALs than I had.

That day, terrorists flew two planes into the World Trade Center in New York City and another into the Pentagon in Washington, DC. Their collective actions killed almost 3,000 people.

A fourth flight, Flight 93 from New York to San Francisco, crashed into a field near Shanksville, Pennsylvania. Instead of letting the terrorists reach their destination, likely our Nation's Capital, the crew and passengers fought back. In the direst of circumstances, they summoned the courage to rush the cockpit and change the course of history. Today, I am with Vice President Mike Pence to attend a remembrance ceremony for those 40 heroes from Flight 93 and all the victims of 9/11.

One of those heroes from Flight 93 was a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) employee, Richard Guadagno. After the crash, it was impossible to recover almost anything that was on the plane. A month later, however, investigators were searching the crash site, and there it was—Mr. Guadagno's FWS badge, fully intact and resting in a nearby tree. Yesterday, I saw his badge on display at the Memorial's Visitor Center.

It reminded me of the service and sacrifice made by thousands of Department of the Interior employees to this day. From first responders to Hurricanes Harvey and Irma, to firefighters across the West and everyone in between, let me say that your bravery and dedication is awe-inspiring. The whole Nation is grateful for your lifesaving work. Unfortunately, our job is not over. We will continue to be asked to serve the citizens of our great Nation as we recover from Hurricanes Harvey and Irma, fight wildfires across the West, and prepare for more hurricanes on the way.

When tragedy strikes, Americans mourn as one people, under one flag. An attack on one of us is an attack on us all. Today, we come together to grieve with those who lost loved ones that fateful day, and to pledge never to forget September 11, 2001. Let our constant vigilance in the face of our enemies serve as a testament to the unshakable resolve of our great Nation.

Subject: 2018 National Police Week: Honoring Interior's Law Enforcement Officers
Date: Tuesday, May 8, 2018 12:32:12 PM
Attachments: DOI_email_header.png

U.S. Department of the Interior

Quality law enforcement is the backbone of a Nation of laws. Our great law enforcement officers deserve our deepest appreciation. In 1962, May 15 was designated as Peace Officers Memorial Day and that entire week as National Police Week—a time to recognize all law enforcement officers. This year National Police Week will be May 13-19. The week is an opportunity to honor our Nation's law enforcement officers and express our gratitude for their service.

Since the Department of the Interior's (Department) founding in 1849, we have lost 139 law enforcement officers in the line of duty. While we were fortunate to have not experienced the loss of any of our officers this past year, we stand in solidarity with our Tribal counterparts of the Navajo Nation and the Yakama Nation, who memorialized Officer Houston Largo and Game Warden Nelson Onepennee this year on the Indian Country Law Enforcement Memorial in Artesia, New Mexico. It is important that we do not forget their names, lives, families, or ultimate sacrifice.

Please join me in honoring our Department's brave officers during our annual Law Enforcement Officer Memorial Ceremony. The event is:

- Monday, May 14, 2018 at 11 a.m.
- Sidney R. Yates Auditorium, Main Interior Building
- For those unable to attend, watch the event at <http://www.doi.gov/live>

Everywhere I travel on lands managed by the Department, I am impressed by the breadth of the activities carried out by our law enforcement officers. Our far-reaching and unique mission means our law enforcement officers must possess a wide range of knowledge and skills that often extend far beyond typical law enforcement duties. As police officers, rangers, wildlife refuge officers, and special agents, they may frequently work alone, patrolling vast lands. They may be called on to render emergency medical care, investigate complex resource crimes, perform harrowing technical rescues, and engage in proactive community policing. They work alongside their Federal, State, local, and Tribal counterparts, who collectively support efforts to protect our lands and to keep our communities safe.

I am honored to recognize the Department's thousands of permanent and seasonal law enforcement officers, who tirelessly protect our treasured lands and keep the public safe. Their commitment to the mission and to the American people is deeply appreciated.

To all of our law enforcement officers, thank you for the difficult and courageous work you do every day.

Sincerely,
Secretary Zinke

Subject: Accountability in the Work Place
Date: Monday, May 14, 2018 2:13:06 PM

PLEASE FORWARD TO ALL MANAGERS AND SUPERVISORS IN YOUR REGION/PROGRAM.

Memorandum

May 14, 2018

To: All Managers and Supervisors, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service

From: Senior Advisor to the Secretary, Exercising the Authority of the Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife and Parks

/s/ Susan Combs

Subject: Accountability in the Work Place

The Department administered a work environment survey in 2017. Unfortunately, the results of the survey of FWS employees showed that many employees reported experiencing harassment in the workplace. The survey results also indicated that many employees did not trust management to address incidents of workplace harassment. This is unacceptable. We owe our employees a safe and civil place to work. Effectively leading and managing people is key to the health of any organization and FWS cannot create effective change without your leadership. I wanted to take this opportunity to communicate my expectations of you as leaders, managers, supervisors and change agents.

Accountability in an organization is essential. Accountability ensures that employees answer to their supervisors for their actions and that supervisors behave responsibly as well. I expect you to hold your employees accountable for both poor performance and misconduct. When you observe, or are notified of, allegations of misconduct, you must act promptly to investigate those allegations in a neutral, thorough and fair manner that is consistent with agency policies and guidance. When misconduct is supported by the facts, you must appropriately discipline the wrong-doer. You also must keep your upper-level managers apprised of your actions. A manager or supervisor performing at the "Fully Successful" level does not allow friendships with subordinate staff to influence decision-making when holding employees accountable for misconduct. Employees notice when issues are ignored which, in turn, breeds mistrust in the workforce. We must gain the respect and trust of our employees by taking decisive, yet appropriate, action.

With respect to performance, you must ensure that the standards of performance are aligned with the Service's mission and goals. When performance deficiencies are observed, you must not delay in taking appropriate action. I expect you to utilize the resources of the Office of Human Resources and the Office of the Solicitor when taking disciplinary and performance-based actions to ensure that policy and regulations are followed and your actions are defensible.

An effective manager and supervisor is aware of the day-to-day activities of the organizational unit that they supervise, so that they can observe first-hand if any employee's performance or conduct is not what one should expect of a government employee. I expect you to conduct town hall-style meetings with your staff on a regular basis to take the pulse of your office or unit. We can only fix problems if we know about them. As a manager or supervisor, you are responsible for ensuring that your office or unit has a healthy climate and culture.

Leading people also means providing clear guidance and boundaries to your employees. An effective manager will have transparent office policies and procedures that are applied fairly and equitably to all employees. I expect you to develop and communicate clearly and often the processes and procedures that govern the activities of your respective offices.

By policy, managers and supervisors must comply with merit system principles, anti-harassment, anti-discrimination and equal employment opportunity obligations, and effectively manage ethics, conduct and performance issues. You are required to understand your obligations as managers and supervisors in each of these critical areas. You should immediately familiarize yourself with the Department's new harassing conduct policy, Personnel Bulletin 18-01, and ensure you comply with the requirements and guidance contained in those documents. If you determine that there are knowledge gaps in your office or unit on these topics, I expect you to arrange training for yourself and your employees so that you and your staff have a clear understanding of your obligations. You will be held accountable for any failure to promptly and appropriately address any performance and conduct deficiencies of your subordinates. Needless to say, it is unacceptable to retaliate against those who pursue their rights under anti-discrimination and anti-harassment policies, or who report supervisor misconduct and, substantiated retaliation will result in disciplinary action.

I am confident that all of you will rise to the challenge and make FWS a better workplace for everyone. Please encourage your employees to complete the Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey so that we can see how we are doing. Should you have any questions about my expectations, feel free to contact me to discuss your questions or concerns. I appreciate all that you do for FWS and the American people.

U.S. Department of the Interior

Interior Team,

One of my highest priorities is ensuring that you are empowered in your positions to best serve the American people. To achieve this mission, I strongly encourage you to complete the 2018 Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey (FEVS) so Department leadership can ensure that we are meeting your needs.

The FEVS data informs the Government-wide Best Places to Work rankings. In 2017, among large Agencies, the Department of the Interior was ranked ninth. I want the Department to be number one!

The Office of Personnel Management administers the survey, which began May 2, 2018, and concludes June 15, 2018. All career permanent employees who were on board as of October 31, 2017, are eligible to participate in the survey. You should have received an email invitation to take the confidential survey.

Please take the time to provide your feedback. We are listening to your voices. By completing the survey, all of us can come together to make the Department the best place to work in the Federal Government. The results from the survey will be available this fall.

Thank you for your dedication and passion in carrying out the Department's vital missions. I appreciate all that you do.

Sincerely,
Secretary Zinke

Hello Amy,
Hope all is well and life is good! So glad to have a great contact at FWS!!

Secretary Mark Killian (AZ) and Director Witte (NV) were in DC recently and met with me and my Director of Intergov & External Todd Wynn. He wants to set up a meeting to address the following:

Director Witte from New Mexico and I would like to set up a time to schedule a wolf meeting in either Apache County or Catron County with your boss in the next few months. We would like to have this be a private meeting with the ranchers and citizens that have been impacted by the Mexican Wolf program.

Leatta McLaughlin of his office exploring dates in late March and early April for the meeting in Apache County. They would also like to engage the FS along with FWS & BLM.

Could you please give me a call (202) 821-9410 at your earliest convenience to discuss?

Thanks much!!

/s/ Susan Combs

Subject: Accountability in the Work Place

The Department administered a work environment survey in 2017. Unfortunately, the results of the survey of FWS employees showed that many employees reported experiencing harassment in the workplace. The survey results also indicated that many employees did not trust management to address incidents of workplace harassment. This is unacceptable. We owe our employees a safe and civil place to work. Effectively leading and managing people is key to the health of any organization and FWS cannot create effective change without your leadership. I wanted to take this opportunity to communicate my expectations of you as leaders, managers, supervisors and change agents.

Accountability in an organization is essential. Accountability ensures that employees answer to their supervisors for their actions and that supervisors behave responsibly as well. I expect you to hold your employees accountable for both poor performance and misconduct. When you observe, or are notified of, allegations of misconduct, you must act promptly to investigate those allegations in a neutral, thorough and fair manner that is consistent with agency policies and guidance. When misconduct is supported by the facts, you must appropriately discipline the wrong-doer. You also must keep your upper-level managers apprised of your actions. A manager or supervisor performing at the “Fully Successful” level does not allow friendships with subordinate staff to influence decision-making when holding employees accountable for misconduct. Employees notice when issues are ignored which, in turn, breeds mistrust in the workforce. We must gain the respect and trust of our employees by taking decisive, yet appropriate, action.

With respect to performance, you must ensure that the standards of performance are aligned with the Service’s mission and goals. When performance deficiencies are observed, you must not delay in taking appropriate action. I expect you to utilize the resources of the Office of Human Resources and the Office of the Solicitor when taking disciplinary and performance-based actions to ensure that policy and regulations are followed and your actions are defensible.

An effective manager and supervisor is aware of the day-to-day activities of the organizational unit that they supervise, so that they can observe first-hand if any employee’s performance or conduct is not what one should expect of a government employee. I expect you to conduct town hall-style meetings with your staff on a regular basis to take the pulse of your office or unit. We can only fix problems if we know about them. As a manager or supervisor, you are responsible for ensuring that your office or unit has a healthy climate and culture.

Leading people also means providing clear guidance and boundaries to your employees. An effective manager will have transparent office policies and procedures that are applied fairly and equitably to all employees. I expect you to develop and communicate clearly and often the processes and procedures that govern the activities of your respective offices.

By policy, managers and supervisors must comply with merit system principles, anti-harassment, anti-discrimination and equal employment opportunity obligations, and effectively manage ethics, conduct and performance issues. You are required to understand your obligations as managers and supervisors in each of these critical areas. You should immediately familiarize yourself with the Department’s new harassing conduct policy, Personnel Bulletin 18-01, and ensure you comply with the requirements and guidance contained in those documents. If you determine that there are knowledge gaps in your office or unit on these topics,

I expect you to arrange training for yourself and your employees so that you and your staff have a clear understanding of your obligations. You will be held accountable for any failure to promptly and appropriately address any performance and conduct deficiencies of your subordinates. Needless to say, it is unacceptable to retaliate against those who pursue their rights under anti-discrimination and anti-harassment policies, or who report supervisor misconduct and, substantiated retaliation will result in disciplinary action.

I am confident that all of you will rise to the challenge and make FWS a better workplace for everyone. Please encourage your employees to complete the Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey so that we can see how we are doing. Should you have any questions about my expectations, feel free to contact me to discuss your questions or concerns. I appreciate all that you do for FWS and the American people.

Hello,

Attached are the notes from the AD Staff Meeting for Monday, September 18, 2017.

The following item was added after the meeting from the Chief of Staff:

The Department has developed a rack card that lists the Secretary's priorities, which are:

1. Create a conservation stewardship legacy, second only to Teddy Roosevelt
2. Sustainably develop our energy & natural resources
3. Restore trust & be a good neighbor
4. Ensure Tribal sovereignty means something
5. Increase revenues to support DOI and national interests
6. Protect our people and the border
7. Strike a regulatory balance
8. Modernize our infrastructure
9. Reorganize DOI for the next 100 years
10. Achieving our goals, leading our team forward cheers,

Michael

AD Meeting Notes

09.18.17

Director's Office

The ADs have received the new DOI Strategic Plan, which requires surname from the ADs affected. Gary Frazer is working on the Agency Priority Goals related to ESA.

The Secretary's Top 10 Priorities list is being incorporated into a new format. Feedback from DOI involved implementation of ESA. Assignment is due Wednesday.

Secretarial Order 3355 on Hunting and Fishing has been released, which has a list of tasks for FWS.

On the new Secretarial Order on NEPA, there's a team working on the FWS vision for EA streamlining.

Migratory Birds

Last week, the 2017 Duck Stamp Contest was hosted in Wisconsin at Stevens Point. Bob Hopman was the prize with a picture of a mallard.

International Affairs

This morning, there was an interagency meeting for Ramsar (i.e., wetlands of international importance).

Refuge System

Working on OMB briefs. We need to firm up Greg's schedule in the morning for the walk-about in Refuges and the Region 5 Project Leader meeting.

External Affairs

Banner on the FWS.gov home page is themed around hunting. We will be working with the Regions to solicit stories. There's an event today on the Hill for an estuary expo. There's a follow up meeting with Senator McConnell's staff that has been scheduled.

Fisheries & Aquatic Conservation

Two OMB briefings this week, and a meeting FWP on the Atlantic Menhaden catch issue.

Office of Law Enforcement

Also have OMB briefings and a meeting with contractors related to the Wildlife Inspector staffing model.

IRTM and BPHC

Nothing to report on the IT front. There is a meeting this afternoon regarding E-Perform. Charisa will follow up with Ken on the need for follow-up meetings. There are 260 outstanding IT trainings, but likely a DOI Learn issue.

WSFR

Paul Rauch is attending a Departmental meeting about grants management today, where new guidance for FY18 grants management will be discussed.

WSFR has provided feedback to an exercise from DOI to incorporate Secretarial priorities into grants.

Ecological Services

They are working with the Solicitor's Office on a declaration related court ordered deadlines. Gary gave an update on wolf recovery issues.

Science Applications

There's a meeting this afternoon with Greg Sheehan, and an OMB briefing later this week on the Science Applications program. There's a discussion with USGS later this week on joint science activities.

Business and Management Operations

Closing out end of fiscal year issues. Also meeting with the Directorates for the 1616 reductions. There is a proposal where DOI would ask a safety review of supplemental hazards, but there's likely a price tag associated with it.

Chief of Staff

Reminder: there is a Directorate VTC on Tuesday at 2:00p.m.

International travel has to be approved by FWP.

An in-person Directorate meeting is planned for the week after Thanksgiving at Headquarters.

The Department has developed a rack card that lists the Secretary's priorities, which are:

1. Create a conservation stewardship legacy, second only to Teddy Roosevelt
2. Sustainably develop our energy & natural resources
3. Restore trust & be a good neighbor

Can you send me a copy of the answers to the two questions I assume you provided in response to the email below. Thank you.

- 1) USFWS' opinion on whether Bio-West's July 2017, Report applies the correct standard for calculating impacted acreage under the TCP.
- 2) ...in the event frac-sand mining operations are admitted under the TCP, is impacted acreage calculated under the TCP based upon actual disturbed area on an annual basis or based upon the total acreage controlled by a sand mining operation?

Subject: calculation of acreage under Texas Conservation Plan for the dunes sagebrush lizard

Mr. Sheehan,

We spoke a few months ago about the dunes sagebrush lizard (DSL) and its history of attempted regulation under the Endangered Species Act. As we discussed, I serve as the General Counsel at the Texas Public Policy Foundation (TPPF). TPPF is a non-profit, non-partisan research institute based in Austin, Texas. The Foundation's mission is to promote and defend liberty, personal responsibility, and free enterprise in Texas and the nation by educating and affecting policymakers and the Texas public policy debate with academically sound research and outreach. One of our research centers focuses on energy and environmental regulatory policymaking, including the Endangered Species Act (ESA). In 2012, TPPF was active as an advocate for limited government, Tenth Amendment principles in support of the creation of the Texas Conservation Plan (TCP) in lieu of ESA listing of the DSL.

As you are aware, considerable attention has been focused recently on both the DSL and TCP due to the growth of the frac-sand mining industry in the Permian Basin area. Part of the recent public discussion has involved debate over the amount of acreage currently and potentially impacted and the correct methodology to calculate impacted acreage under the Texas Conservation Plan. As you undoubtedly know, the TCP is the agreed upon document supported by USFWS, the participants, and the Texas Comptroller and has been subsequently twice upheld by the D.C. Circuit Court (September 30, 2014) and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit (March 1, 2016).

In its July 2017, Report, Bio-West reported 2,378 acres of surface disturbances occurring in DSL habitat by oil and gas development (attached, p. 11-12). Bio-West is the TCP administrator contracted by the Texas Comptroller, the permit holder for the TCP. As reported by Texas State University, this calculation appears based upon extension of the New Mexico lizard habitat model. http://www.txstate.edu/news/news_releases/news_archive/2017/February-2017/SagebrushLizard022117.html. However, the TCP does not follow the New Mexico DSL habitat model approach. Instead as set forth in the TCP section 12.2 (page 76), the TCP calculates impacted acreage under the "Tiered Buffer Approach." "Because of the scientific uncertainty and lack of research specifically related to what buffer distances would benefit the DSL, the stakeholders determined that a tiered buffer coupled with tiered mitigation would maximize mitigation in a practical and flexible approach." (TCP Section 12.2, p. 76). The TCP Tiered Buffer Approach accounts for decreasing indirect effects on the DSL with increasing distance from DLS habitat. If the impact is outside of DSL habitat but within 200 meters of habitat, the acreage of impact is multiplied by the appropriate equivalence factor. Under the TCP, these impacts are quantified during an on-site Impact Assessment on a case-by-case basis (see TCP, Appendix F). However, page 3 of Bio-West's July Report references utilization of a 200 meter buffer of the Habitat Management Units that treat all area within the buffer as impacted. This is the New Mexico model, not the Tiered Buffer Approach. Based on our calculations, accounting for the TCP Tiered Buffer Approach, instead of the New Mexico model, would reduce Bio-West's estimate in its July 2017, Report of surface disturbances caused by oil and gas from 2,378 acres to 1,775 acres. Our concern is that Bio-West's use of the improper metric will result in faulty data relied upon as true, which may undermine future defense of the TCP. I would appreciate USFWS' opinion on whether Bio-West's July 2017, Report applies the correct standard for calculating impacted acreage under the TCP.

On a related issue, the Texas Comptroller's office in June 2017, published a presentation on Recent Developments in the Texas Conservation Plan. In describing the potential impact of frac-sand mining operations, the Texas Comptroller's office published the following chart (attached) that approximates impacted area apparently as the total acreage utilized over the lifetime of the mining operation and excludes any reclaimed area. These totals have been reported as allegedly showing that sand mining operations would exceed the acreage allowed under the TCP. However, the actual impacted area will only grow over the next years and decades if the projections are correct (also depending upon application of the correct model). I would also appreciate USFWS's opinion on: in the event frac-sand mining operations are admitted under the TCP, is impacted acreage calculated under the TCP based upon actual disturbed area on an annual basis or based upon the total acreage controlled by a sand mining operation?

As you can see, the correct application of the TCP assessment of impacted DSL habitat will significantly influence the correct calculation of utilized and available acreage available under the TCP. The Foundation desires to see the TCP correctly administered. To the extent that any ambiguities exist, it may be proper for USFWS to address the proper interpretation and methodology under the TCP. I appreciate your consideration and would welcome the opportunity to discuss further if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Rob Henneke

Noreen and Matt -- There will be more to come on this, but I just want to alert you to this event that will be likely occurring in Lakewood (at the IBC facility) for all employees to share info/feedback to Susan on Monday April 30th. She may have an SES meeting as well on Monday or a different day that week.

Also, she needs someone to drive her to Cheyenne on Thursday for another meeting she is having there with BLM and other DOI bureaus. Would we have someone who could do that and possibly able to bend her ear during that ride?

Amy/Anne -- For Abq, that session is tentatively planned for Tuesday and BIA is hosting it.

Joy is working on some of the logistics and I will share them as we hear more.

Dear Mr. Steed:

I have been asked to serve as the Senior Advisor to the Secretary, Exercising the Authority of the Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife and Parks. I am still serving as the lead for the Department of the Interior (DOI) reorganization. In that role, I am planning a listening session tour of the west the first week of May where I will meet with DOI employees in Denver/Lakewood, CO; Albuquerque, NM; and Cheyenne, WY, to discuss reorganization.

I am requesting your assistance to host a meeting in Cheyenne, Wyoming on Thursday, May 3 for DOI employees in the area. I request that each listening session for employees begin at 1pm-3:30pm local time and last approximately 2 ½ hours. At these meetings, I will present information on the reorganization for about 20 minutes, and then begin a Q&A session with employees for no more than an hour. I ask that you make available 2 employees to take notes of all of the questions asked at the meeting. I will post those questions and answers on the DOI Reorganization web page after I conclude the May listening tour. Please note that I will remain at the meeting locations to informally interact with DOI employees for 30 minutes – 1 hour after the formal Q&A session.

If you have questions or need additional information about the listening sessions, please contact Joy Nicholopoulos (Joy_Nicholopoulos@fws.gov). Please respond to this e-mail message and copy Tasha Robbins (Tasha_Robbins @ios.doi.gov) to provide me with a local point of contact (the person who will be assisting with the logistics for the local listening session) by close of business April 23, 2018.

Thank you in advance,

Susan

Mail from the U.S. Department of the Interior

In Happy birthday, President Theodore Roosevelt! In the 159 years since Roosevelt was born, his name has become symbolic of our deep commitment to our public lands and a belief in the American conservation ethic.

Often called a "force of nature," his legendary courage and powerful conservation legacy continue to influence lawmakers and provide an example for all nations. His felt passionately about the outdoors and advocated for our national treasures to be managed "for the benefit and enjoyment of the people." As Roosevelt once said, "It is not what we have that will make us a great nation; it is the way in which we use it."

Join Secretary Zinke and all of Interior as we celebrate the life of a great man who enshrined an appreciation of our nation's greatest treasures: our public lands.

U.S. Department of the Interior

Interior Team,

Last December, I explained that one of the responsibilities of the Office of Inspector General (OIG) is to summarize its work every 6 months in a report to Congress. Here is the link to the most recent Semi-Annual Report to Congress issued by the OIG: <https://www.doioig.gov/reports/april-2018-semiannual-report-congress>

The report linked here presents the work conducted by the OIG in the past 6 months, as well as statistical information about the breadth and results of that work. If, after reading this report, you have comments to share with the OIG, please do so at communications@doioig.gov.

As I mentioned in my first message to employees after arriving at the Department, the Principles of Ethical Conduct of Government Employees includes an obligation to disclose waste, fraud, abuse, and corruption to appropriate authorities, which includes the Office of the Inspector General. Therefore, if you have concerns about fraud, waste, abuse, or mismanagement in Department and its programs and operations, you may report those through the OIG Hotline at <https://www.doioig.gov/complaints/complaint-hotline>.

Thank you,
Deputy Secretary David Bernhardt

WASHINGTON

DEC 04 2017

Memorandum

To: All Senior Executives
From: Deputy Secretary
Subject: Senior Executive Service Management

One of my responsibilities as Deputy Secretary is to serve as Chair of the Executive Resources Board (ERB). As I have examined our processes, consulted with the Office of Personnel Management (OPM), and requested that the Secretary reconstitute the membership of the ERB to adopt best practices, I thought it would be useful to share my understanding of the role the Senior Executive Service (SES) plays in leading the Department.

As many of you no doubt know, the SES was established by Title IV of the Civil Service Reform Act (CSRA) of 1978 (P.L. 95-454, October 13, 1978). In CSRA, Congress stated that a Senior Executive Service should be established to provide the flexibility needed by agencies to recruit and retain the highly competent and qualified executives needed to provide more effective management of agencies and their functions, and the more expeditious administration of the public business.

The purpose of the SES is "to ensure that the executive management of the Government of the United States is responsive to the needs, policies, and goals of the Nation and otherwise is of the highest quality."

Specifically, CSRA explained that the SES shall be administered so as to:

- "(1) provide for a compensation system, including salaries, benefits, and incentives, and for other conditions of employment, designed to attract and retain highly competent senior executives;
- "(2) ensure that compensation, retention, and tenure are contingent on executive success which is measured on the basis of individual and organizational performance (including such factors as improvements in efficiency, productivity, quality of work or service, cost efficiency, and timeliness of performance and success in meeting equal employment opportunity goals);
- "(3) assure that senior executives are accountable and responsible for the effectiveness and productivity of employees under them;
- "(4) recognize exceptional accomplishment;
- "(5) enable the head of an agency to reassign senior executives to best accomplish the agency's mission;

- “(6) provide for severance pay, early retirement, and placement assistance for senior executives who are removed from the Senior Executive Service for nondisciplinary reasons;
- “(7) protect senior executives from arbitrary or capricious actions;
- “(8) provide for program continuity and policy advocacy in the management of public programs;
- “(9) maintain a merit personnel system free of prohibited personnel practices;
- “(10) ensure accountability for honest, economical, and efficient Government;
- “(11) ensure compliance with all applicable civil service laws, rules, and regulations, including those related to equal employment opportunity, political activity, and conflicts of interest;
- “(12) provide for the initial and continuing systematic development of highly competent senior executives;
- “(13) provide for an executive system which is guided by the public interest and free from improper political interference; and
- “(14) appoint career executives to fill Senior Executive Service positions to the extent practicable, consistent with the effective and efficient implementation of agency policies and responsibilities.

(Civil Service Reform Act of 1978, Pub. L. No. 95-454, § 402, 92 Stat. 111 (1978)). I have attached the CSRA to this memo for your own review.

These are the principles Congress gave the Secretary to manage SES employees within the Department, and they are the factors that will serve as the basis for the decisions made by the ERB during my tenure as Chair.

As I have spent time visiting with experts within OPM, it is clear that talent management and succession planning are crucial to the development of an effective SES corps. Managing talent within the SES ranks ensures an agency has a qualified pool of executives who have the leadership and managerial expertise to occupy any number of different executive positions based on the needs of the organization. Developing the best leadership talent is essential, not just to support agency strategic planning, but to contribute to a thriving, sustained performance culture in the Federal workforce.

The rotation of the SES corps through a variety of leadership positions has been recognized as an effective method of strengthening leadership and executive skills. Indeed, the Obama Administration issued Executive Order (EO) 13714 on December 25, 2015, on “Strengthening the Senior Executive Service.” The EO required agencies to develop plans to increase the number of SES members who are rotated to different assignments “to improve talent development, mission delivery, and collaboration.” The EO acknowledged the Federal Government’s interest in “cultivating generalist executives with broad and diverse experiences who can lead a variety of organizations.” The EO established an annual Government-wide goal, beginning in Fiscal Year 2017, of rotating at least 15 percent of SES members to different departments, agencies, subcomponents, functional areas, sectors, and non-Federal partners. In its 2016 guidance to implementing the SES rotations requirement, OPM identified executive reassignment and transfers as two options for implementing SES rotations.

I have been informed that during the Obama Administration, there were 140 SES reassignments at the Department, albeit with very modest mobility of the SES across bureaus. From my perspective, the lack of mobility can contribute to a siloed, bureau-centric approach to management. Although a long length of service in one position can be a management strength as it allows for the development of technical expertise and continuity, it can also inhibit the transfer of fresh management concepts among bureaus and offices.

It is my view that potentially greater cross-bureau collaboration and innovation can be achieved by bringing new leadership perspectives to our operations by rotating SES members from bureaus to headquarters, from headquarters to the field, and across different functional areas and disciplines. Going forward, I will seek to strike a balance between leadership continuity and achieving fresh perspective by reassigning SES employees across bureaus and offices.

I also intend to focus on strengthening executive accountability to ensure the growth and health of our organization. I was recently informed that 98 percent of our SES members within the Department received either an outstanding (Level 5 rating) or exceeds fully successful (Level 4 rating) performance rating for the prior year's rating. Each of you should be proud of your membership in the SES and your accomplishments as executives.

I look forward to working with each of you. Thank you for your service.

Subject: Month Two Message

To: All Department of the Interior Employees

From: David L. Bernhardt, Deputy Secretary

Subject: Month Two Message

A little over a month ago, I wrote to all of you on my first day as Deputy Secretary. Shortly thereafter we established an electronic “ideas” box, and the comments, ideas, and suggestions came rolling in. I want to thank you for your willingness to be thoughtful and candid with your input. Some of the ideas have already served to trigger action.

Many of your comments have educated me on particular issues that I might not have fully appreciated without them. For example, I was a couple steps behind the Secretary in recognizing that it is time for the uniforms to be updated. Your comments have reinforced the very real need of doing so. In addition, I am working to find a realistic means to raise the purchase card limits. I am undeterred, but I expect that we will need to rely on help from Congress. Consequently, that will require more steps to accomplish than I initially hoped.

In my first message to you, I reiterated the basic principle that public service is a public trust and to remind everyone of the basic premise of our Federal service and to confirm my expectation that employees abide by it.

After my first month as Deputy Secretary, and after reading certain comments I am troubled that there is not a universal sense in the Department of the Interior (Department) that those few employees who have failed to uphold these standards are appropriately being held accountable. Please be assured, that I am committed to ensuring that leaders at all levels of the Department are, themselves, ensuring that legally sound, measured, and decisive action is being taken. I want this message to be clear: it is the duty of managers to promptly and effectively take the necessary steps to resolve such issues when they arise.

I also want to convey that we can only take action when we are aware of misconduct. Such awareness often ultimately depends on an employee’s willingness to come forward. Despite the official duty articulated in the principles of ethical conduct that “[e]mployees shall disclose waste, fraud, abuse, and corruption to appropriate authorities,” many might find it difficult to report misconduct because of a belief that nothing will be done or perhaps due to a fear of retaliation.

Therefore, it is important for you to know that reports of misconduct are taken seriously and that action is taken in a timely manner when appropriate. To that end, I will share the results of two Inspector General investigations that began with a report of employee misconduct and which resulted in accountability. In one case, the allegations concerned former Bureau of Land Management Office of Law Enforcement Supervisory Agent Dan Love's misuse of his position for personal gain, securing privileges for both himself and family members, and misuse of Government equipment for personal purposes. The Department recently removed Mr. Love from Federal service. In the other, the allegations involved reports that former National Park Service Chief Ranger at Canaveral National Seashore, Edwin Correa, made unwanted sexual advances and inappropriate comments towards subordinates. The Department removed Mr. Correa as well.

I share these examples because you need to know that your leadership is listening. We will hold people accountable when we are informed that they have failed in their duties and obligations.

Although the law in large part prevents dissemination of the details of actions taken, I am sharing these examples because you need to know that the Department has taken concrete disciplinary action in cases of serious misconduct, including those involving senior officials. This message is part of our commitment to be vigilant and tireless in its pursuit of an environment in which employees treat each other in a manner that is consistent with the law and in which there are consequences for failing to do so.

Finally, as it is vitally important for the health of the Department that employees disclose misconduct they witness or experience, the Department is committed to protecting those who step forward from retaliation. Therefore, I will also make this clear: the Department must be free from any retaliation or reprisal for reports of misconduct and I expect every leader to ensure this.

Moreover, it goes without saying that we must remember to treat each other, as well as members of the public, with dignity and fairness. Supervisors should recognize the contributions of deserving employees and have the courage to address the failings of those that fall short of meeting expectations.

I look forward to continuing to work with all of you to further improve the Department and fulfill its important missions. Please keep sending me "ideas;" I will continue to review them.

Sincerely,
Deputy Secretary David Bernhardt

Subject: New Anti-Harassment Policy
Date: Monday, April 23, 2018 1:32:25 PM
Attachments: DOI email header.png

Interior Team,

In December, I told you that, during my tenure as Secretary, we had begun taking a more aggressive stance against employees who engage in misconduct, including taking action against senior leaders for harassment or other inappropriate misconduct. I have made it clear to my management team that we have to take decisive action to hold employees accountable for misconduct. That decisive action includes removing employees when necessary. Since last December, agency management has been following my lead by aggressively tackling the harassment problem through discipline. My management team has also encouraged the Office of the Inspector General to open investigations into other claims that were brought to our attention. I want you to know that discrimination, harassment, and intimidation will find no quarter under my command.

Deputy Secretary David Bernhardt and I also directed that each Bureau develop an action plan to address its own specific harassment-related issues. Since that time, we have worked with Bureaus to achieve this goal and have finalized a new, comprehensive anti-harassment policy for the Department.

The policy enshrines our commitment to providing a work environment free from harassment by ensuring that appropriate officials are notified of, and can properly stop, harassing conduct. It also holds employees accountable at the earliest possible stage, before the conduct rises to the level of illegal harassment. The requirements laid out in the policy for both employee conduct and manager responsibilities take strong steps toward rooting out harassment at all levels of the Department.

Overall, my philosophy has been that "one-size-fits-all" ends up working for no one. Instead of a top-down approach, we solicited individual Bureau plans; we took this approach because we recognize that different Bureaus face different challenges. Employee feedback was critical in developing our final product.

To ensure that we effect real, lasting change, we will continue to monitor each Bureau's efforts, so we can hold everyone, from senior leaders on down, accountable. This is a long-overdue culture change at Interior.

It is not enough to simply say that we want things to change. Past leaders have done that, only to watch as the problem persisted. By contrast, we have already taken a number of actions to back up our words on this topic. These include training nearly 100 employee relations and employment law practitioners on best practices for investigations of misconduct; issuing a guide on administrative investigations; and creating and updating an employee webpage with dedicated resources. You can visit that webpage at <https://www.doi.gov/employees/anti-harassment/personnel-bulletin-18-01>.

Management has a duty to act. If you report harassment, your voice will be heard. You should not have to suffer silently—afraid of retaliation or isolation—when you are just trying to do your job.

How we implement our new policy will have a direct effect on the quality of our work environment here at the Department. That is why the Deputy Secretary and I are deeply committed to this effort. As I have said before, I want Interior to be the best possible place to work in the Government. Today is a major step toward making that vision a reality.

Thank you for your cooperation throughout this process,
Secretary Zinke

All,

Thank you for being so patient and understanding with our office regarding the planning and logistical aspects of next month's summit. Once again, if you are receiving this email the Secretary has officially invited you to attend the Planning for the Next 100 Years.

Your attendance at the summit is assumed and this invitation is not transferable. However, there may be situations where an individual cannot attend, for example, if an individual is retiring or has an unexpected emergency. In such a case their replacement or acting SES official is expected to attend in their place. Please forward the name, title and contact information of the acting employee.

Attached you will find a copy of the tentative agenda. Please note that as this is a draft copy, the details are subject to change. Each of you will receive a final summit agenda upon check-in at the summit. All additional documents and information relating to the agenda will also be included in the welcome packet.

Please note that the summit begins at 8:30AM on Wednesday, January 10th and concludes the following day, Thursday, January 11th at 11:30AM. Please ensure that all travel arrangements booked to meet the timeline above. Each summit attendee is responsible for the coordination of all necessary travel needs.

Please contact myself at the information below or Caroline Boulton at Caroline_Boulton@ios.doi.gov regarding any of the information listed above. The Secretary looks forward to seeing you all next month and hopes that each of you have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. See you next year!

Thank you,

Wonderful to hear this is scheduled.! Looping in Dep. Asst. Secretary Aurelia Skipwith for awareness.

Also, we met with a number of NM County Commissioners this morning and the Mexican Gray Wolf issue came up again. I mentioned this meeting was in the works and they were very interested. Should I point them in your direction for further information?

Hi Scott,

Karen Vargas, NV AIS Coordinator, inquired whether FWS will attend the Lake Mead meeting.

FWS handles the Quagga/Zebra Action Plan (QZAP) funding for NV's Lake Mead aquatic invasive species program. At least a majority of the funding and the rest is provided by NPS at Lake Mead. One of the issues that states and FWS raised is that FWS is helping to annually offset costs of the NPS program on Lake Mead, via the state of NV. Those QZAP dollars could be going to another priority in the West, if NPS was able to make additional investments in its program.

Stewart Jacks, Region 2 Assistant Regional Director, or Barak Shemai, Region 2, AIS Coordinator may be good to invite.

Would you like to reach out to Aurelia and Greg and see if they would like FWS-Region 2 representation at this meeting?

I previously emailed Aurelia about FWP participation, but wasn't explicit about FWS representation.

Hilary

Good morning, Jason-

Apologies for the tardy reply - the region (copied) responded early last week and I neglected to follow up. FWS has several booths at Earth X, and a Refuge Trailer will also be at the event. Tishomingo National Fish Hatchery, several representatives/staff from R2 refuges, and Arlington Field Office staff will all be helping staff the booths. Please let us know if you need anything else.

Thanks!

Good morning Charisa and Randy,

Earth X is having an exhibition on April 20-22 in Dallas, TX. There will be senior level DOI officials participating at this event and an expected 100,000+ people, over 900 exhibitions, and 260 speakers throughout the weekend. Jason Funes, DOI's Intergovernmental and External Affairs, is coordinating DOI's participation and looking to have NPS and FWS represented at the Event with booths and displays.

Event: Earth X

Location: Fair Park in Dallas, Texas

Date: April 20-22

Space: Each exhibition space (NPS & FWS) for this event would be 10ft x 10ft.

<https://earthx.org/about-us/>

Could you please provide a point of contact within NPS & FWS that could help coordinate setting up booths at this event - by April 3rd? I greatly appreciate your assistance.

Mail from the U.S. Department of the Interior

This weekend, at battlefields, cemeteries and memorials across the country, Americans paid tribute to our nation's veterans. Secretary Zinke began the weekend with a visit to Manassas National Battlefield Park in Virginia on Friday, where he toured the battlefield and helped local Boy Scouts rebuild a historic fence.

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial on the National Mall in Washington, D.C., is one of the most famous and moving memorials ever built to honor veterans. Early in the morning on Veterans Day, Vice President Pence, Second Lady Karen Pence, and Secretary Zinke joined volunteers and National Park Service staff to wash the Wall.

Later, Secretary Zinke participated in events at Arlington National Cemetery and the World War II Memorial.

He also spoke at the Veterans Day event at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, thanking fellow veterans for their service and sacrifice and recognizing a recent $40,000 donation by American Legion Riders from Butler County, Pennsylvania. The last event of the emotional day was at the Korean War Veterans Memorial, where Secretary Zinke spoke about the lasting friendship between American and South Korean service members forged on the battlefields of what many refer to as the "forgotten war."

Subject: Strengthening and Expanding the Department of the Interior's Ethics Program
Date: Monday, April 9, 2018 10:53:57 AM
Attachments: DOI email header.png

U.S. Department of the Interior

On my first day in office, I sent a message to all of you emphasizing my belief that each of us who chooses to work at the Department of the Interior does so because we believe in serving the American people, love the Department's mission, and want to make it better. Since that time, the correctness of my view has been demonstrated over and over by our employees' actions.

At the same time, since I arrived to serve as Chief Operating Officer of the Department, I have also seen far too many reports from the Office of Inspector General of specific instances where employees have made decisions that were unethical and in some cases illegal. As I said on my day of arrival, such conduct reflects on all who work at the Department, whether we like that this is the case or not.

In addition, we currently operate in a world where hyperbole and false allegations now can pass for fact in public discourse. Such comments denigrate even lawful and appropriate conduct that is mischaracterized outside of the Department as unlawful or unethical.

Therefore, when confronted with a moment that creates a questionable issue, we can—and should—remember the ethical principles I have previously shared with you AND consult with the appropriate ethics official. Contact information for Bureau ethics officials can be found at <https://www.doi.gov/ethics/bem> and for the Departmental Ethics Office at <https://www.doi.gov/ethics/contact-information>.

It is important to remember that, in terms of the Standards of Ethical Conduct for Employees of the Executive Branch, you are operating in safe harbor if: you communicate with your ethics official, you provide them with the totality of the circumstances you are aware of, and they provide you guidance that you follow. No one else in the Department can give you a safe harbor—not your supervisor, not a lawyer in the Office of the Solicitor, not me.

One way the Secretary and I can assist you in this effort to foster ethical conduct is to help ensure that we have more people in place to address questions and develop sound ethical practices throughout the Department. That is why I am extremely pleased to announce two major additions to the Departmental Ethics Office: Scott de la Vega and Heather Gottry.

Scott de la Vega will serve as both Director of the Departmental Ethics Office and Designated Agency Ethics Official. Heather Gottry will serve as a Deputy Director of the Departmental Ethics Office. Both of these individuals bring decades of subject-matter expertise and real-world experience in establishing and implementing robust ethics programs fully compliant with all laws, rules, and regulations. Both Scott and Heather start on April 16.

Prior to joining the Department, Scott de la Vega served for several years in various senior legal positions at the White House, including as Ethics Counsel to the Vice President and in the Office of the White House Counsel as well as Managing Counsel for Operations in the Executive Office of the President. In these roles, he oversaw the ethics review and financial disclosure clearance process for all White House officials; directly counseled senior White House staff, Cabinet officials, and nominees seeking Senate confirmation; formulated Administration policy on ethics issues; and recruited the best ethics lawyers from across the Government while increasing diversity. In his White House role, he also worked directly with senior leadership across the Executive Branch, including the Office of Government Ethics and the Office of Special Counsel. Prior to the White House, Scott served in leadership positions at other Federal agencies, as Vice President and Senior Counsel at two Fortune 500 corporations, and as both a trial and appellate criminal litigator in the U.S. Army's Judge Advocate General's Corps.

Immediately prior to joining the Department, Heather Gottry held senior ethics roles at the U.S. International Trade Commission and the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission. From 2009 through 2012, she worked in the Office of White House Counsel as Associate Counsel to the President and as an ethics advisor. In her White House roles, she created highly regarded trainings for White House officials on a wide variety of ethics-related issues, including misuse of Government position, travel, gifts, entertainment, political activities, outside employment, and post-Government employment; successfully resolved difficult, complex, and novel ethics issues for Cabinet Secretaries; and developed innovative public-private partnerships that were also completely compliant with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations.

In addition, Ed McDonnell will continue to serve as a Deputy Director of the Departmental Ethics Office and as Alternate Designated Agency Ethics Official. The Executive Resources Board recently elevated this role to the rank of Senior Level, and I greatly appreciate Ed's willingness to continue advancing the highest ethical standards throughout the Department. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank Ed for serving honorably in an acting capacity as Designated Agency Ethics Official since the retirement of former Director and former Designated Agency Ethics Official Melinda Loftin.

From my perspective, each of these individuals embody the best and brightest in ethics. Hiring and promoting them to their respective new roles is part of our real commitment to make a meaningful contribution to incorporating the highest ethical standards into the Department's practices.

Let's never forget that public service is a public trust and that the 14 basic principles of ethical conduct bind us all. You can find these principles at the website of the Departmental Ethics Office: <https://www.doi.gov/ethics/basic-obligations-of-public-service>.

Thank you,
Deputy Secretary David Bernhardt

Susan -- Attached is the species list that we have developed in partnership with DOD and the military services as priorities for our efforts under the new DOI/DOD Recovery and Sustainment Partnership Initiative. Ryan Orndorff is also transmitting this list today to Mr. Neimeyer.

Our interagency working group will now focus our attention on developing action plans for each species by the end of July.

Please let me know if you have any questions. -- Gary

Internal - Executive Review Team Meeting

Notice of Availability for the draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for American Electric Power's (AEP) American Burying-beetle Habitat Conservation Plan in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The applicant, AEP, requested an aggressive permitting decision timeline. As this is a programmatic project covering their electrical transmission service area, it will cover a large number of electrical transmission lines, supporting the Secretary's infrastructure and energy development priorities.

When Fri Jun 15, 2018 2:30pm – 3:15pm Eastern Time

Notice of Availability for the draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for American Electric Power's (AEP) American Burying-beetle Habitat Conservation Plan in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The applicant, AEP, requested an aggressive permitting decision timeline. As this is a programmatic project covering their electrical transmission service area, it will cover a large number of electrical transmission lines, supporting the Secretary's infrastructure and energy development priorities.

Environmental Impact Statement for the American Electric Power American Burying-beetle Habitat Conservation Plan in Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of availability; notice of receipt of a permit application; and announcement of public meetings.

SUMMARY: We, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS), announce the availability of the environmental impact statement (EIS) and habitat conservation plan (HCP) related to an incidental take permit (ITP) application under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. American Electric Power (AEP) requested a 30-year American burying beetle (ABB) ITP in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas. If granted, the ITP would authorize ABB take resulting from AEP's electrical lines and support facilities repair, maintenance and construction, as well as activities carried out as part of the HCP's conservation strategy.

DATES: Comments: We will accept comments received or postmarked on or before [INSERT DATE 45 DAYS AFTER DATE OF PUBLICATION IN THE FEDERAL REGISTER].

Comments submitted electronically using the Federal eRulemaking Portal (see ADDRESSES section below) must be received by 11:59 p.m. eastern standard time on the closing date. Any comments we receive after the closing date may not be considered in the final decision on these actions.

ADDRESSES: Obtaining Documents:

EIS:

- Internet: You may obtain copies of the EIS and HCP on the Federal eRulemaking Portal at <http://www.regulations.gov> (Docket Number FWS–R2–ES–2017–0105); or
- You may obtain copies of the EIS and HCP on the Service’s Web site at: <http://www.fws.gov/southwest/es/Oklahoma/> (search for permit number TE81211C-0).
- U.S. Mail: A limited number of CD-ROM and printed copies of the EIS and HCP are available, by request, from the Field Supervisor, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 9014 E. 21st St., Tulsa, OK 74129; phone (918) 581–7458; or fax (918) 581–7467, Attn: OKES HCP EIS. Please note your request is in reference to the OKES HCP EIS (TE81211C-0).
- In-Person: Copies of the EIS and HCP are also available for public inspection and review at the following locations, by appointment and written request only, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.:
 - Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 9014 E. 21st St., Tulsa, OK 74129.

- U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 500 Gold Avenue, SW, Albuquerque, NM 87102, Room 6034, 505/248-6920.
- Department of the Interior, Natural Resources Library, 1849 C. St., NW, Washington, DC 20240.

ITP Application:

- U.S. Mail: Persons wishing to review the application may obtain a copy by writing to the Regional Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Room 6034, Albuquerque, NM 87103 (attention: Environmental Review Branch).
- Electronically: by email to fw2_HCP_Permits@fws.gov.

Public Comments:

- View submitted comments on <http://www.regulations.gov> in Docket FWS–R2–ES–2017–0105.

Comments on the EIS from the Environmental Protection Agency:

- For how to view comments on the EIS from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), or for information on EPA’s role in the EIS process, see EPA’s Role in the EIS Process under SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION.

Submitting Comments: You may submit written comments by one of the following methods:

- Electronically: Go to the Federal e-Rulemaking Portal: <http://www.regulations.gov>. In the Search box, enter FWS–R2–ES–2017–0105, which is the docket number for this notice. On the left side of the screen, under the Document Type heading, click on the Notices link to locate this document and submit a comment.
- By Hard Copy: Submit by U.S. mail or hand-delivery to Public Comments Processing,

Attn: FWS–R2–ES–2017–0105; U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Headquarters, MS:
BPHC; 5275 Leesburg Pike, Falls Church, VA 22041–3803.

- We will also accept written and oral comments at the public meetings (see DATES and Public Meetings).

We request that you send comments by only the methods described above. We will post all information received on <http://www.regulations.gov>. This generally means we will post any personal information you provide us (see the Public Availability of Comments section below for more information).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Field Supervisor, Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 9014 E. 21st St., Tulsa, OK 74129 or (918) 581-7458.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: We, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS), announce the availability of several documents related to an incidental take permit (ITP) application under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (ESA; 16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.). American Electric Power (AEP) requested a 30-year American burying beetle (Nicrophorus americanus; ABB) ITP in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas. If granted, the ITP would authorize ABB incidental take resulting from AEP's electrical lines and support facilities repair, maintenance and construction, as well as activities carried out as part of the HCP's conservation strategy.

In addition to this notice of the environmental impact statement (EIS), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is publishing a notice announcing the EIS, as required under the Clean Air Act, section 309 (42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq.; see EPA’s Role in the EIS Process below).

Background

The ESA, section 9, and its implementing regulations prohibit “take” of fish and wildlife species listed as threatened or endangered. However, section 10(a) authorizes us to issue permits to take listed wildlife species where take is incidental to, and not the purpose of, otherwise lawful activities and where the applicant meets certain statutory requirements.

We prepared a notice of intent (NOI) to prepare a EIS for American Electric Power’s (AEP) habitat conservation plan (HCP), which was published in the Federal Register on January 19, 2017 (82 FR 6625). We held four public scoping meetings throughout the Plan Area in Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas in February 2017. We incorporated issues identified during the initial scoping meetings into the EIS, dated March 2018. You can find a summary of the comments we received during the scoping period in the EIS, Appendix D.

Proposed Action

Our proposed Federal action evaluated in the EIS is approving AEP’s HCP and issuing an incidental take permit (ITP) under the ESA, section 10(a)(1)(B). The ITP would authorize ABB incidental take that may result from covered activities in the plan area over the 30-year ITP term.

Public Meetings

We will hold four public meetings, one each in McAlester, OK; Texarkana, TX; Little Rock, AR; and Tulsa, OK, during the public comment period. The dates, times, and specific locations of the meetings will be noticed in local newspapers at least two weeks before the meetings and will also be posted on our Oklahoma website, at <https://www.fws.gov/southwest/es/Oklahoma/>. The public meetings will be physically accessible to people with disabilities. Please direct requests for reasonable accommodations (e.g., auxiliary aids or sign language interpretation) to Larry Levesque at (918) 382-4509 or laurence_levesque@fws.gov, at least five working days prior to the meeting date.

EPA's Role in the EIS Process

In addition, EPA is publishing a notice in the Federal Register announcing the EIS for American Electric Power's American-burying Beetle Habitat Conservation Plan in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas, as required under the Clean Air Act, section 309. The EPA's publication date of the notice of availability is the official beginning of the public comment period. The EPA is charged with reviewing all Federal agencies' EISs and commenting on the adequacy and acceptability of the environmental impacts of proposed actions in EISs.

The EPA also serves as the repository (EIS database) for EISs which Federal agencies prepare. All EISs must be filed with EPA, which publishes a notice of availability on Fridays in the Federal Register. For more information, see <http://www.epa.gov/compliance/nepa/eisdata.html>. You may search for EPA comments on EISs, along with EISs themselves, at <https://cdxnodengn.epa.gov/cdx-enepa-public/action/eis/search>.

Public Availability of Comments

Written comments we receive become part of the public record associated with this action. Before including your address, phone number, e-mail address, or other personal identifying information in your comment, you should be aware that your entire comment—including your personal identifying information—may be made publicly available at any time. While you can request in your comment that we withhold your personal identifying information from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so. We will not consider anonymous comments. All submissions from organizations or businesses, and from individuals identifying themselves as representatives or officials of organizations or businesses, will be made available for public disclosure in their entirety.

Authority

We provide this notice under section 10(c) of the Act and its implementing regulations (50 CFR 17.22 and 17.32) and NEPA and its implementing regulations (40 CFR 1506.6).

GLOSSARY

Adaptive Management – Adaptive management is a systematic approach for improving resource management by learning from management outcomes.

Affected environment – The current environmental conditions and resources that may be affected or impacted by the alternatives evaluated in the EIS.

Ambient Noise – Ambient or background noise levels represent the total amount of noise in an area and are used to compare the effects of a new noise source relative to existing conditions.

Area of Potential Effects (APE) – The APE is a term specific to Cultural Resources and for this document covers the Plan Area; however, Covered Activities are limited to the operation and maintenance of existing lines and facilities, the corridors where new transmission lines and facilities would be built, and the location of mitigation sites.

Avoidance and Minimization Measures (AMMs) – measures designed to reduce direct take of the ABB as Covered Activities are being conducted.

Biological opinion – The Service document issued at the conclusion of formal consultation pursuant to section 7(a)(2) of the ESA that generally includes: (1) the opinion of the Fish and Wildlife Service as to whether or not a Federal action is likely to jeopardize the continued existence of listed species, or result in the destruction or adverse modification of designated critical habitat; (2) a summary of the information on which the opinion is based; and (3) a detailed discussion of the effects of the action on listed species or designated critical habitat (50 CFR §§ 402.02, 402.14(h)).

Conservation bank – a parcel of land containing natural resource values that are conserved and managed in perpetuity, through a conservation easement held by an entity responsible for enforcing the terms of the easement, for specified listed species and used to offset impacts occurring elsewhere to the same resource values on non-bank lands. The values of the natural resources are translated into quantified "credits." Typically, the credit price will include funding for the long-term natural resource management and protection of those values.

Conservation Priority Area (CPA) - CPAs are areas where conservation of the ABB should be targeted. The ABB CPAs serve as areas where conservation efforts should be focused and where higher ratios of mitigation for impacts on ABBs should occur. The CPAs include areas with recent (within 10 years) documented ABB presence the Service believes are likely to contain important elements for ABB conservation, such as documented presence over multiple years; relatively high-density populations; suitable breeding, feeding, and sheltering habitat; and carrion resources.

Cooperating agencies – Federal, state, or local agencies other than a lead agency which have jurisdiction by law or special expertise with respect to any environmental impact involved in a proposal or reasonable alternative. Cooperating agencies for this EIS include the Bureau of Indian Affairs Southern Plains; Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement; Arkansas Army National Guard – Fort Chaffee Joint Maneuver Training Center; Texas Army National Guard Environmental Branch; and U.S. Army - McAlester Army Ammunition Plant.

Covered activities – Covered activities include those activities that would occur under the HCP that would result in ABB take; Covered activities include AEP’s repair, maintenance, and construction activities for electrical lines and support facilities (e.g., substations and switching facilities) within the Plan Area, as well as activities carried out as part of the HCP’s conservation strategy.

Covered species – Covered Species include species the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is considering incidental take authorization for under the action alternatives.

Criteria Pollutants – Criteria pollutants are air contaminants commonly emitted from a variety of sources and include CO, Pb, NO₂, O₃, PM₁₀, PM_{2.5}, and SO₂.

Critical habitat – Specific geographic areas, whether occupied by a listed species or not, that are essential for its conservation and that have been formally designated by rule published in the Federal Register.

Cumulative Impact – Cumulative impacts are impacts that can result from individually minor but collectively noteworthy actions taking place over a period of time.

Ecoregion – Ecoregions are areas where the type, quality, and quantity of environmental resources—such as vegetation, wildlife, soils, geology, climate, hydrology, land use, and land form—are generally similar. Ecoregions serve as a spatial framework for resource management and are effective for regional state environmental reports, resource inventories, and assessments.

Endangered species - “Any species [including subspecies or qualifying distinct population segment] which is in danger of extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range” (section 3(6) of the Endangered Species Act, 16 USC § 1532(6)).

Endangered species act (ESA) - 16 USC §§ 1513–1543; Federal legislation that provides means whereby the ecosystems upon which endangered species and threatened species depend may be conserved, and provides a program for the conservation of such endangered and threatened species.

Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) - A detailed written statement required by section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act containing, among other things, an analyses of environmental impacts of a proposed action and alternatives considered, adverse effects of the project that cannot be avoided, alternative courses of action, short-term uses of the environment versus the maintenance and enhancement of long-term productivity, and any irreversible and irretrievable commitment of resources (40 CFR §§ 1508.11, 1502).

Federal register - Daily publication of the United States government containing all proposed regulations, final regulations, and other activities of the Federal government.

Federally listed - The Federal Lists of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants.

Floodplain – Any land area susceptible to being inundated by floodwaters from any source.

Global Climate Change – refers to any long-term change in Earth's climate, or in the climate of a region or city. This includes warming, cooling and changes besides temperature.

Habitat – The location where a particular taxon of plant or animal lives and its surroundings, both living and non-living; the term includes the presence of a group of particular environmental conditions surrounding an organism including air, water, soil, mineral elements, moisture, temperature, and topography.

Habitat conservation plan (HCP) - Under section 10(a)(2)(A) of the Endangered Species Act, a planning document that is a mandatory component of an incidental take permit application.

Important Farmland – The Farmland Protection Policy Act of 1981 (7 U.S.C. §§ 4201–4209) requires that Federal agencies and programs minimize conversion of farmland to nonagricultural uses. This includes prime farmland (most suitable for production of food, as determined by NRCS); unique farmland (land used for production of specific high-value crops), and farmland of state or local importance (other land capable of producing crops).

Incidental take – take of a listed fish or wildlife species that results from, but is not the purpose of, carrying out an otherwise lawful activity conducted by a Federal agency or applicant (50 CFR 402.02).

Incidental take permit (ITP) – A permit that exempts a permittee from the take prohibition of section 9 of the Endangered Species Act issued by the Service pursuant to section 10(a)(1)(B) of the Endangered Species Act. Also sometimes referred to as a “section 10(a)(1)(B),” “section 10 permit,” or “ITP.” “Permit” in this document refers to the incidental take permit associated with the HCP.

Invasive Plants – Invasive plants are plant species that are typically non-native, and whose introduction is likely to cause economic or environmental harm or harm to human health (Executive Order 13112). Invasive plants can adversely affect vegetation communities by outcompeting native vegetation, leading to a reduction in biodiversity and degradation of habitat. Humans are the primary source of invasive plant introduction, and once established, invasive plants are often difficult to contain, control, and eradicate.

Mitigation – an action that avoids, minimizes, reduces, rectifies, or compensates an impact.

National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) - Federal legislation establishing national policy that environmental impacts would be evaluated as an integral part of any major Federal action. Requires the preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement for all major Federal actions significantly affecting the quality of the human environment (42 USC §§ 4321–4327).

National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) – The National Register of Historic Places is the official list of the Nation's historic places worthy of preservation. Authorized by the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the National Park Service's National Register of Historic Places is part of a national program to coordinate and support public and private efforts to identify, evaluate, and protect America's historic and archeological resources.

No Action Alternative – NEPA requires that an EIS alternatives analysis include consideration of a No Action Alternative, which serves as a baseline with which to compare the impacts of the proposed action and alternatives.

Notice of Intent (NOI) - Formal notice in the Federal Register to initiate the NEPA process (required for Environmental Impact Statements).

Plan area – The Plan Area for the HCP includes areas where authorized incidental take would occur and conservation measures would take place. The Plan Area includes Oklahoma and Arkansas counties within known ABB range and Texas counties with ABB occurrence records. The Plan Area also includes counties in these states where ABB's range could expand over the permit term. In total, the Plan Area amounts to almost 32 million acres

Proposed Federal Action – The proposed federal action being evaluated in this EIS is approval of the HCP and issuance of an ITP by the Service, under Section 10(a)(1)(B) of the ESA. The ITP would authorize incidental take of the ABB that could result from Covered Activities in the Plan Area over the 30-year term of the ITP.

Reconductoring – the replacement of old conductors (wires) on existing electric lines with new conductors to ensure system functionality.

Record of Decision (ROD) – A concise public document that records a Federal agency's decision(s) concerning a proposed action for which the agency has prepared an environmental impact statement.

Riparian - Pertaining to the banks of a river, stream, waterway, or other, typically, flowing body of water as well as to plant and animal communities along such bodies of water.

Scoping - The first document in the environmental review process to receive public comment. It is usually made available just prior to the Public Scoping Meeting.

Section 10(a)(1)(B) of ESA – The portion of section 10 of the Endangered Species Act that authorizes the Service to issue permits for the incidental take of threatened or endangered species.

Section 7 of ESA - The section of the Endangered Species Act that describes the responsibilities of Federal agencies in conserving threatened and endangered species. Section 7(a)(1) requires all Federal agencies "in consultation with and with the assistance of the Secretary [to] utilize their authorities in furtherance of the purposes of this Act by carrying out programs for the conservation of endangered species and threatened species." Section 7(a)(2) requires Federal agencies to "ensure that any action authorized, funded, or carried out by such agency ... is not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of any endangered species or threatened species or result in the destruction or adverse modification of..." designated critical habitat.

Sedimentation – Sedimentation is the deposition by settling of a suspended material (e.g. soils sediment mobilized by surface water runoff that is deposited into a nearby waterbody).

Service – United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

Special-Status Species – In this EIS special status species include federally and state listed threatened and endangered species, federal candidate species for listing, bald and golden eagles, and birds of conservation concern.

Species of Greatest Conservation Need – Species for which there is a conservation concern due to population trends and threats to habitat and the species.

Stray Voltage – a low-level electrical current that results primarily from an improperly grounded electrical distribution system. Stray voltage is a small voltage (less than 10 volts as defined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture) that can be measured between two possible contact points. When these two points are connected together by an object, such as a person, a current flows, and the person may experience an electrical shock.

Surface water – Surface waters include rivers, streams, creeks, lakes, ponds, and reservoirs. Surface water is maintained by precipitation and is lost through evaporation, seepage into the ground, or use by plants and animals.

Take – Under section 3(18) of the Endangered Species Act, “...to harass, harm, pursue, hunt, shoot, wound, kill, trap, capture, or collect, or to attempt to engage in any such conduct” with respect to federally listed endangered species of wildlife. Federal regulations provide the same taking prohibitions for threatened wildlife species (50 CFR 17.31(a)).

Threatened Species – Any species which is likely to become an endangered species within the foreseeable future throughout all or a significant portion of its range (Endangered Species Act § 3 (20), 16 USC § 1532(20)).

Turbidity – Turbidity is the measure of relative clarity of a liquid and typically associated with presence of suspended sediment in a surface water. It is an optical characteristic of water and is an expression of the amount of light that is scattered by material in the water when a light is shined through the water sample. The higher the intensity of scattered light, the higher the turbidity.

Watershed – an area of land that drains all the streams and rainfall to a common outlet such as the outflow of a reservoir, mouth of a bay, or any point along a stream channel.

Wetland - Wetlands are those areas where water saturation is the dominant factor determining the nature of soil development and the types of plant and animal communities living in the surrounding environment.

Appendix C

Regulatory Context

This appendix provides background on the regulatory context for the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) and resources addressed in the EIS.

C.1 Regulatory Context Related to the Incidental Take Permit, Habitat Conservation Plan, and Environmental Impact Statement

C.1.1 National Environmental Policy Act

The National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) serves as the nation's basic charter for determining how federal decisions affect the human environment. Issuance of an incidental take permit (ITP) is a major federal action subject to NEPA compliance. The United States Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) has prepared this EIS to evaluate the potential environmental consequences associated with the issuance of an ITP under the Habitat Conservation Plan (HCP), as well as the effects of alternatives, including a No Action Alternative.

The EIS process culminates in a Record of Decision (ROD) which will document the decision on the alternative selected for implementation; identify all alternatives considered and the environmentally preferable alternative (which is not always the same as the alternative selected); explain whether practicable means to avoid or minimize environmental harm from the alternative selected have been adopted, and if not, why they were not; and summarize the monitoring and enforcement program, where applicable, for mitigation.

C.1.2 Federal Endangered Species Act

The purpose of the federal Endangered Species Act (ESA) is to provide a means whereby the ecosystems upon which threatened and endangered species depend may be conserved, and to provide a program for the conservation of such species. The Service and National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Fisheries administer the ESA and have the responsibility to conserve and protect threatened and endangered species. NOAA Fisheries is responsible for enforcing provisions of the ESA for most marine species, including anadromous fish. The American burying beetle (ABB)—the only species covered in the HCP—is under the jurisdiction of the Service; we are responsible for terrestrial and freshwater organisms under the ESA.

Per the ESA, the Service may issue permits to authorize incidental take of listed fish and wildlife species. Section 10(a)(1)(B) defines incidental take as take that is “incidental to, and not the purpose of the carrying out of an otherwise lawful activity.” The section also contains provisions for issuing an ITP to non-federal entities for the take of endangered and threatened species, provided the following criteria are met:

- The taking will be incidental to an otherwise lawful activity.

- The applicant will, to the maximum extent practicable, minimize and mitigate the impact from such taking.
- The applicant will develop an HCP and ensure adequate funding for the plan will be provided.
- The taking will not appreciably reduce the likelihood of the survival and recovery of the species in the wild.
- The applicant will carry out any other measures the Secretary of the Interior may require as being necessary or appropriate for the purposes of the HCP (e.g., implementation agreement, conservation easements, and financial endowments).

Regulations governing permits for endangered and threatened species are found at 50 CFR §§ 13, 17.22, and 17.32. We also consider guidance and policy provided in the Handbook for Habitat Conservation Planning and Incidental Take Permitting Process (FWS and NOAA Fisheries 2016) during development, review, and implementation of habitat conservation plans.

C.1.3 Applicable State Regulations

Each state in the Plan Area has different regulatory requirements for electrical utility operations and development activities. Table C-1 summarizes the transmission line siting requirements for each state in the Plan Area. The proceeding sections describe the endangered species regulations for each state in the Plan Area.

Table C-1. State Regulatory Requirements for Siting Transmission Lines

State	Regulation or Statute	Description
Arkansas	Arkansas Code Annotated Title 23, Subtitle 1, Chapter 3, Subchapter 2, Certificates of Convenience and Necessity; Utility Facility Environmental and Economic Protection Act Chapter 18 Subchapter 5; Arkansas Public Service Commission Rules of Practice and Procedure, Section 7	The Arkansas Public Service Commission requires a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity for all electric transmission lines. A more extensive process requiring an environmental analysis and review is needed for lines ≥ 100 kV and > 10 miles in length and for lines ≥ 170 kV and > 1 mile in length. These types of facilities require a Certificate of Environmental Compatibility and Public Need
Oklahoma	Oklahoma Statutes Title 11 and Title 27	There are no statewide requirements for electric transmission lines in Oklahoma. Other state agency approvals are typically not required. In some cases, such as when a line crosses a wetland or navigable water, federal requirements may apply.
Texas	Chapter 25.101 Substantive Rules Applicable to Electric Service Providers; Public Utility Regulatory Act Chapter 37 Section 37.051-057	The Texas Public Utilities Commission of Texas approves all electric utility transmission lines that are > 60 kV. Other state agencies such as Texas Parks and Wildlife Department may become involved as necessary.

Arkansas Endangered Species Act

The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission is charged by State Constitution Amendment No. 35 with “[t]he control, management, restoration, conservation and regulation of birds, fish, game, and wildlife resources of the State.” Under the Arkansas Endangered Species Act, it is unlawful to import, transport, sell, purchase, hunt, harass, or possess any threatened or endangered species of wildlife or parts (including without limitation those species listed under the ESA, 50 CFR §§ 17.11, 17.12, and Addendum Chapter P1.00). The ABB is listed as endangered in Arkansas.

Oklahoma Wildlife Conservation Code

Oklahoma statute Title 29 Game and Fish, gives the state authority to list wildlife species as threatened or endangered within the state of Oklahoma. Currently, Oklahoma has listed four species as threatened or endangered. They are all aquatic species and occur in one or more counties in the Plan Area. The ABB is not listed as threatened or endangered by the state of Oklahoma. Under Title 29 §5-412, “no person may possess, hunt, chase, harass, capture, shoot at, wound or kill, take or attempt to take, trap or attempt to trap any endangered or threatened species or subspecies without specific written permission of the Director.”

Texas Threatened and Endangered Species Act

In 1973, the Texas legislature authorized the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) to establish a list of endangered animals in the state. Endangered species are those species that the Executive Director of TPWD has named as being “threatened with statewide extinction.” Threatened species are those species that the TPWD Commission has determined likely to become endangered in the future. Regulations pertaining to endangered or threatened animal species are contained in TPWD Code Chapters 67 and 68 and Texas Administrative Code Title 31 §§ 65.171-.176.

TPWD regulations prohibit the taking, possession, transportation, or sale of any of the animal species designated by state law as endangered or threatened without the issuance of a permit. State laws and regulations prohibit commerce in threatened and endangered plants and the collection of listed plant species from public land without a permit issued by TPWD. The ABB is not listed as threatened or endangered under Texas law.

C.2.2 Climate and Air Quality

- Environmental Protection Agency Mandatory Reporting of Greenhouse Gases Rule (40 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] Part 98). Requires monitoring, reporting, and recordkeeping of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions from suppliers of fossil fuels and facilities that emit greater than or equal to 25,000 metric tons (about 27,600 U.S. tons) of GHGs per year and greater than 30 million British thermal units per hour.
- Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. Section 7401 et seq.). The Clean Air Act (CAA), as amended, is the primary Federal legislation that addresses air quality. The CAA requires EPA develop and enforce regulations to protect the public from air pollutants and their health impacts. Major programs under the CAA are described below.
 - National Ambient Air Quality Standards (Table C-3). The National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) specify the maximum acceptable ambient concentrations for six criteria air pollutants: carbon monoxide (CO), lead (Pb), nitrogen dioxide (NO₂), ozone (O₃), particulate matter up to 10 micrometers in size (PM₁₀), particulate matter up to 2.5 micrometers in size (PM_{2.5}), and sulfur dioxide (SO₂). Under CAA Sec. 172, in nonattainment and maintenance areas the state must develop a State Implementation Plan that demonstrates how the area would reach attainment by the required date, and the plan must be approved by EPA.

Table C-3. National Ambient Air Quality Standards

Pollutant	Primary Standards		Secondary Standards
	Level ^a	Averaging Time	Level ^a	Averaging Time
Carbon monoxide (CO)	9 ppm (10 mg/m ³)	8 hours ^b	None
	35 ppm (40 mg/m ³)	1 hour ^b
Lead	0.15 µg/m ³	Rolling 3-month average	Same as primary standards
Nitrogen dioxide (NO ₂)	0.053 ppm (100 µg/m ³)	Annual (arithmetic mean)	Same as primary standards
	0.100 ppm (188 µg/m ³)	1 hour ^c	None
Particulate matter (PM ₁₀)	150 µg/m ³	24 hours ^d	Same as primary standards
Particulate matter (PM _{2.5})	12.0 µg/m ³	Annual (arithmetic mean) ^e	15.0 µg/m ³	Annual (arithmetic mean) ^e
	35 µg/m ³	24 hours ^f	Same as primary standards
Ozone	0.070 ppm	8 hours ^g	Same as primary standards
Sulfur dioxide (SO ₂)	0.075 ppm (200 µg/m ³)	1 hour ^h	0.5 ppm (1,300 µg/m ³)	3 hours ^b

Notes:

^a Units of measure for the standards are parts per million (ppm) by volume, milligrams per cubic meter of air (mg/m³), and micrograms per cubic meter (µg/m³) of air.

^b Not to be exceeded more than once per year.

^c To attain this standard, the 3-year average of the 98th percentile of the daily maximum 1-hour average NO₂ concentrations at each monitor within an area must not exceed 0.100 ppm (effective January 22, 2010).

^e To attain this standard, the 3-year average of the weighted annual mean PM_{2.5} concentrations from single or multiple community-oriented monitors must not exceed 12.0 µg/m³ for the primary standard and 15.0 µg/m³ for the secondary standard.

^f To attain this standard, the 3-year average of the 98th percentile of 24-hour PM_{2.5} concentrations at each population-oriented monitor within an area must not exceed 35 µg/m³ (effective December 17, 2006).

^g To attain this standard, the 3-year average of the fourth-highest daily maximum 8-hour average ozone concentrations measured at each monitor in an area over each year must not exceed 0.070 ppm (effective December 28, 2015).

Source: 40 CFR Part 50, as presented in EPA 2017.

ppm = parts per million; mg/m³ = milligrams per cubic meter of air; µg/m³ = micrograms per cubic meter; CFR = Code of Federal Regulations; EPA = U.S. Environmental Protection Agency; PM₁₀ = particulate matter with a nominal aerodynamic diameter equal to or less than 10 microns; PM_{2.5} = particulate matter with a nominal aerodynamic diameter equal to or less than 2.5 microns

- Hazardous Air Pollutants. The CAA requires EPA to regulate hazardous air pollutants (HAPs) through emission standards. Certain HAPs are associated with mobile (transportation) sources including construction equipment and motor vehicles.
- General Conformity Rule. The EPA General Conformity Rule (40 CFR Part 93, Subpart B) prohibits Federal entities from taking actions in nonattainment or maintenance areas that do not conform to the State Implementation Plans for those areas. The rule establishes emissions thresholds, known as de minimis levels, for use in evaluating the conformity of a project's pollutants and their health impacts.
- Prevention of Significant Deterioration. The Prevention of Significant Deterioration program protects certain lands designated as mandatory Federal Class I areas because air quality is a special feature of the area. EPA has designated all other areas in the United States as Class II. In general, if a new major stationary source is located within 62 miles (100 kilometers) of a Class I area, its impacts on concentrations of criteria pollutants in the Class I area must be determined. In addition to criteria pollutant concentrations, damage to plants and ecosystems from O₃ and PM_{2.5}, visibility or regional haze, and acidic deposition are of concern in Class I areas.
- Visibility. EPA regulates visibility under the PSD program and the Regional Haze Regulations (40 CFR Part 51.300 et seq.). Visibility impacts occur when emissions absorb and scatter light in the atmosphere, causing haze and reducing the clarity of views.
- Regional Haze Rule. The EPA Regional Haze Rule (Section 169A of CAA, 40 CFR Parts 51 and 52) sets goals for visibility in many national parks, wilderness areas, and international parks and provides a comprehensive visibility protection program for mandatory Federal Class I areas.
- Acidic Deposition. To assess lake acidification, Federal land management agencies apply thresholds based on guidance from the U.S. Forest Service and other agencies.
- Air Quality Permit Requirements and Emission Standards. Each of the states in the Plan Area regulates air quality by means of permitting and other programs and may implement certain EPA regulations as well. Stationary emission sources (e.g., industrial plants) must obtain air quality permits from the state air quality agency whether they are located in attainment or nonattainment areas. To be granted the permit, the facility must demonstrate that its emissions would not cause or contribute to a violation of the NAAQS, and that certain stationary sources meet emissions limits specified in EPA New Source Performance Standards (40 CFR Part 60). There is no such permit requirement for mobile sources such as construction equipment and motor vehicles. The following regulations define the air quality programs of each state in the Plan Area.
 - Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality (Oklahoma Administrative Code 252:100 Air Pollution Control)
 - Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (30 Texas Administrative Code 101, 106, 111–118)
 - Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality (Arkansas Pollution Control and Ecology Commission Regulations 7, 9, 18, 19, 21, 26, 31, 33)

C.2.3 Water Resources

Table C-4. Water Resources Regulatory Overview

Federal
Clean Water Act	Establishes the basic structure for regulating the discharge of pollutants into waters of the United States. ^a The sections of the CWA most applicable to the effects of ground disturbance activities are Section 303(d), Section 404, Section 401, and Section 402, which establishes the NPDES permit program.
Rivers and Harbors Act	Protects the navigability of waters used for commerce in the United States. Section 10 prohibits any work in, over, or under a navigable waters of the United States unless permitted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (Corps).
National Flood Insurance Act	Established the National Flood Insurance Program, a voluntary floodplain management program for communities (cities, towns, or counties), and implemented by Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). Any action within a FEMA-mapped floodplain in a participating community must follow the community's FEMA-approved floodplain management regulations.
Executive Order 11990, Protection of Wetlands	Requires Federal agencies to "avoid to the extent possible the long and short term adverse impacts associated with the destruction or modification of wetlands and to avoid direct or indirect support of new construction in wetlands wherever there is a practicable alternative." This Executive Order does not apply to the issuance by Federal agencies of permits, licenses, or allocations to private parties for activities involving wetlands on non-Federal property.
Executive Order 11988, Floodplain Management	To reduce the risk of flood loss, to minimize impact of floods on human safety, health and welfare, and to restore and preserve the natural and beneficial values served by floodplains. To meet these objectives, each agency has the responsibility to evaluate the potential effects of its actions on floodplains. Applies to management of federal lands and facilities; federally undertaken, financed, or assisted construction and improvements; and federal activities and programs affecting land use, including land resource planning, regulating, and licensing activities.
State
Oklahoma Administrative Codes: Sections 785:20 and 785:45	Requires a permit be applied for and obtained prior to diversion of surface water. Establishes surface water protection measures through water classification, beneficial use designations, and numerical and narrative criteria to maintain and protect such classifications
Arkansas Water and Air Pollution Control Act	Prohibits the pollution of any of the waters of Arkansas or to place or cause to be placed any sewage, industrial waste or other wastes in a location where it is likely to cause pollution of any waters of Arkansas.
Texas Administrative Code: 30-1-307	Establishes water quality criteria applicable to all surface waters of the state unless exempted. Also establishes the state's anti-degradation policy and implementation procedures that apply to regulated actions that could cause pollution of state waters.

^a See 40 CFR 230.3 and 33 CFR 328 for definition of waters of the United States.

C.2.4 Soils

There are no Federal laws or Executive Orders governing the protection of soils.

C.2.5 Cultural Resources

The following are common federal and state regulations and statutes that are relevant to the analysis of cultural resources in this EIS.

National Historic Preservation Act (16 U.S.C. Section 470 et seq.). Establishes the Federal policy on historic preservation and the programs, including the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP), through which this policy is implemented. Under the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA), significant cultural resources are referred to as historic properties and include any prehistoric or historic district, site, building, structure, object, or landscape included in, or determined eligible for inclusion in, the NRHP. Section 101(d)(6)(A) of the NHPA allows properties of traditional religious and cultural importance to a Native American tribe to be determined eligible for NRHP inclusion. This act also established the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP), an independent agency responsible for implementing Section 106 of NHPA by developing procedures to protect cultural resources included in, or eligible for inclusion in, the NRHP. Regulations are published in 36 CFR Parts 60, 63, 800.

The implementing regulations of the NHPA (36 CFR Part 800) require that effects on historic properties be taken into consideration in any Federal undertaking. The process has five steps: (1) initiating the Section 106 process, (2) identifying historic properties, (3) assessing adverse effects, (4) resolving adverse effects, and (5) implementing stipulations in an agreement document. Section 106 of NHPA affords the ACHP and the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO), as well as other consulting parties, a reasonable opportunity to comment on any undertaking that would adversely affect historic properties.

The NRHP uses the National Register eligibility criteria (36 CFR Section 60.4) to evaluate significance. A property must meet three main standards to qualify for listing on the NRHP: age, integrity, and significance. To meet the age criteria, a property generally must be at least 50 years old. To meet the integrity criteria, a property must “possess integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association” (36 CFR 60.4). Finally, a property must be significant according to one or more of the following criteria.

- Criterion A: Be associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history.
- Criterion B: Be associated with the lives of persons significant in our history.
- Criterion C: Embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or represent the work of a master, or possess high artistic values, or represent a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction.
- Criterion D: Have yielded, or may be likely to yield, information important in prehistory or history.

The Service’s Habitat Conservation Planning and Incidental Take Permit Processing Handbook (U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and National Marine Fisheries Service 2016) contains specific guidance on how the Service should conduct NHPA Section 106 compliance in its issuance of incidental take permits.

Archaeological and Historic Preservation Act (16 USC Sections 469 to 469(c)-2). Provides for preserving significant historic or archaeological data that may otherwise be irreparably lost or destroyed by construction of a project by a Federal agency or under a federally licensed activity or program.

Archaeological Resource Protection Act of 1979. Ensures that specific requirements must be met prior to receiving a permit to remove or excavate any archaeological resource on Federal or Indian lands. Section 5 of the act states the curation conditions for any objects removed or excavated.

American Antiquities Act (16 USC Sections 431 to 433). Prohibits appropriation, excavation, injury, or destruction of “any historic or prehistoric ruin or monument, or any object of antiquity” located on lands owned or controlled by the Federal government. The act also establishes penalties for such actions and sets forth a permit requirement for collection of antiquities on federally owned lands.

Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act. Explains rights with respect to the treatment and disposition of Native American human remains, sacred objects, and funerary objects.

American Indian Religious Freedom Act (42 USC Section 1996). Protects and preserves the traditional religious rights and cultural practices of American Indians, Eskimos, Aleuts, and Native Hawaiians. The act requires policies of all governmental agencies to respect the free exercise of Native religion and to accommodate access to and use of religious sites to the extent that the use is practicable and is not inconsistent with an agency's essential functions.

Oklahoma Antiquities Law (Oklahoma Statute Chapter 20 Section 361). Protects archaeological sites on state-owned land in Oklahoma, requiring all excavations to be performed by trained and permitted researchers as well as all artifacts recovered to be curated in an Oklahoma museum or repository.

Oklahoma Burial Desecration Law (Oklahoma Statute Chapter 47 Section 1168.0–1168.6). Protects human remains and associated burial goods in unmarked graves on both state and privately owned land in Oklahoma from disturbance, purchase, or selling of human skeletal remains or associated items from unmarked graves. Encounter of unmarked graves requires the cessation of any further disturbance activities and the reporting of the find to an appropriate law enforcement officer in the county where the remains are found.

Arkansas Code Act 58 of 1967. Protects and preserves Arkansas’ archaeological heritage, its antiquities, artifacts, and sites on land owned or controlled by the state, its agencies, departments, and institutions by requiring all state agencies to cooperate fully with the Arkansas Archaeological Society in the preservation, protection, excavation, and evaluation of artifacts and sites.

Arkansas Code Act 753 of 1991. Prohibits the desecration of human skeletal burial remains in unregistered cemeteries as well as the trade or commercial display of human skeletal burial remains or associated burial furniture. The act also requires that all human burials and human skeletal burial remains be accorded equal treatment and respect for human dignity without reference to their ethnic origins, cultural backgrounds, religious affiliations, or date of burial.

The Antiquities Code of Texas (Natural Resources Code, Title 9, Chapter 191, as amended). Forbids the collection or excavation of artifacts on state and political subdivision lands without a permit issued to a qualified professional archaeologist. The Code also establishes the designation of State Antiquities Landmarks, under which eligible landmarks receive legal protection.

Texas Administrative Code Title 13, Part 2, Chapter 22, Cemeteries. Requires the cessation of construction if one or more graves are discovered during construction of improvements on a property and may only proceed in a manner that would not further disturb the grave or graves unless they are removed in accordance with the Texas Administrative Code Title 13, Part 2, Chapter 22, Rule 22.5.

C.2.6 Visual Resources

Analysis of potential impacts on visual resources from changes to the characteristic landscape are required by the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and Council on Environmental Quality regulations. The following sections of NEPA relate to the human environment and aesthetics.

(Section 101-b) In order to carry out the policy set forth in this Act, it is the continuing responsibility of the Federal Government to use all practicable means, consistent with other essential considerations of national policy, to improve and coordinate Federal plans, functions, programs, and resources to the end that the Nation may—

(2) assure for all Americans safe, healthful, productive, and esthetically and culturally pleasing surroundings;

(Section 102-2) all agencies of the Federal government shall—

(A) utilize a systematic, interdisciplinary approach which will insure the integrated use of the natural and social sciences and the environmental design arts in planning and in decision making which may have an impact on man's environment;

(B) include in every recommendation or report on proposals for legislation and other major Federal actions significantly affecting the quality of the human environment, a detailed statement by the responsible official on—

(i) the environmental impact of the proposed action,

(ii) any adverse environmental effects which cannot be avoided should the proposal be implemented

C.2.7 Land Use

The Farmland Protection Policy Act of 1981 requires that Federal agencies and programs minimize conversion of farmland to nonagricultural uses (7 U.S.C. Chapter 73).

Additionally, land use in the Plan Area is governed at the Federal, state, and local levels through land use or management plans and zoning laws and regulations.

C.2.8 Traffic and Transportation

Vehicles on the interstate highway system may not exceed weight and size limits established by the Federal Highway Administration (Federal Highway Administration 2003). State departments of transportation typically set size and weight limits for vehicles traveling on state roads and permits are required for vehicles exceeding those limits. The following regulations define the traffic and transportation programs of each state in the Plan Area.

- 47 Oklahoma Statute Section 47-14. Regulates size, weight, and load of vehicles traveling on state roads in Oklahoma.
- 43 Texas Administrative Code 219. Regulates size, weight, and load of vehicles traveling on state roads in Texas.

- Arkansas Code Title 27-35. Regulates size, weight, and load of vehicles traveling on state roads in Arkansas.

In addition, counties within the Plan Area may require permits for oversize or overweight vehicles.

C.2.9 Socioeconomics and Environmental Justice

Executive Order 12898, Federal Actions to Address Environmental Justice in Minority Populations, instructs agencies to identify and address disproportionately high and adverse human health or environmental effects of its program, policies, and activities on minority and low-income populations. The Council on Environmental Quality Environmental Justice Guidance under the National Environmental Policy Act provides guidance for agencies in complying with EO 12898 within the NEPA process (Council on Environmental Quality 1997).

C.2.10 Public Health and Safety

The OSHA standards 1910 (general industry) and 1926 (construction) provide industry guidelines for worker safety and accident prevention (29 CFR Parts 1910 and 1926). These standards apply to general construction activities as well as electric power generation, transmission, and distribution.

The International Building Code is a model building code developed by the International Code Council and has been adopted by Oklahoma, Texas, and Arkansas. The International Building Code provides general health and safety standards for all construction activities, including construction and maintenance activities on electrical transmission lines and associated infrastructure.

Additionally, various counties and local municipalities in the Plan Area have established building and electrical regulations that govern the standards and safety practices of all general construction and electrical work within their jurisdiction.

Many states and local jurisdictions have property line-based noise level limits set for daytime and nighttime, with lower nighttime noise limits to account for people's increased sensitivity at night. Such property-line noise level limits are often expressed as a single value in terms of A-weighted decibels (dBA). However, the exact manner in which this is handled varies by jurisdiction. The EPA has also evaluated general public response to changes in noise levels (i.e., relative noise impacts) (U.S. Environmental Protection Agency 1974). In general, an increase above existing ambient noise levels of 5 decibels (dB) would be noticeable to most people and would be expected to elicit widespread complaints. An increase of 20 dB would be expected to result in vigorous community response. An increase of ambient noise levels of less than 3 dBA is generally considered insubstantial.

1.1 Proposed Action Overview

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) is preparing an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to evaluate the potential impacts associated with issuance of an incidental take permit (ITP) under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (ESA), for the proposed American Electric Power (AEP) Habitat Conservation Plan (HCP). AEP is preparing an HCP because their activities associated with construction, operation, and/or maintenance of electrical transmission and distribution lines have the potential to incidentally take the endangered American burying beetle (Nicrophorus americanus [ABB]) known to occur in the Plan Area, which includes sixty-two counties in eastern Oklahoma, western Arkansas, and northeastern Texas. AEP has requested incidental take coverage for the ABB, which is protected as endangered under the ESA.

The activities covered under the AEP HCP, referred to as Covered Activities, include activities associated with construction, operation, and/or maintenance of electrical transmission and distribution lines or other associated infrastructure that will occur in the Plan Area. A preliminary list of covered activities includes:

- Electric Transmission and Distribution Lines: Operations and maintenance activities
 - Facility inspections, including land surveys and engineering assessments conducted prior to new and/or rebuild construction
 - Emergency response and outage repair
 - Vegetation management
 - Insulator replacement
 - Structure maintenance
 - Underground electric maintenance
- Electric Transmission and Distribution Lines: New construction and rebuilds
 - Construction of new above-ground electric lines
 - Line upgrades
 - Support facilities construction
 - Access road construction
- Implementation of the Conservation Strategy
 - On-site restoration after construction
 - Purchase of mitigation bank credits off-site
 - Species monitoring
 - Other actions (TBD)

The proposed term of the AEP HCP is 30 years. AEP has requested a 30-year permit term to provide sufficient take coverage for its electric transmission and distribution system as well as to allow for sufficient conservation of species.

The EIS will evaluate the environmental impacts resulting from the issuance of an ITP for the AEP HCP, as well as reasonable alternatives to the proposed action.

1.2 Purpose of the Proposed Action

The purpose of the federal action is to review and approve a request for an ITP for the AEP HCP which, if granted, would authorize the incidental take of the endangered ABB resulting from electric transmission and distribution activities within the Plan Area. The purpose of the ITP issuance is to comply with the ESA by providing protection and conservation of certain listed species while enabling AEP to conduct legally authorized activities associated with their electric power operations. The ITP would also require implementation of the HCP.

Section 9 of ESA (16 United States Code [USC] 1531 et seq.) and its implementing regulations prohibit the take of animal species listed as endangered or threatened. The term take is defined in the ESA as: “to harass, harm, pursue, hunt, shoot, wound, kill, trap, capture, or collect, or attempt to engage in such conduct” (16 USC 1532(19)). Harass is further defined in the Service’s regulations as “an intentional or negligent act or omission which creates the likelihood of injury to wildlife by annoying it to such an extent as to significantly disrupt normal behavioral patterns which include, but are not limited to, breeding, feeding, or sheltering” (50 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] 17.3). Harm is further defined in the Service’s regulations as “an act which actually kills or injures listed wildlife. Such an act may include significant habitat modification or degradation where it actually kills or injures wildlife by significantly impairing essential behavioral patterns, including breeding, feeding, and sheltering” (50 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] 17.3).

Under Section 10(a) of ESA, the Service may issue permits to authorize incidental take of listed animal species. Incidental take is defined by the ESA as take that is “...incidental to, and not the purpose of, the carrying out of an otherwise lawful activity” (50 CFR 17.3). Section 10(a)(1)(B) of ESA contains provisions for issuing ITPs to non-federal entities for take of endangered and threatened species, provided the applicant prepares a conservation plan (ESA Section 10(a)(2)(A)) and satisfies the issuance criteria provided in ESA Section 10(a)(2)(B), which require that:

- The taking will be incidental.
- The applicant will, to the maximum extent practicable, minimize and mitigate the impacts of such taking.
- The applicant will ensure that adequate funding for the HCP and procedures to deal with unforeseen circumstances will be provided.
- The taking will not appreciably reduce the likelihood of survival and recovery of the species in the wild.
- The applicant will ensure that other measures that the Service may require as being necessary or appropriate will be provided.
- The Service has received such other assurances as may be required that the HCP will be implemented.

1.3 NEPA Compliance

The National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) states that any federal agency undertaking a “major federal action” likely to “significantly affect the quality of the human environment” must prepare an EIS (42 USC 4332(2)(C)). Significance is determined by evaluating the context and intensity of impacts, as defined in 40 CFR 1508.27. Based on these guidelines, the Service determined that issuance of an ITP under the proposed AEP HCP may have significant effects on the human environment and requires preparation of an EIS before a decision to issue federal permits is made.

The EIS will consider the impacts of the proposed action—the issuance of an ITP—on the human environment. The EIS will also include analysis of a reasonable range of alternatives to the proposed action. Alternatives considered in the EIS may include, but are not limited to, variations in the permit term or permit structure; the quantity of take permitted; the amount, location, and/or type of conservation, monitoring, or mitigation provided in the AEP HCP; the scope of Covered Activities; or a combination of these. Additionally, a No Action Alternative will be evaluated in the EIS. The No Action Alternative provides a baseline for comparing the effects of the proposed action and other action alternatives considered in the EIS.

The first formal step in the NEPA process is the scoping phase. The primary purpose of the scoping process is to provide interested parties such as the public, organizations, and agencies an opportunity to assist in developing the scope of the EIS analysis by identifying important issues and alternatives related to the proposed action that should be considered in the NEPA document.

This report summarizes comments, feedback, and input received during the 30-day scoping period for the AEP HCP EIS. The scoping period for this effort began January 19, 2017 and closed on February 21, 2017.

2.1 Scoping Notification

The scoping period was announced through a Notice of Intent (NOI) published in the Federal Register, through email distribution to stakeholders, through a news release distributed to regional and local media, and through a public notice placed in several newspapers within the Plan Area. As noted above, the scoping period began January 19, 2017 and closed on February 21, 2017.

2.1.1 Notice of Intent

The Service published an NOI in the Federal Register (www.federalregister.gov) on January 19, 2017 (82 FR 6625). The NOI provides background information on the proposed action, the HCP, ESA, and NEPA processes, as well as information on how to participate in the EIS scoping process. A copy of the NOI is provided in Appendix A.

2.1.2 News Release

A news release was posted on the Service's Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas Field Office websites January 19, 2017. The new release announced the scoping phase of the EIS, the dates and locations of public scoping meetings and information on how to provide written comments. A copy of the news release and the list of media outlets is provided in Appendix A.

2.1.3 Public Notice

A public notice was placed in five newspapers in the Plan Area where public meetings were held. The public notice included background information on the proposed action and the scoping phase of the EIS, the dates and locations of public scoping meetings and information on how to provide written comments. The public notice was published in the following newspapers:

- McAlester News-Capital – Sunday, January 22, 2017
- The Oklahoman - Monday, January 23, 2017
- Southwest Times Record (Fort Smith, AR) - Monday, January 23, 2017
- Texarkana Gazette - Monday, January 23, 2017
- Tulsa World – Monday, January 23, 2017

A copy of the public notice is provided in Appendix A.

2.1.4 Stakeholder Notification

A total of 116 contacts representing state and federal agencies were notified when the scoping process was initiated. The stakeholders were notified via mail or email regarding the intent to prepare an EIS, the scoping period, and how to provide a written comment. A copy of the stakeholder email letter distributed during the scoping period is included in Appendix A.

2.1.5 Tribal Notification

A notification was distributed by mail or email to 38 federally recognized Native American tribes within the three-state Plan Area of eastern Oklahoma, western Arkansas, and north-eastern Texas. The Service has contacted those tribes based on contact information gathered from past coordination and communications on other projects. The notification and list of tribal contacts are included in Appendix A.

2.1.6 Service Websites

Project information was distributed as an additional means of communicating with the public. Information about the EIS and HCP, including the dates and locations of the public scoping meetings were posted on the Oklahoma Ecological Services Office website, <http://www.fws.gov/southwest/es/Oklahoma/>; Arkansas Ecological Services Office website, <https://www.fws.gov/arkansas-es/>; and Arlington, Texas, Ecological Services Office website, <https://www.fws.gov/southwest/es/ArlingtonTexas/>. These website links were provided in the NOI and the link to the Oklahoma Ecological Services Office was provided in the public notice.

2.2 Public Scoping Meetings

Four public scoping meetings were held throughout the Plan Area in February 2017. The dates and locations of meetings are listed below.

Date and Time	Facility and Address
February 6, 2017 5:30-7:30 p.m. CST	Eastern Oklahoma State College, McAlester Campus Conference Center 1802 E. College Avenue, McAlester, OK 74501
February 7, 2017 5:30-7:30 p.m. CST	Texarkana College, Levi Hall Conference Room 2500 North Robison Road, Texarkana, TX 75599
February 8, 2017 5:30-7:30 p.m. CST	River Park Events Building, West Room 121 Riverfront Drive, Fort Smith, AR 72901
February 9, 2017 5:30-7:30 p.m. CST	Central Center Auditorium 1028 East 6 th Street, Tulsa, OK 74120

The primary purpose of the scoping meetings was to provide information to the public regarding the anticipated ITP application, draft HCP, and the Service's permitting process and associated environmental review and to solicit suggestions and information on the scope of issues and alternatives for the Service to consider when drafting the EIS. The public scoping meetings also provided an opportunity for the public to ask questions regarding the NEPA and ITP processes and the proposed HCP, discuss issues with Service staff, and provide written comments.

Each meeting started and ended as an open house, with a brief presentation on the proposed HCP and NEPA process provided by representatives of the Service about 30 minutes into each scoping meeting. A series of display boards were provided at each meeting describing the environmental review process, public involvement and how public input is used in the process, ESA and Incidental

Take Permits, HCP covered activities and Plan Area, and NEPA analysis and alternatives. Available handouts included a frequently asked questions document and a document detailing how to participate in the process. Comment forms were also available at each scoping meeting to aid attendees in providing scoping comments. Copies of all meeting materials are available in Appendix B.

The scoping meetings were attended by a total of 18 participants including individual citizens, state and federal agency representatives, and stakeholder organizations. The number of participants at each meeting is summarized below, and some individuals attended more than one meeting.

Date	February 6, 2017	February 7, 2017	February 8, 2017	February 9, 2017
City	McAlester, OK	Texarkana, TX	Fort Smith, AR	Tulsa, OK
Location	Eastern Oklahoma State College, McAlester Campus	Texarkana College, Truman Arnold Student Center	River Park Events Building	Central Center
Total Attendance	9	1	5	6

For purposes of recordkeeping and documentation for the administrative record, scoping comments were required to be submitted in writing. Scoping comments were submitted in hard copy format at the public scoping meetings, via U.S. mail, or electronically via email.

Chapter 3

Summary of Comments Received

During the scoping period, three written comments were received; one from a federal agency, one from a tribal organization, and one from a state agency. Comments were received via letter and email.

Appendix C contains a copy of all written comments received during the scoping period.

The purpose of this scoping report is to summarize the scoping comments for consideration in preparation of the EIS.

3.1 Comment Summary

One comment was received from the U.S. Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSMRE), a cooperating agency for the AEP HCP EIS. The comment stated that the OSMRE completed programmatic Section 7 consultations under a 1996 Biological Opinion, which was recently updated to the 2016 Biological Opinion. These opinions resulted in the Service's opinion that surface coal mining and reclamation operations conducted in accordance with properly implemented Federal and State regulatory programs are not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of listed or proposed species, and are not likely to result in the destruction or adverse modification of designated or proposed critical habitats. OSMRE also stated that they are currently preparing geospatial data that may be of use during the EIS scoping period and in the cumulative effects analysis. Once completed, OSMRE will provide the data to the Service via electronic transmittal.

One comment was received from the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma, who had no comments on the ITP or NEPA process, however, did ask to receive a copy of the EIS once it is available.

The third comment received was from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD). TPWD provided several recommendations for consideration in the HCP and the EIS. The comments were broken into the following categories:

American Burying Beetle

- Recommends the HCP include conducting valid and current ABB presence/absence surveys for activities in areas favorable for use by the ABB in Bowie, Fannin, Lamar, and Red River counties, Texas.
- Encourages mitigation in Texas for ABB habitat impacts that occur in Texas, to protect or restore ABB habitat in Texas. Additionally, TPWD recommends mitigation to include supporting research surveying for occupied habitat, habitat restoration and/or acquisition, and establishment of conservation easements.
- Notes that TPWD is currently funding an ABB survey effort which may result in adequate knowledge of the status of ABB in Texas. If data confirms ABB presence in Texas, TPWD recommends identifying a Texas Conservation Priority Area and developing a conservation bank.

Additional Species: Endangered Species

- Recommends the EIS assess potential impacts to all the threatened and endangered species identified in the AEP HCP EIS Federal Register notice, the bald eagle, the golden eagle, and the threatened red knot.
- For activities in or crossing the Red River, TPWD recommends the HCP include protections of sand bar habitat, protection of potential eagle nesting trees, and survey for interior least terns and bald eagles in areas of suitable habitat prior to construction during breeding and nesting season.

Additional Species: Migratory Birds

- Requests that the EIS evaluate impacts to migratory birds and that the HCP incorporate strategies for avoiding or minimizing impacts to migratory birds.
- Suggests the HCP and EIS address artificial nighttime lighting that can attract and disorient night-migrating birds. TPWD recommends AEP retrofit substations and other lighted infrastructure to minimize night-time light needed, and that lighting be down-shielded.

Additional Species: State-listed Species and Species of Greatest Conservation Need (SGCN)

- Recommends the EIS incorporate an assessment of potential impacts to state-listed species and SGCN. SGCN guidance can be found in the Texas Conservation Action Plan (TCAP).
- TPWD suggests reviewing the TCAP statewide handbook and additional ecoregion handbook for information on important habitats and SGCN, and incorporate TCAP priority issues and conservation needs into the EIS.
- Recommends that the HCP include a provision to report encounters of state-listed species, SGCN, and rare vegetative communities in the Plan Area within Texas to the Texas Natural Diversity Database. TPWD also notes that the Texas Natural Diversity Database is based on the best data available, is updated continuously, and the absence of information in the database does not imply that a species is absent from that area.

Additional Species: Invasive Species

- Recommends the EIS address invasive species prevention and management and that the HCP include provisions regarding invasive species. Specifically, TPWD calls attention to prevention of aquatic invasive species, and suggests a revegetation and maintenance plan to monitor, treat, and control invasive species within construction and operation right-of-ways.

Chapter 4

Next Steps in Planning Process

The Service will consider all of the public scoping comments in its development of the EIS. Public scoping comments help identify issues for analysis and alternatives within the EIS. The Service will develop a reasonable range of alternatives to the proposed action which will be carried forward for full analysis in the EIS. For each of the reasonable alternatives carried forward for full analysis, the EIS will identify potentially affected resources and assess potential impacts on each of those resources. If needed, measures to mitigate resource impacts will be included.

Following completion of the environmental review process, the Service will publish a Notice of Availability and a request for comments on the Draft EIS. The Draft AEP HCP will be released for public review and comment concurrent with the Draft EIS. A comment period of no less than 60 days will follow the publication of the Draft EIS and may include meetings to accommodate public participation. The Service will consider all comments on the Draft EIS in the preparation of the Final EIS, which will include responses to all substantive comments received. Following the comment period, the Draft EIS may be modified based on the substantive comments received.

When complete, the Final EIS and responses to substantive comments will be made available to the public for a minimum 30-day review period. A Record of Decision will be issued by the Service following the review period of the Final EIS.

Notice of Intent To Prepare a Draft Environmental Impact Statement for a Proposed Habitat Conservation Plan for the Endangered American Burying Beetle for American Electric Power in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of intent; announcement of meetings; request for comments.

SUMMARY: We, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service), are notifying the public that we intend to prepare a draft environmental impact statement
(EIS) to evaluate the impacts of alternatives relating to the proposed issuance of an Endangered Species Act (ESA) Incidental Take Permit (ITP) in response to the American Electric Power

Habitat Conservation Plan (HCP). The ITP is needed to cover incidental take of the endangered American burying beetle (ABB) from activities associated with construction, operation, and/or maintenance of electric transmission and distribution lines or other associated infrastructure. American Electric Power (AEP) intends to apply for an ITP under the ESA and agrees to develop and implement the proposed HCP. We also are announcing the initiation of a public scoping process to engage Federal, Tribal, State, and local governments and the public in the identification of issues and concerns, potential impacts, and possible alternatives to the proposed action.

DATES: In order to be included in the analysis, all comments must be received or postmarked by February 21, 2017. See SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION regarding meeting dates.

ADDRESSES: Please provide comments in writing, by one of the following methods:

Email: OKES_HCP_EIS@fws.gov;
Facsimile: 918-581-7467, Attn: OKES HCP EIS; or

U.S. mail: Field Supervisor,
Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 9014 E. 21st St., Tulsa, OK 74129.

Please specify that your information request or comments concern the AEP draft EIS/HCP (TE01909C).

See SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION regarding meeting locations.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Jonna Polk, by U.S. mail at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office, 9014 E. 21st St., Tulsa, OK 74129, or by phone at 918-581-7458. If you use a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD), please call the Federal Information Relay Service at 800-877-8339.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: We publish this notice in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA), as amended (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), and its implementing regulations (40 CFR 1501.7, 1506.6, and 1508.22), and section 10(c) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (the Act), as amended (16 U.S.C. 1539(c)). We intend to gather the information necessary to determine impacts and alternatives to support a decision regarding the potential issuance of an incidental take permit to AEP, and the implementation of the supporting draft habitat conservation plan (HCP).

Meeting Information

We will conduct four public scoping meetings within the 62-county proposed covered area, which includes the ABB range: Tulsa, OK; McAlester, OK; Fort Smith, AR; and Texarkana, TX. Exact meeting locations and times will be announced in local newspapers and on Service Web sites at least 2 weeks prior to each event (Oklahoma Ecological Services Office Web site, <http://www.fws.gov/southwest/es/Oklahoma/>; Arkansas Ecological Services Office Web site, <https://www.fws.gov/arkansas-es/>; and Arlington, Texas, Ecological Services Office Web site, <https://www.fws.gov/southwest/es/ArlingtonTexas/>). The scoping meetings will provide the public with an opportunity to ask questions and discuss issues with Service staff regarding the EIS and provide written comments.

Persons needing reasonable accommodations in order to attend and participate in a public meeting should contact us at the address listed in ADDRESSES no later than 1 week before the relevant public meeting. Information regarding this proposed action is available in alternative formats upon request.

We will accept written comments at each meeting. You may also submit written comments to the Field Supervisor at the email or U.S. mail addresses in ADDRESSES.

Background

Section 9 of the ESA prohibits “take” of fish and wildlife species listed as endangered or threatened (16 U.S.C. 1531–1544). Under section 3 of the ESA, the term “take” means to harass, harm, pursue, hunt, shoot, wound, kill, trap, capture, or collect, or to attempt to engage in any such conduct (16 U.S.C. 1532(19)). The term “harm” is further defined by regulation as an act that actually kills or injures wildlife. Such act may include significant habitat modification or degradation where it actually kills or injures wildlife by significantly impairing essential behavioral patterns, including breeding, feeding, or sheltering (50 CFR 17.3). The term “harass” is also further defined in the regulations as an intentional or negligent act or omission that creates the likelihood of injury to wildlife by annoying it to such an extent as to significantly disrupt normal behavioral patterns, which include, but are not limited to, breeding, feeding, or sheltering (50 CFR 17.3).

Under section 10(a)(1)(B) of the Act, the Secretary of the Interior may authorize the taking of federally listed species if such taking occurs incidental to otherwise legal activities and where a conservation plan has been developed under section 10(a)(2)(A) that describes:

(1) The impact that will likely result from such taking; (2) the steps an applicant will take to minimize and mitigate that take to the maximum extent practicable and the funding that will be available to implement such steps; (3) the alternative actions to such taking that an applicant considered and the reasons why such alternatives are not being utilized; and (4) other measures that the Service may require as being necessary or appropriate for the purposes of the plan. Issuance criteria under section 10(a)(2)(B) for an incidental take permit require the Service to find that: (1) The taking will be incidental to otherwise lawful activities; (2) an applicant will, to the maximum extent practicable, minimize and mitigate the impacts of such taking; (3) an applicant has ensured that adequate funding for the plan will be provided; (4) the taking will not appreciably reduce the likelihood of the survival and recovery of the species in the wild; and (5) the measures, if any, we require as necessary or appropriate for the purposes of the plan will be met. Regulations governing permits for endangered and threatened species are at 50 CFR 17.22 and 17.32, respectively.

Public Scoping

A primary purpose of the scoping process is to receive suggestions and information on the scope of issues and alternatives to consider when drafting the EIS, and to identify significant issues and reasonable alternatives related to the Service’s proposed action (issuance of the ITP under the AEP HCP). In order to ensure that we identify a range of issues and alternatives related to the proposed action, we invite comments and suggestions from all interested parties. We will conduct a review of this project according to the requirements of NEPA and its regulations, other relevant Federal laws, regulations, policies, and guidance, and our procedures for compliance with applicable regulations.

Once the draft EIS and draft HCP are completed, we will offer further opportunities for public comment on the content of these documents through additional public meetings and a 90-day public comment period.

Alternatives

No-Action Alternative

Under the no-action alternative, AEP would comply with the Act by avoiding impacts to (take of) the ABB where practicable. If take cannot be avoided and there is Federal involvement in the project (for example, a Federal permit, such as a Corps of Engineers section 404 Clean Water Act permit, authorization, or funding exists), AEP may receive take coverage through a biological opinion issued by the Service to the Federal action agency. If there is no Federal involvement in the project, AEP can apply for an incidental take permit from the Service. This approach is more time consuming and less efficient, because permits would need to be considered and processed one project at a time, which could result in an isolated, independent mitigation approach.

Proposed Alternative

The proposed action is issuance of an incidental take permit for the covered species during construction, operation, and/or maintenance of electric transmission and distribution lines or other associated infrastructure. The proposed HCP, which must meet the requirements in section 10(a)(2)(A) of the Act, would be developed in coordination with the Service and implemented by AEP. This alternative will allow for a comprehensive mitigation approach for authorized impacts and result in a more efficient and timely permit processing effort for the Service and AEP. Actions covered under the requested incidental take permit may include possible take of covered species associated with activities including, but not limited to, construction, operation, and/or maintenance of electric transmission and distribution lines or other associated infrastructure. The proposed permit submitted by American Energy Power provides coverage for a period of 30 years.

Sixty-two counties are in the proposed permit area, including Adair, Atoka, Bryan, Carter, Cherokee, Choctaw, Cleveland, Coal, Craig, Creek, Delaware, Garvin, Haskell, Hughes, Johnston, Kay, Latimer, Le Flore, Lincoln, Logan, Love, Marshall, Mayes, McClain, McCurtain, McIntosh, Murray, Muskogee, Noble, Nowata, Okfuskee, Oklahoma, Okmulgee, Osage, Ottawa, Pawnee, Payne, Pittsburg, Pontotoc, Pottawatomie, Pushmataha, Rogers, Seminole, Sequoyah, Tulsa, Wagoner, and Washington Counties in Oklahoma; Clark, Crawford, Franklin, Hempstead, Johnson, Little River, Logan, Miller, Sebastian, Scott, and Yell Counties in Arkansas; and Bowie, Fannin, Lamar, and Red River Counties in Texas. The species covered under the requested incidental take permit is the ABB. We will be evaluating whether the covered activities will impact other species and whether they should be included on the permit or if management practices can be implemented that are sufficient to avoid take. These species and their legal status include:

- American alligator (Alligator mississippiensis)—Threatened (Similarity of Appearance)
- Arkansas fatmucket (Lampsilis powellii)—Threatened
- Arkansas River shiner (Notropis girardi)—Threatened, Arkansas R. Basin population, with Critical Habitat
- Gray bat (Myotis grisescens)—Endangered
- Harperella (Ptilimnium nodosum)—Endangered
- Indiana bat (Myotis sodalis)—Endangered
- Least tern (Sterna antillarum [now recognized as a subspecies athalassos])—Endangered, interior population
- Leopard darter (Percina pantherina)—Threatened with Critical Habitat
- Neosho madtom (Noturus placidus)—Threatened
- Neosho mucket (Lampsilis rafinesqueana)—Endangered with Critical Habitat
- Northern long-eared bat (Myotis septentrionalis)—Threatened
- Ouachita Rock pocketbook (Arkansia wheeleri)—Endangered
- Ozark big-eared bat (Corynorhinus townsendii ingens)—Endangered
- Ozark cavefish (Amblyopsis rosae)—Threatened
- Pink mucket (Lampsilis abrupta)—Endangered
- Piping plover (Charadrius melodus)—Threatened; except Great Lakes watershed population
- Rabbitsfoot (Quadrula cylindrica cylindrica)—Threatened with Critical Habitat
- Red-cockaded woodpecker (Picoides borealis)—Endangered
- Scaleshell mussel (Leptodea leptodon)—Endangered
- Spectaclecase (Cumberlandia monodonta)—Endangered
- Whooping crane (Grus americana)—Endangered; except in the experimental population area
- Winged mapleleaf (Quadrula fragosa)—Endangered; except where listed as experimental populations

We do not anticipate that covered activities will result in take of all these species, but we seek comments to help inform our evaluation.

We also will evaluate whether covered activities are likely to impact the bald eagle (Haliaeetus leucocephalus) and golden eagle (Aquila chrysaetos), protected under the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act (16 U.S.C. 668 et seq.).

Other Alternatives

We seek information regarding other reasonable alternatives during this scoping period and will evaluate the impacts associated with such alternatives in the draft EIS.

Public Availability of Comments

Written comments we receive become part of the public record associated with this action. Before including your address, phone number, email address, or other personal identifying information in your comment, you should be aware that the entire comment—including your personal identifying information—may be made publicly available at any time. While you can ask us in your comment to withhold your personal identifying information from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so.

Comments and materials we receive, as well as supporting documentation we use in preparing the EIS, will be available for public inspection, by appointment, during normal business hours at the Service's Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office in Tulsa, Oklahoma, (see ADDRESSES, above).

Service Announces Public Scoping Process For American Electric Power's Proposed Conservation Plan for the American Burying Beetle

Project Covers 62 Counties in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas

American Electric Power is developing a Habitat Conservation Plan (HCP) to address impacts to the endangered American burying beetle (ABB) that may result from the construction, operation and/or maintenance of electric transmission and distribution lines or other associated infrastructure in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas. The draft HCP would accompany American Electric Power's request for an Incidental Take Permit (ITP).

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will prepare a draft Environmental Impact Statement (dEIS) to evaluate the impacts associated with alternatives associated with issuing the ITP to American Electric Power. The Service's dEIS will consider the proposed issuance of an Incidental Take Permit, supported by an HCP and a no action alternative. We are requesting public comment on the scope of the issues that the Service should consider in its environmental review of the proposed permit under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The Service will use the comments as part of the development of the environmental review as required by NEPA.

Written comments on alternatives and issues to be addressed must be received by the close of business on February 21, 2017. Comments may be submitted to the Service in one of the following ways:

- Electronically: OKES_HCP_EIS@fws.gov; or
- Fax: 918-581-7467, Attn: OKES HCP EIS; or
- U.S. Mail: Field Supervisor, Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 9014 E. 21st Street, Tulsa, OK 74129.

During the 30-day public comment period, four public scoping meetings will be held from 5:30 p.m. – 7:30 p.m. in the following locations:

Arkansas museum offers a piece of U.S. history, as told by purses

Kay & David Scott
CNHI TRAVEL WRITERS

Last September we visited Arkansas for a canoe trip on the Buffalo National River, a visit to a Hot Springs bathhouse and a tour of Fort Smith National Historic Site. One of our most interesting discoveries during that trip – at least for one of us – was a Little Rock museum that offers a window into American history through the prism of purses and handbags.

It was yet another example of the unexpected pleasures encountered by travelers.

Purses have held a special place in my heart since I was a little girl. The first purse I remember owning was a small wooden box with a plastic handle. A design was painted on the front, and the box didn't hold much more than a handkerchief, but it was all I needed as an 8-year-old.

I am now the owner of several purses – well, maybe more than several – all of which I use, at least occasionally. So I wouldn't call myself a collector, at least compared with Anita Davis.

Anita, owner of Little Rock's ESSE Purse Museum and Store, told me the fascinating story of her business.

Collecting purses was her primary interest for more than 30 years, though she casually mentioned an interest in collecting other things. I asked if shoes might be one of these. She smiled and nodded.

Until 10 years ago, her attic served as a storehouse for a collection of more than 2,000 purses. Deciding to share her treasure trove with the public, Anita hired two people to inventory the collection and help select several hundred that could illustrate a history of purses.

The exhibit was well received as it toured small history museums throughout the United States from 2006 through 2011. Its success led Anita to consider a permanent location for a display of a more extensive version of her collection.

In 2004, the budding entrepreneur began acquiring property in an area of Little Rock that had suffered decay and was sorely in need of revitalization.

A community activist, Anita acquired and converted an empty lot into a garden, and she offered the public access. The garden is now used for special events such as the annual Arkansas Cornbread Festival, and each Sunday from April to November, a farmers' market.

By the time the traveling exhibit returned to Little Rock, Anita had settled on a suitable building for the museum. It was built in 1946 – the year she was born.

Hoping to show visitors both purses that women carried, and what they carried, Anita knew some additional collecting was required. However, we're talking about an experienced collector here.

She shouldered the search for new exhibits as a challenge, rather than a burden.

The ESSE Purse Museum and Store opened in June 2013 with the theme "What's Inside A Century of Women and Handbags 1900 - 1999".

The museum features 10 showcases, each representing a decade, with a sampling of purses, objects carried in purses and a picture or two of women carrying purses. Each showcase describes important events that occurred during the period.

Additional thematic displays focus on evening bags ("A Night on the Town") and suitcases, bags and other travel accessories ("By Land, Sea, or Air").

It wasn't until the museum opened, Anita said, that she realized what she had created – a museum of American women's history.

As a fancier of purses, strolling through the museum and recognizing those similar to ones owned by my mother, grandmothers, aunts, sisters and, of course, myself, was a nostalgic journey. Seeing the purses brought back pleasant memories of shopping with my mother, going out on dates, and digging around for coins, lipstick and the key to our house.

MID-CENTURY PURSES collected by the ESSE Purse Museum and Store reflect postwar prosperity, from a time when the GI Bill allowed families to purchase new homes and appliances that made housework easier.

The museum has temporary exhibits showcasing handbag designers and their work. The special exhibit on display when I visited was "The Art of the Handbag," featuring designs by the visual artist Kent Stetson.

His paintings weren't selling, so he decided to turn one into a handbag. It sold quickly in the shoe store where he worked, and the rest is history.

An our-long visit to Anita's museum was certainly worth the $10 entry fee, and while I departed before making a purchase, the museum offers a website for those who leave empty handed. (www.essepursemuseum.com)

When I asked how she chose the name of her museum, Anita noted that "esse" is Latin for "to be." She added, "A woman's purse holds her identity and tells who she is."

Now, I think it's time to clean out mine and discard some things.

Kay Scott has been collecting purses and handbags since age 8. She and David Scott are authors of "Complete Guide to the National Park Lodges" (Globe Pequot). Visit them at www.valdosta.edu/~dscott.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Draft Environmental Impact Statement

American Electric Power Habitat Conservation Plan

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to Host Public Scoping Meetings for the American Electric Power Habitat Conservation Plan Environmental Impact Statement

The American Electric Power (AEP) company is preparing a Habitat Conservation Plan (HCP) and intends to apply for an incidental Take Permit (ITP) under the Endangered Species Act. The ITP is needed to cover incidental take of the endangered American burying beetle from activities associated with construction, operation, and/or maintenance of electrical transmission and distribution lines or other associated infrastructure in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) intends to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to evaluate the impacts of alternatives relating to the proposed issuance of the ITP and has initiated the public scoping process. A primary purpose of the scoping process is to engage federal, tribal, state and local governments and the public in the identification of issues and concerns, potential impacts, and possible alternatives to the proposed action (issuance of the ITP).

Public Scoping Meetings

The Service will host four public scoping meetings within the proposed covered area. The public scoping meetings will provide the public with an opportunity to ask questions and discuss issues with Service staff regarding the EIS and provide written comments. Public scoping meetings will be held at the following dates and locations:

Monday, February 6, 2017
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Eastern Oklahoma State College
McAlester Campus
Conference Center
1802 E College Avenue
McAlester, OK 74501

Wednesday, February 8, 2017
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
River Park Events Building
West Room
121 Riverfront Drive
Fort Smith, AR 72901

Tuesday, February 7, 2017
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Tulane University
Truman Arnold Student Center
Levi Hall Conference Room
2500 North Robinson Road
Tulsa, TX 75599

Thursday, February 9, 2017
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Central Center Auditorium
1028 East 6th Street
Tulsa, OK 74120

The public scoping meetings will be held in an open house format with a brief presentation at approximately 6:00 p.m. After the presentation, the open house will resume.

The Service will accept written comments at each meeting. Comments can also be submitted by email to CKES_HCP_EIS@fws.gov, or mailed to Field Supervisor, Oklahoma Ecological Services Field Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 9014 E. 21st St., Tulsa, OK 74129. Please specify that your information request or comments concern the AEP draft EIS/HCP. Scoping comments are due by February 21, 2017.
